

NETHERLANDS AND BELGIUM ARE INVADED BY LAND AND AIR

Georgia Power Deal Rejected, Says Arkwright

'Speculator's Proposition' Declared Contrary To All Interests.

Terming "a Rip Van Winkle proposition" the revival of a year-old rumor of proposed sale of Georgia Power Company to a Georgia syndicate, Preston Arkwright, president, yesterday declared the whole proposal was "a speculator's proposition" and that to suggest lifting the utility from the integrated Commonwealth & Southern system would be like proposing "to buy the archway of your house and let the rest of the structure fall in."

He also cited a letter of November 4, 1933, by Wendell L. Willkie, president of Commonwealth and Southern, discussing the rumor which then was afloat and declaring it baseless, adding: "If there is any way that you think I can make this language stronger so as to indicate that we are not even considering such a sale, I will make it so."

Deal Sponsors Named.

The story as revived yesterday in a Washington news dispatch and published in Atlanta said the deal was being fostered by Richard W. Courts Jr., of Courts & Company, brokers, and that most of the money would be supplied by Georgians. Mr. Courts could not be reached for comment.

It was set forth in the story that operation of the company as a single unit would end any S. E. C. control and would terminate holding company affiliations.

Worth of the company was placed at $300,000,000. Mr. Arkwright declared that efforts had been made through J. P. Morgan & Company, Secretary of the Interior Harold Ickes, James Roosevelt and a member of the Securities and Exchange Commission to interest the company in the proposition.

"No" Final, He Says.

"It is just a question of not understanding when 'No' is said in a polite way," he declared.

Higher operating costs immediately would result if the company were to be isolated from its companion utilities in the southeastern group, he pointed out, and said this would reduce dividends to those making the purchase.

"This talk is a lot of silly foolishness," he declared. "It sounds to me something like a Rip Van Winkle proposition. It is a revival of a rumor circulated more than a year ago—a rumor that was nailed, we had hoped, at the time by the president of the Commonwealth & Southern Corporation.

"There are numberless good reasons why such a proposition isn't worth talking about.

"Against Public Interest."

"For one thing, such a sale would be utterly uneconomic and against the public interest—would increase costs of operation and lift the Georgia Power Company out of an integrated system such as someone might propose to buy the archway of your house and let the rest of the structure fall in.

"For another thing, this isn't a business for traders, and all this thing is—to the extent it is anything—is a trader's or speculator's proposition.

"Another excellent reason is that the common stock of this company or of any other utility company is such a poor and risky investment, what with high wages, high taxes, governmental competition and like factors, that no responsible person would permit the small investor to sink savings, or the widow her life insurance money, into it. The large investor wouldn't be attracted because there is no hope of immediate profit. The only person who ever made any money out of a utility was the person who sold it."

PYRE OF DEATH—This is the flaming wreckage of one of the two planes involved in a crash near the Vultee aircraft factory at Downey, Cal., yesterday. Three persons were cremated after the plane fell to the ground when it collided with a military pursuit ship. The pursuit ship, however, landed safely. (Story on Page 18.)

Georgia Patrol Dedicates New Radio Station

Sheriffs and Police Visit Headquarters Here To Inspect WGSP.

North Georgia's sheriffs and police chiefs, from the little towns and counties and the big ones, rammed through the Georgia State Patrol headquarters on Confederate avenue yesterday afternoon specifically intent on helping Commissioner Lon Sullivan dedicate the patrol's new 1,000-watt short wave police radio, WGSP.

At 4:30 o'clock the program got underway with proceedings being broadcast. Major Sullivan said the station was the first in a network of three or four to be erected throughout the state to give complete radio coverage. The first unit, built at a cost of $15,000, is in direct one-way contact with the 40 state patrol cars serving the first four patrol districts (north Georgia) and is in 24-hour operation.

Operating with a 275-foot antenna, the station covers day and night all Georgia north of LaGrange, Macon and Augusta, Sullivan said, pointing out 57 lookout calls had been handled since the installation was completed April 28. Of this number 33 were for stolen cars, 12 of which have been recovered, one within 46 minutes after the broadcast.

(Georgians have as good a chance as any people to escape highway deaths. See story and pictures on Page 15.)

'We Are Now Allies of Britain And France,' Netherlands Declares

LONDON, May 10.—(AP)—The Netherlands legation in London said today that "We are now allies of Britain and France."

"Our appeal for aid sent to the Allied governments has been answered and Britain and France are going to our assistance immediately," the legation announced.

Invasion of Low Countries Causes Consternation in London

LONDON (Friday), May 10.—(UP)—The German invasion of the Low Countries caused consternation here today.

The first reaction of authorities was that the move was designed to pave the way for the air and sea campaign against Britain regarding which Prime Minister Chamberlain warned the house of commons this week.

If the Germans succeed in seizing the Belgian and Dutch air fields they will have air bases, at some places, within no more than 125 miles of the British coast.

'I and My Government Will Do Our Duty,' Queen Wilhelmina Says

THE HAGUE (Friday), May 10.—(UP)—Queen Wilhelmina said today in a statement on the German invasion of the country that "I and my government will do our duty."

The beloved Queen, in a proclamation to her people, said: "After our country, with scrupulous conscientiousness, had observed strict neutrality during all these months, and while Holland had no other plan than to maintain strictly this attitude, Germany, last night, made a sudden attack on our territory without any warning."

Anti-Aircraft Guns on Thames Open Fire on Enemy Warplanes

LONDON, May 10.—(Friday)—Anti-aircraft firing started over the Thames estuary early today. The enemy planes, targets of the batteries, were flying in an easterly direction. The firing awakened residents at 4:40 a. m. (10:40 p. m. Atlanta time Thursday.) Airplanes were heard over the vicinity and puffs of smoke were seen in the sky over the estuary.

Second Longest Air Raid Alarm Of War Rouses Sleeping Paris

PARIS, May 10.—(AP)—The second longest air raid alarm of the war, 1 hour and 48 minutes, roused sleeping Paris early this morning.

Anti-aircraft fire was heard above the sound of wailing sirens.

All Transfers of U. S. Navy Officers With Pacific Fleet Postponed

HONOLULU, May 9.—(UP)—All routine transfers of all officers with the United States battle fleet have been indefinitely postponed while the fleet continues its maneuvers in Hawaiian waters, it was revealed unofficially today.

Roosevelt Calls Hull, Military Chiefs to Parley

Orders Invaded Nations' Funds Frozen Before Market Opens.

WASHINGTON, May 10.—President Roosevelt today ordered all Belgian, Dutch and Luxembourg credits and cash balances in this country "frozen" and summoned chiefs of the State, War and Navy services to a 10:30 a. m. conference to consider pressing problems on neutrality.

In a telephone call to Secretary of the Treasury Henry Morgenthau Jr. early this morning Mr. Roosevelt instructed him to take action before the markets open this morning to "impound" credits and cash balances held by the neutral Lowland countries into which the war extended last night.

Told of Bombings.

Mr. Roosevelt also: 1. Disclosed through his secretary that the United States minister to Brussels, John Cudahy, has informed him definitely that Belgian airports around Brussels are being bombed.

2. Summoned Secretary of State Cordell Hull, Undersecretary Sumner Welles, General George C. Marshall, army chief of staff; Admiral Harold R. Stark, chief of naval operations, and Attorney General Robert H. Jackson to the White House for an extraordinary conference at 10:30 a. m.

Through his secretary, Stephen T. Early, Mr. Roosevelt posed the question, "Who did the invading?" And let it speak for itself in placing blame for broadening of the European war front.

Other Invasions Cited.

"Apparently, from press and radio reports, this action has followed previous actions in Denmark and Norway," Early said at an unprecedented conference at 1:35 a. m.

"The Germans say they have evidence that France and Great Britain were going to take over and attack them through Belgium and Holland, but the question speaks for itself—who invaded?"

(At the conference of high officials, the question of Dutch and Belgian flagships now in the ports of the American republics will be considered, the Associated Press said.)

Mr. Roosevelt from his quiet oval study on the second floor of the White House had mobilized the full resources of his government to meet the most serious crisis since the war began.

Tries To Reach Bullitt.

He twice talked by trans-Atlantic telephone to Cudahy at Brussels and Early said that Cudahy informed him "definitely and officially that Belgian airports around Brussels are being bombed."

Early said the White House as yet cannot confirm that Holland officially is at war with Germany but admitted that Mr. Roosevelt had received unofficial reports to that effect.

Mr. Roosevelt's efforts to communicate with Luxembourg by long distance telephone were ineffectual and attempts to reach United States Ambassador William C. Bullitt at Paris were met with the answer that "atmospheric conditions are unfavorable."

To Study Problems.

Early said that the conference at 10:30 a. m. would consider pressing problems of defining areas into which American ships may now proceed. But the presence of the army chief of staff and the chief of naval operations at the unprecedented conference suggested an even deeper significance. Neither had participated in previous White House conferences in which combat areas were defined into which American ships may not proceed.

Morgenthau's action to freeze Luxembourg, Holland and Belgian credits follows a precedent set in impounding Norwegian and Danish credits after a European war reached into the European peninsula. Morgenthau can act under provisions of a bill signed only this week by the President, specifically giving him such powers.

INVADED—Queen Wilhelmina's country this morning became the latest victim of the Nazi invaders as they hurled troops into the small neutral nation in a "blitzkrieg" attack.

Chamberlain's Cabinet Seen As Tottering

Churchill or Halifax Are Mentioned as Successor to Premier.

By The Associated Press. LONDON, May 9.—Prime Minister Chamberlain was reported tonight to have failed in his first attempt to form a reconstructed cabinet under his standard to mollify a nation aroused and angry at "bungling" in Norway.

Labor leaders refused to come into such a government, and thereby Chamberlain edged nearer to resignation.

Foreign Secretary, Lord Halifax and First Lord of the Admiralty Winston Churchill were also present at the conference, with labor leaders. It is likely that if a new prime minister emerges from the political crisis it will be one of these two.

Three Likely Names

The lobby correspondent of Reuters, British news agency, said in a midnight review of the government crisis that Chamberlain's departure "is almost certain."

He named Lord Halifax, Churchill and David Lloyd George as the three most likely names from which a new prime minister would be chosen, and added the belief that Churchill would be the most likely selection.

This commentator said it was believed that Labor would serve under Churchill.

Churchill Stand.

(Prominent Conservatives predicted tonight that a new government headed by fiery Winston Churchill, first lord of the admiralty, will be formed during the week end or early next week, the United Press said. Churchill was said to have refused to serve under Lord Halifax, thereby further weakening any chances that the latter might have for the premiership.)

Even as the prime minister sought to find a political solution to his troubles, the admiralty announced hard blows in vigorous new British submarine attacks on three German convoys and other ships at an unannounced location. At least 12 torpedo hits were reported by the admiralty, with one German ship sunk and another damaged.

GERMAN BOMBERS RAID LYONS, FRANCE; AIRPORT ATTACKED

Germans Assault Luxembourg Also; Nazi Troops Parachute to Earth; Holland Declares War on Reich.

LONDON, May 10.—(AP)—A Reuter's (British news agency) dispatch from Paris said that the airdrome at Lyons, France, was bombed early this morning.

By THE UNITED PRESS.

Germany broke the European war wide open at dawn Friday with lightning air and land attacks which smashed into Holland, Belgium and Luxembourg without warning.

The dreaded Nazi air force descended in swarms on dozens of cities, bombed airdromes and landed hundreds of parachute troops heavily armed with automatic weapons.

Paul Joseph Goebbels, Nazi propaganda minister, in a radiocast said that Germany acted because of plans by Britain and France to invade the lowland countries. He said Dutch and Belgian resistance would be crushed.

Declares War.

Holland formally declared war on Germany and pledged never to enter negotiations with the enemy.

The attacks, led by scores of German warplanes and followed by frontier attacks by land troops, apparently came simultaneously although the news first reached the outside world from Holland when Dutch anti-aircraft batteries and fighter planes engaged the German raiders in fierce battle.

Holland and Belgium made urgent pleas to Britain and France for aid.

The Luxembourg government reportedly had fled. Dozens of airdromes, some of them in the immediate vicinity of populous cities, were showered with bombs. Nazi warplanes came from Germany in wave after wave of large formations, some of them dropping high explosives and others landing German troops—some of which were said to be clothed in military uniforms of the invaded countries.

Dikes Opened.

Holland authorities said the dikes had been opened and inundation of a large part of the country carried out according to defense plans.

German bombers appeared simultaneously over the Thames estuary, bringing British anti-aircraft guns into action. No bombs were dropped and it was believed this contingent of the German air force was charged with creating a diversion and preventing any quick British air aid to Holland or Belgium, across the narrow English channel.

The British foreign office, oddly enough, picked this time to announce that British forces had landed in Iceland and taken possession of this Danish protectorate since Germany was in control of Denmark.

Allies To Rush Aid.

It was certain that Allied forces would be rushed to oppose the German invaders of the Lowlands—right across the channel from Britain and next door to France on the northern flank of the Maginot Line.

The blitzkrieg tactics which conquered Norway in a few days were followed in Germany's "total war" against Holland and Belgium—including propaganda messages to the attacked peoples.

Meanwhile, the governments of Holland and Belgium have requested Allied assistance to repel a German invasion, it was announced in London.

An official statement said: "It is confirmed in official quarters in London that appeals for assistance have been received from the Belgian and Dutch governments and that these governments have been told that His Majesty's government will, of course, tender all the help they can."

The Netherlands' legation in London announced that "our appeal for aid sent to the Allied governments has been answered and Britain and France are coming to our assistance immediately."

The French war office prepared in advance to protect Belgium if invaded by Germany has been put into operation, it was announced in Paris.

To Gain Bases.

German invasion of the lowland countries apparently is designed to gain bases for devastating air and sea attacks on the British Isles—of which Prime Minister Neville Chamberlain said today.

5,000 To Meet In Athens for Livestock Day

Practical Demonstrations of Modern Farming Will Be Given.

Special to THE CONSTITUTION. ATHENS, Ga., May 9.—Five thousand Georgia farmers will gather at the College of Agriculture here tomorrow for the annual Livestock and Equipment Day demonstration sponsored by the regents of the university system. Practical demonstrations of modern ern farming methods as developed by the college of agriculture will highlight the day-long program. Among other things, farmers will see $50,000 worth of modern farm machinery in action, a demonstration of best methods of fitting beef cattle for market, an exhibit of walking horses, a flower show, a parade of livestock champions chosen at the Little International, a riding and jumping demonstration by cavalry officers and students, and the milking of the college dairy herd.

In addition, those attending will be shown the agronomy plots where tests on varieties of grain, legumes and fertilizers are under way, the poultry exhibits, the experimental house, the hog barn, the horticulture farm, where vegetable tests are under way, the poultry department and the sheep barn.

Monthly meeting of the board of regents will be held in Athens in order that the regents may participate in the program. Members of the regents' agricultural committee are Cason Callaway, chairman; Major Clark Howell, Knox Gholston and J. D. Gardner.

No 'Moral Views' In Class—Russell

CAMBRIDGE, Mass., May 9.—(AP)—Bertrand Russell, English philosopher, whose appointment to the Harvard faculty has been criticized adversely because of his views on sex and social relationships, declared today that he never had any intentions of expressing his "moral views" in the classroom.

In a letter to the Harvard Crimson, undergraduate daily newspaper, Russell said: "Even if I am permitted to expound my normal views in the classroom, my conscience would not allow me to do so, since they have no connection with the subjects which it is my profession to teach, and I think that the classroom should not be used as an opportunity for propaganda on any subject."

SWEDISH SHIP SUNK. STOCKHOLM, May 9.—(AP)—The 1,296-ton Swedish freighter Haga today was reported sunk by a mine, with four of her crew killed and the remainder picked up by a submarine.

Atlanta Gland Clinic's Work First in U. S.

New Disease Treatment Launched by Group 17 Years Ago.

By HAROLD MARTIN. Four hundred years before Christ's birth Chinese healers took from the bodies of animals certain small glands, dried them, chopped them up and gave them to the sick.

They didn't know why, any more than they knew why they gave their patients the dried bodies of spiders and lizards as medicines.

Nearly 50 years ago in England a great surgeon noted that folk from whom he had removed goiters afterward became lethargic, both physically and mentally. He knew that he had taken from them in the course of the operation something that they needed.

He took the thyroid glands of animals and sliced them thin and gave them to these sluggish patients between two slices of bread. They got better. He took the juice of these glands and injected it. Later he powdered them and made a pure form of thyroid extract.

The first dim beginnings of endocrinology, the treatment of disease by the adjustment of the function of the ductless glands, had been made.

Clinic 17 Years Old. Seventeen years ago this month, in the office of the late Hollins N. Randolph in the Healey building, a little group of Atlanta business men gathered to listen to a noted Atlanta physician talk about the mysterious power of these tiny glands.

They didn't know anything about medicine. But they did know when a man was in deadly earnest about a human need.

When Dr. Arch. Elkin had finished talking, they had learned:

That these tiny glands, tucked away in brain and chest and abdomen, set the pattern of a human life. They make a man fat or thin, gigantic in stature or dwarf-like, calm and methodical or excitable and nervous, hairy or bald.

When badly out of kilter, they can lead to insanity or death.

Pledged Financial Aid. When he had finished they set their names to a pledge of money—Hollins Randolph, W. W. Banks, Forrest Adair, Samuel Dobbs, Lindsey Hopkins, Frank Hawkins, J. A. McCord—and the Good Samaritan Clinic, for treatment of diseases of the ductless glands, had been founded; the first of its kind ever to be established in this country entirely disassociated from any other medical center.

Since that time, for 17 years, the Good Samaritan Clinic of Atlanta has been leading the nation in glandular work. Medicine is slow to adopt new things, slow to venture into new fields. There is no chair of endocrinology at any medical school. Doctors seeking knowledge must get it after college.

Many of them get it here. They come from all over the country to observe the work that is being done. One famous eastern physician in Vienna turned to the present director after observing at a thyroid clinic and said:

"I have learned more in one hour here with you than I learned in two months in Europe. They showed me pictures. You showed me patients."

Numerous Patients. They have had plenty of patients to show. Thousands have come, taxing the capacity of the clinic beyond its powers. But its growth has been steady. Four years after its founding, city and county, seeing the marvelous work that was being done, gave $5,000 a year each to its support.

The Junior League helped by supplying equipment. They have just bought a new and badly needed machine used in diagnosis. The late Lindsey Hopkins, one of the original founders, himself gave the $25,000 that made the present home on Alexander street possible.

Atlanta's finest doctors in all fields labor without pay on the clinic's medical staff. The job has been a burden to many, but still they have unselfishly given their time and their talent.

They are learning all the time, and much that they have learned has gone first into medical analysis.

Goiter Treatment. It was a Good Samaritan doctor who learned the value of iodine in goiter treatment, long before it was accepted in the north.

It was clinic research that established the fact that misshapen mouths and crooked teeth did not come from bad tonsils and thumb-sucking, but from glandular disease.

Every day, in the clinics, or in the laboratories in the basement of the little building on Alexander street, something new is learned. More and more the part the glands play in human welfare is coming to light.

It may be, in years to come, one great means of decreasing the crime problem. Nearly every criminal is a glandular case, prison doctors believe. These adult behavior problem children are generally too old to be much changed by treatment.

The clinic operates under city and by gifts. But in the rest of Georgia there are no such clinics.

Outside this county, there is nowhere a gland sufferer can go. It is so chartered that it could establish subsidiary clinics throughout the state, if the state would help support them.

That is the new vision of the men who are now trustees, the successors to those who founded the clinic 17 years ago.

Lay members of this modern group are: Joseph A. McCord, president emeritus; M. M. Rolleston, president; Julian Bohm and J. Turner Fitter, vice presidents; L. D. Sharp, treasurer; Al Belle Isle, Dean Raimundo de Ovies, Lindsey Hopkins Jr., Willis J. Milner Jr. and Harry Sommers, trustees.

Medical trustees, in addition to 20 others who serve on the staff, are: Dr. J. X. Fancher, director of the clinic; Dr. Charles E. Boynton, Dr. Grady Clay, Dr. Gaston Gray, Dr. Edgar H. Greene, Dr. C. C. Hoard and Dr. T. M. Howard, Dr. Hugh M. Lokey and Dr. Floyd W. McRae.

Young Methodists To Hold Banquet

Young people of the First Methodist church of Decatur will hold their annual spring banquet at 7 o'clock next Thursday night in the church dining room.

Prizes will be awarded for the most original costumes, according to plans announced yesterday by Arthur Bishop, president of the Young Peoples' League. Co-sponsor of the party will be the church's Hi-League.

Committee chairmen are Ann Kirby, general; Tommie Hudson and Mildred Tilly, food; Mrs. John McKinley, program; Nell Franklin, speakers; Fairfield Langlet, ticket sales; Mrs. Bob Patterson, place cards; Ellen Johnson and Nell Franklin, decorations; Arthur Bishop, properties; Betty Cooper, serving; Kate Allison, table setting; Jimmy Starnes, skit, and Milton Allen, publicity.

Flower Show Seen by 10,000 Before It Ends

Event Called 'Most Successful' in History of Atlanta.

When the last of some 10,000 Atlantans had finished "oing" and "ahing" at the beauty of a transplanted garden wonderland, the fifth annual Atlanta Flower Show, and the first held in the municipal Auditorium, came to a successful close shortly after 10 o'clock last night.

It was the biggest and most successful event of its kind ever held in Atlanta, and the exhibits won praise from the National Flower Show judges, both for arrangements and for the texture of the blooms themselves.

Special visitors yesterday were school children, who were admitted at a special price between 10 o'clock and 1 o'clock. The Auditorium, which was dressed to resemble a large outdoor garden, was decorated by Mrs. Norman Cooledge and Mrs. George Campbell Sr., both of the Primrose Garden Club. Pine trees, magnolias, boxwood and plots of grass had been transplanted. Flower show officials said the finest blooms in Georgia were exhibited at this year's show.

Former U. S. Flyer Wounded by Nazis

LONDON, May 9.—(P)—Whitney Straight, socially prominent former New York flyer and automobile racer, is in a royal air force hospital with a head wound received in active service.

American-born flyer, now a squadron leader in the R. A. F., said in a telegram to his titled wife, Lady Daphne Straight. Straight, who became a naturalized Briton in 1936, is a grandson of the late William C. Whitney, one-time secretary of the United States navy, and a nephew of the late Harry Payne Whitney. His wife is the daughter of the Earl of Winchelsea and the Countess of Winchelsea. The countess was Miss Margaretta Drexel, only daughter of the late Anthony J. Drexel, of Philadelphia.

British Describe Perilous Journey

A NORTHERN BRITISH PORT, May 9.—(P)—Seven British soldiers and two Norwegian seamen told today how they became separated from their buddies in Norway, trudged 200 miles to the coast, sometimes through waist-deep snow, took a Norwegian boat away from the Germans and sailed home.

They said about 100 British troops were fighting twice that many Germans in a battle between mountains in Norway when their band of 15 became stranded. Guided by the stars and an occasional native, they struck out for the coast, leaving the wounded behind in a Norwegian hospital.

Reaching the sea after seven days, they said they found a Norwegian boat in German possession. In the laconic words of one of the men, "Nine of us decided to board the ship and, aided by some Norwegians, we took command."

Admission of Women to EMORY UNIVERSITY

Because of widespread misunderstanding, Emory University takes this means of making clear its policy with reference to the admission of women students:

During the regular session, from September to June, women are admitted on exactly the same basis as men to the Graduate School, the Library School, the School of Law, and the School of Theology. There has been no change of policy in these schools, and no change is contemplated.

During the summer quarter, women are admitted to ALL divisions of the University which are in session, including ALL classes of the College of Arts and Sciences. The 1940 summer session opens on June 17, with a second term beginning on July 25.

The only change made in connection with the University Center development is this: Women students who wish to take work in the College of Arts and Sciences during the regular session, from September to June, will register at Agnes Scott College. If Agnes Scott does not offer a particular course that they desire, and Emory does offer such a course, arrangements can be made in most cases for the work to be taken at Emory.

For example, Agnes Scott students may register for a major in Journalism or Business Economics, although work in these fields is not offered on the Agnes Scott campus. They will take the necessary courses at Emory.

For information about summer work at Emory, or about work in the Graduate School, the Library School, the School of Law, or the School of Theology, women students should write directly to WANTS EXEMPTION—Speaking before the convention of the Georgia Cotton Ginners' Association yesterday, G. M. Lester, left, president of the national association, asked exemption for the 10 per cent of the ginners covered by the wage-hour law. With him is W. H. Lovett, of Dublin, president of the Georgia group.

Three Convicted In Lottery Cases

Three more persons, one white woman and two Negroes, were found guilty yesterday as city and county law enforcement agencies pressed their campaign against the lottery.

Mrs. Bessie Langley was found guilty by a jury in Judge Jesse Wood's criminal court of Fulton county, but passing of sentence was withheld until this morning. Louise Chandler, 28, Negro, and Charlie Lowe, 30, Negro, were found guilty by juries in Fulton criminal court and sentenced to serve four months.

Trial of Annie Moore, divorced wife of Dick Moore, pardoned lottery operator, arrested at the same time as Mr. Langley, was postponed until next week.

Wreck Victim in Crash On His Way to Hospital

JACKSON, Miss., May 9.—(P)—Bad luck came looking for Ernest Moore last night. A dog ran into the path of his automobile, and he wrecked the machine trying to avoid the animal.

As he was being taken to the hospital, the ambulance was in collision with an automobile and turned over. Moore was recovering today from head and chest injuries, the ambulance driver and two others suffered minor hurts.

Civil Service Aide Describes Training Work

Mrs. Lucille McMillin Addresses Federal Business Group.

Addressing the Atlanta Federal Business Association yesterday afternoon, Mrs. Lucille Foster McMillin, civil service commissioner, spoke on personnel training work done by the Civil Service Commission.

"The commission visualizes the federal government as a model employer, an example of leadership to business and industry in its relationships between employees and management. It is with this splendid and practical ideal in mind that the commission as the central federal personnel agency has accepted the inspiring challenge of leadership in the field of personnel management in the federal government," she said.

She praised the work of Congressmen Robert Ramspeck, calling him a "valiant friend of the merit system."

Personnel work of the commission, especially the training of efficient supervisors, is being pressed forward, according to Mrs. McMillin.

"The commission is of the belief that if supervisors are competent, well-trained and perform their duties effectively, the personnel management program is well on the road to success," she said. "If, on the other hand, supervisors are not of this type, the work of the agency will be poorly and uneconomically performed, the policies and procedures will be inadequately administered; the labor turnover will be excessively high; morale will be disrupted and discontent and dissatisfaction will be rampant in the organization."

"The merit system," the speaker concluded, "is the essence of democracy. It is American. Under this system every qualified man and woman, boy and girl, is given his or her opportunity."

Miss Sarah Huff Marks Birthday

More than 200 children from the Goldsmith school yesterday greeted Miss Sarah Huff, one of Atlanta's best-known citizens, as she celebrated her 83d birthday.

Despite plans to observe the event quietly at her home on Huff road, the beloved old lady welcomed the children who came with baskets of fruit and flowers.

She lives today in the home in which she was born and displayed to her visitors the cradle in which she was taken to Macon when federal troops laid siege to the city in 1864.

Girdler Brother's Poetry Recalls CIO Steel Strike

CLEVELAND, May 9.—(P)—John Girdler, superintendent of Kingman (Ariz.) schools, has a book of poetry (Gray Sand) out today, dedicated to his brother Tom, Republic Steel Corporation's chairman.

Said the Arizona schoolmaster of the Cleveland steelmaster:

"Fight on! As boys we battled much together;

Who tills with you must look for stormy weather.

Your greatest sin, if I have seen aright,

You claimed, if men would like to work, they might."

This recalled the 1937 steel strike, in which Girdler tilted with the CIO.

Stretching 115 miles, the Gota ship canal has been declared the world's longest.

Proposed Bills Affecting Gins Opposed Here

Georgia Association Again Names W. H. Lovett President.

The Georgia Cotton Ginners' Association closed its one-day annual meeting here yesterday by electing W. H. Lovett, of Dublin, as president for the fifth consecutive year and passing resolutions condemning three regulatory bills now before congress.

The measures that met opposition are the Fulmer bill, designed to eliminate all types of bagging except cotton; the Bibb bill, requiring ginners to mark each bale with the weight of the wrappings, and the Cottonseed Grading act, setting up a federal bureau to enforce grading regulations.

During the morning, ginners heard an address by Garner M. Lester, of Jackson, Miss., president of the National Cotton Ginners' Association. Lester asked for a revision of the wage-hour act covering ginners, pointing out that while 90 per cent were exempt from its provisions, 10 per cent were not.

"I have no objection to high wages," said S. M. Phillips, of Savannah, who said that if higher wages are paid in this case are paid by the farmer. "I would like to see all ginners exempt. Ginning is not a business in the strict sense of the word, but is the first step in processing an agricultural commodity."

Ginners covered by the act are those who employ more than six men; draw their business from a radius of more than 10 miles and are located in towns of more than 2,500 population.

Other officers named by the association are A. M. Miles, of Savannah; G. S. Phillips, of Harlem; C. D. Shaw, of Cartersville, and F. J. Daniel, of Villa Rica, vice presidents, and Frank Johnson, of Dublin, secretary and treasurer.

New directors are Mrs. J. L. Roberts, W. E. Morgan, J. P. Etheridge, J. M. Foy, George A. Kling, L. B. Kennington, O. D. Barron, J. T. Preston, E. R. Clark and J. L. Pilcher.

Broadway Fights Flare Over Hitler

NEW YORK, May 9.—(P)—Pro and anti-Hitler sentiment precipitated free-for-alls at two spots on Broadway last night—one a newsreel theater and the other the Columbus Circle Soapbox Forum.

At Columbus circle an orator praised Hitler, a woman objected.

A man spectator kicked her, and all three were arrested after many of 200 spectators pitched into the fray.

At the newsreel theater two men of Swedish extraction looted Hitler. A lawyer and a salesman objected, about 20 other persons joined in the rumpus, and the two men of Swedish extraction were locked up on a charge of disorderly conduct.

Legion in Decatur Will Meet Tonight

The Harold Byrd Post of the American Legion will meet at 7:30 o'clock tonight in their Decatur clubhouse to entertain two high ranking state officials—Hort C. Brown, department commander, and Stanley Jones, department adjutant.

The meeting will follow a banquet at 6 o'clock in the Candler hotel, when the 300 members of the post gather for their annual recognition party.

Officers for the coming year will be elected at the business meeting. During the past year the post has sponsored a United States navy band concert, a DeKalb county Citizenship Day program and many other civic projects.

Man Moves His House Over Intervening Trees

INDEPENDENCE, Mo., May 9.—(P)—A young orchard stood where his house had to go, so Dave Crick lifted the 160-ton dwelling over the tree tops.

Crick, a lumber dealer, sold his lot but was determined to put his house on a new site across the block. It couldn't be taken around because of street obstructions. So the house was raised five feet and started on its 500-foot journey over the orchard on cables and heavy timbers.

Senators Back Marking Of Mississippi Discovery

WASHINGTON, May 9.—(P)—Approval by the senate library committee of a resolution to authorize the celebration next year of the 400th anniversary of Hernando De Soto's discovery of the Mississippi river was made known today by Senator Barkley, Democrat, Kentucky.

The resolution was approved by the committee members in a poll conducted by Senator McKellar, Democrat, Tennessee.

CUPID GOT HER—When this picture of Miss Naomi Griswell, pretty capitol stenographer, was made a few months ago she was really Mrs. Raymond Posey. It was revealed yesterday at the capitol that she was married in December, 1938—setting somewhat of an endurance record for a secret marriage. She is an employe in the state food and drug department. She is shown here with a quantity of condemned pecans.

Blues Unable To Halt Drive Of Red Army

Greatest Assemblage of U. S. Generals Observe Maneuvers.

CAMP BEAUREGARD, La., May 9.—(P)—The greatest assemblage of American generals ever concentrated in the United States today watched in amazement the bewildering attack of the invading red army which swept eastward from Texas to penetrate more than 40 miles into Louisiana.

By nightfall it was apparent to the first arrivals of the 70 generals the army is sending here as observers of its greatest peace-time maneuvers that the present skeletalized blue army defenders can only delay but cannot check the powerful surge of the streamlined red invaders.

The only hope of saving Alexandria, mythical capital of the blue nation, lies in the timely arrival of reinforcements now being hurled across Mississippi and Louisiana at the rate of 150 to 200 miles daily, but which cannot arrive in full force before the week end.

Theoretically the blue army of 40,000 mechanized troops was 700 miles away at Fort Benning, Ga., when the "frontier incident" arose, forming the pretext for the red generals to throw their 30,000 troops across the sabbine in gray dawn today without a declaration of war.

Because the red air forces attacked first and with greater vigor, the blue army temporarily lost command of the air, badly hampering return of its troops. Only 11,000 of which had reached the threatened zone when war began. Those were rolled back with amazing ease by the invaders who quickly seized a half dozen key Louisiana cities and forged onward.

State Employee Reveals Secret 1938 Marriage

Miss Naomi Griswell and Member of Navy Wed in December.

Cupid yesterday chalked up a new endurance record for secret marriage on Capitol Hill.

Star of the performance was the former Miss Naomi Griswell, pretty stenographer in the office of Dr. E. P. Long, of the State Food and Drug Department.

It was December, 1938—one year and five months ago—that Miss Griswell and Raymond Posey, a member of Uncle Sam's navy, slipped away and took the marriage vows.

The quiet, mild-mannered stenographer didn't breathe a word about her marriage, however, until Wednesday. As she was preparing to leave on a week's vacation she turned to Dr. Long and said:

"When I return don't call me 'Miss Griswell' any more, because my name is Mrs. Raymond Posey and we have been married since December, 1938."

Dr. Long almost fell out of his seat. And he hasn't yet figured out how Cupid managed to tie the knot behind everybody's back.

Perhaps the one person who knew about the marriage was Miss Vesta Holcomb, Miss Griswell's roommate, proving, of course, that for at least one time in history two women were able to keep a secret.

Mrs. Posey's home is in Mitchell, Ga., in Glascock county. She has been with the Food and Drug Department since 1937. Her husband has been stationed at Miami, Fla., and Portsmouth, Va.

The two were honeymooning yesterday in Portsmouth, while the little fellow with the bows and arrows got a big laugh on the capitol hill.

Cooling Showers Predicted Today

Thundershowers and cooler weather have been forecast for Atlanta today.

Skies will be cloudy, the United States weather bureau predicted last night, with showers scheduled to arrive and cool things off a bit. The day's high has been forecast as 84 degrees, compared with yesterday's high of 89 and Wednesday's maximum of 91.

This morning's low is expected to be 64. Yesterday's low readings were 67 at the downtown weather bureau and 64 at the airport.

Decatur Clubs' Flower Show To Open Today

More Than 500 Displays Entered in First Annual Event.

DeKalb county's garden enthusiasts will see the best of their efforts displayed at 9 o'clock this morning in the Decatur High school auditorium as part of the recently organized Decatur Garden Club Association's first annual flower show, where more than 500 displays have been entered for competition.

Along with the county's amateur flower gardeners will be Decatur school children and their 90 exhibits, competing for prizes of their own. The adults will be aiming for a sweepstakes cup awarded by the Decatur Kiwanis Club for the exhibitor with most points.

Mrs. Stanley Hastings heads the show as general chairman and hostesses are:

Mrs. Margaret Russell, L. C. Cobb, C. E. Pattillo, Floyd Sanders, J. R. McClain, Mace Green, O. M. Sims, C. M. Suter, Horace Smith, J. L. R. Boyd, E. J. Teed, H. R. Peckens, Wingate Jackson, J. D. Harris Jr., T. E. Scarbrough and Frank Richards.

Judges for table and school displays will be Mrs. J. O. Martin and Mrs. Bruce Hughes; for arrangements, Mrs. W. N. Pendleton and Mrs. James Henderson; for horticulture, C. H. Hudson and Frank Lee; for classification, Mrs. C. M. Suter, Mrs. John S. Moore and C. H. Campbell. Mrs. Fletcher P. Crown will be the final judge of classification.

LIFE AT 40.

CORONADO, Cal., May 9.—(AP) There is no scientific basis for the belief that men over 40 should be on the sports shelf, the California Medical Association convention was informed. Dr. William H. Barrow, San Diego, said men over 40 could continue tennis, badminton and handball without fear of heart ailment if they are in good physical condition.

Donkey Tags Are To Be Sold For Democrats

Fund Drive Will Be Held Throughout State on May 18.

The Democratic donkey tag drive will be held throughout Georgia on May 18 under the auspices of the woman's division of the Democratic party, Mrs. J. A. Hollison, of Waycross, state president, announced yesterday.

Tags are sold each year over the nation to aid the Democratic party. "Don't let the donkey do all the kicking—let's all kick in and help him this year" is the slogan adopted by all the workers.

Mrs. R. L. Turman, of Atlanta, chairman of the finance committee, will again direct the 1940 tag drive and will be assisted by Mrs. Nina Pate, of Hawkinsville, and Mrs. Lewis Waxelbaum, of Macon, both of the finance committee. Congressman Hugh Peterson has accepted chairmanship of the donkey tag sales under the auspices of the Georgia Society in the District of Columbia. The goal for the entire state has been set at $3,600.

Wizard To Probe Actions in Denver

Imperial Wizard James A. Cole, of the Ku Klux Klan, said yesterday he planned an immediate and thorough investigation of the public appearance of "alleged Klansmen in masks" at Denver, Colo., and said he would immediately banish from the organization any member who had violated an edict of the National Klansmen banning use of the mask in public.

Cole said he would communicate at once with the grand dragon of Colorado in checking on a report that Klansmen wore hoods at a state-wide meeting Monday night and that one member asserted published pictures of the imperial wizard in maskless regalia was a "publicity stunt."

State To Honor Atlantic Voyage Of 'Savannah'

Pioneer Steamship's Memory Will Be Observed May 22.

All that remains today of the once proud "Savannah," first steamship to sail the Atlantic, are the old log book and a cylinder which are preserved in the National Museum in Washington.

This was brought out yesterday by Miss Ella May Thornton, state librarian, as Governor Rivers proclaimed May 22 as "Maritime Day" in Georgia in commemoration of the "Savannah's" initial trans-Atlantic voyage.

Savannah merchants first conceived and executed the plan for equipping ocean-going vessels with steam engines, Miss Thornton found from reference books.

Outstanding among them was William Scarborough.

Built in New York.
President James Monroe himself visited the Georgia city for this event, and took a trip to Tybee and back on the ship. So impressed was he that he asked Scarborough to bring her to Washington after the oceanic trip, because he felt the government might purchase her for use as a cruiser on the coast of China.

"As an economic venture, however, the "Savannah" was a failure, the reference books say. Because of the cost of running her engines and the inadequate fuel storage capacity, she was converted into a sailing vessel, plying between New York and Savannah.

The fate of this conqueror of the seas was sad. She was lost off the shore of Long Island in November, 1822.

This is the ship that Georgians will honor May 22.

One of the first new plants in Spain's reconstruction is a cod-liver oil factory.

How ABOUT Swapping?

How ABOUT IT—wouldn't you rather own a new Nash?

Wouldn't you rather drive a car that's gay and glamorous...that can show clean heels to the best of them?

Wouldn't you rather enjoy the fresh, conditioned-air comfort of the automatic Weather Eye system—instead of freezing in drafts?

Wouldn't you rather enjoy the restful quiet...the amazing smoothness of Nash's Arrow-Flight Ride?

Well—why not swap cars today!

At the price below, a big deluxe Nash sedan is practically yours right now! And—you'll be money ahead.

It will pay you—up to 20% on gas—to have its Fourth Speed Forward and Automatic Overtake.

It will pay you to have its 99 H. P. Manifold-Sealed engine that sent the Nash Lafayette to victory in the 1940 Gilmore-Yosemite Run with 23.76 miles per gallon.

It will save you $15 to $50 a year in lodging costs on vacation trips—because any Sedan can be made up into a big Convertible Bed.

Yes, any way you look at it—a Nash will save you money, not only now—but years from now.

The fact is—a Nash stands up better because we build it better.

We put in a 7-bearing crankshaft...

a double frame chassis...and design it 300 to 400 pounds heavier than small cars for safety. On the basis of sound engineering—Nash is America's best car value.

So—how about swapping?

Child Welfare Expert Speaks Here Saturday

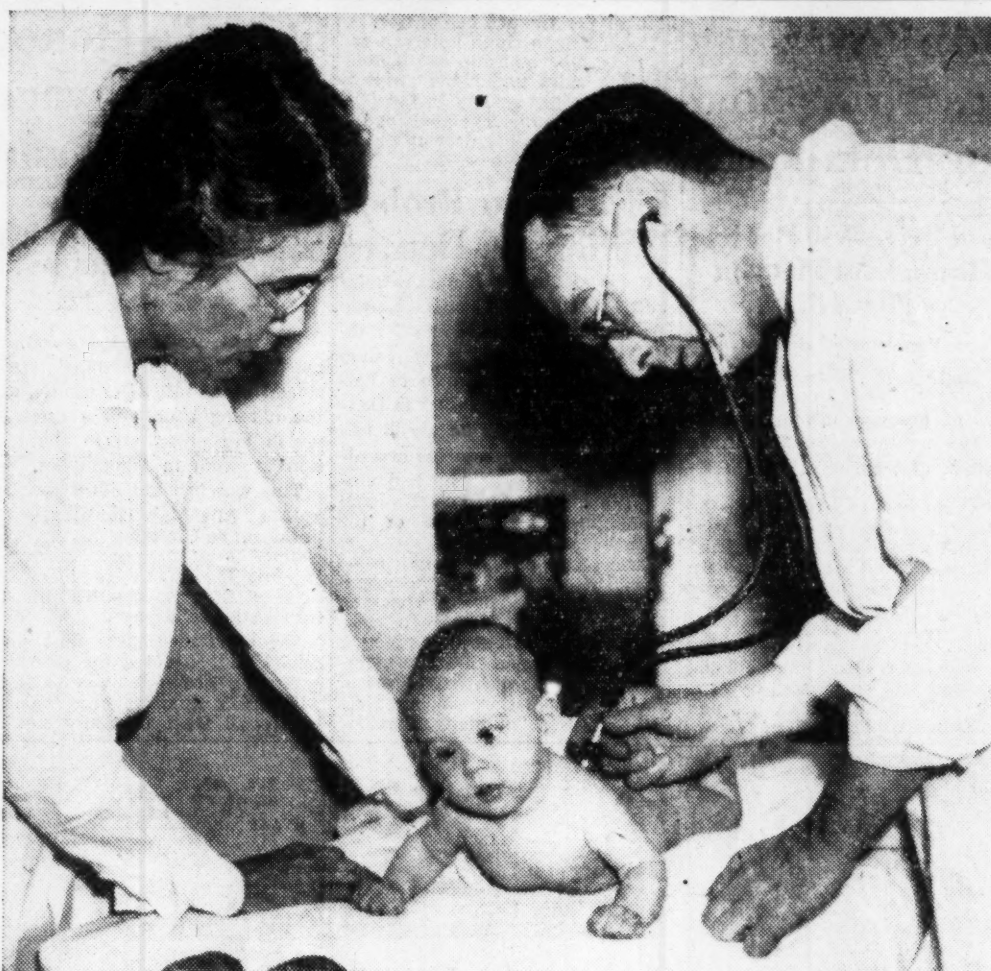

'Children in Democracy' Will Be Subject of Dr. J. S. Plant.

Dr. James S. Plant, authority on children and a division leader in the recent White House conference on child problems, will speak at 8:30 o'clock tomorrow night in the Biltmore hotel ballroom as a feature of the 10th anniversary celebration of the Child Welfare Association.

Subject of his address, to be open to the general public, will be "Children in Democracy."

Director of the Essex County (N. J.) Juvenile Clinic, Dr. Plant is the author of "Personality and the Cultural Pattern," and other articles on psychiatry and psychology.

The association's anniversary celebration will open at 4 o'clock that afternoon in the hotel with an exhibition of graphs and charts.

VOLUNTEER—One of the most important divisions of the Child Welfare Association is the clinic where each child that comes into its care is examined. Mrs. John Rutland, member of the board of directors, volunteers as a clinical assistant to help Dr. William Kiser Jr., the examining physician.

Training Needs For Teachers To Be Studied

State Educators Will Discuss Problem This Afternoon.

Approximately 75 Georgia educators will assemble at the Henry Grady hotel today for a conference of the Georgia advisory committee on teacher education and curriculum.

At the first session this afternoon they will take up recommendations to be made to the state board pertaining to regulations governing the education and certification of teachers.

Tonight the group will discuss the Georgia program of teacher education to be conducted under sponsorship of the American Council on Education. This council, through the national commission on teacher education, has allotted $36,000 for a study in Georgia.

The program tomorrow morning will include a study of personnel problems of teachers, including selection, guidance, placement and follow-up of those entering the teaching profession.

The committee consists of one representative from each of the colleges in the state—both junior and senior, public and private; state school supervisors and 12 public school teachers. M. E. Thompson, assistant state school superintendent, is chairman.

Younis, assistant district supervisor, told how an enumerator went into the hills to check up on a recluse. The recluse saw the enumerator first and took to the timber. The census man out-manuevered him and felled him with a flying tackle.

Vinson Seeking Nonuniformity To Make U. S. Navy Dominant Functions Cited Study Designed To Place Nation at Top in Ships and Seaplanes.

WASHINGTON, May 9.—(P)—An extraordinary study of the navy's shipbuilding and aviation programs, with a view to making the United States "dominant" in warships and seaplanes, was announced tonight by Chairman Vinson, Democrat, Georgia, of the house naval committee.

Vinson disclosed that his committee would begin the special inquiry next week to determine whether navy yards and private industry had been making progress "commensurate with the appropriations of congress."

Although congress had not "stinted one dollar" that the navy had requested, the Georgian said, there were indications that the shipbuilding program was not going ahead as it should. For instance, he declared, work on the new aircraft carrier Wasp was one year behind schedule.

Vinson added that particular attention would be paid to the question whether laws like the Walsh-Healey act, governing wages and hours of workers filling government contracts, were interfering with the navy's expansion; and whether government and private shipyards should be placed on a 24-hour basis to expedite the work.

The move to review the operation of present building programs coincided with the progress of legislation authorizing an additional 11 per cent expansion of the fleet at an estimated cost of $655,000,000.

Unanimously, the senate naval committee recommended that the senate pass the house-approved bill authorizing construction of 19 battle craft and 21 auxiliaries.

"I get Double Range Anti-Knock!"

Every motorist knows that there are two important ranges of acceleration where highest anti-knock performance is needed. For example, you need knockless power at 10 to 45 miles per hour for acceleration in traffic and 45 to 90 miles per hour for passing other cars and climbing hills. Some gasolines may give high anti-knock in one range but not in the other. But the new Sinclair H-C combines high anti-knock performance in both ranges. With the Double-Range anti-knock in H-C you also get other remarkable qualities in performance. You get quick starting—rapid pick-up—smooth power—and long mileage.

Try a complete tankful of the new Double-Range H-C in your car today. Your nearby Sinclair dealer sells it at regular price. You will find it adds to the pleasure of driving and helps reduce motoring expense as well! Ask for the new Sinclair H-C.

New SINCLAIR H-C

For performance, no gasoline at regular price is superior to the new Sinclair H-C.

Nothing Smells New

Under Maryland Sun
HAGERSTOWN, Md., May 9.—(P)—"Stink bombs are not new," Practical jokesters make them today from chemicals. A century ago they used herbs, or simply tossed pepper on a hot stove.

Hagerstown boys broke up so many public meetings that way that an indignant city council passed an ordinance in 1859 levying a fine of $1 to $10 on pepper or bomb tossers.

Operetta Non-Enthusiast Proves His Ignorance

SCRANTON, Pa., May 9.—(P)—A young man selling tickets to a high school operetta dropped two ducats on the desk of a prospective buyer.

They bore a printed announcement: "The Forest Prince—Music by Peter Tschalkowsky."

The potential customer noted this, scowled and said: "You ought to be ashamed of yourself bringing in those out-of-town bands."

$100,000,000 Is Urged For Rural Electrification

WASHINGTON, May 9.—(AP)—Representative Rankin, Democrat, Mississippi, urged the house today to approve an appropriation of $100,000,000 for the Rural Electrification Administration during fiscal 1941.

He said in a speech the money could be used for loans to farm crops which ultimately would repay every dollar of it with interest.

CELEBRATE BEAUTIFICATION—Amaryllis Garden Club yesterday held a show to celebrate beautification of the south Decatur street carline right-of-way between Moreland avenue and Vannoy street. Examiners Recommend Rejection of Air Route

An application by Braniff and Trans-Southern Air Lines, Inc., to operate a route between Atlanta and Amarillo, Texas, with intermediate stops, should not be granted, Examiners Frank A. Law Jr. and John W. Belt recommended to the Civil Aeronautics Authority yesterday.

Public interest does not require additional air transportation between the two cities, they said.

Club Completes Street Car Line Beautification

Flower Exhibit Is Held by Amaryllis Group on Liggett's Hill.

Beautification of the South Decatur street car line right of way between Moreland avenue and Vannoy street having been completed, the Amaryllis Garden Club held a flower exhibit yesterday afternoon to show all Atlanta what a difference a few flowers can make in a community.

Mrs. J. L. Veal, chairman of the club's flower committee, said the plot had been planted in January with jasmine and abelia. The right of way was graded and planted in grass by the power company.

The flower show was held at 282 Moreland avenue on Liggett's Hill, historic battlefield. The garden club is five years old and Mrs. Bessie Wilson is president.

$243,361 To Pay Bidder For Bomb Damage Asked

WASHINGTON, May 9.—(AP)—A bill to pay United States Ambassador Anthony J. Drexel Biddle and his wife $243,361 for antique furniture, paintings and other personal property lost in the invasion of Poland was introduced in the senate today by Senator Guffey, Democrat, Pennsylvania.

Guffey said the property was destroyed during raids by Nazi airmen. German planes repeatedly bombed Warsaw during the first two weeks of the war. The ambassador's residence, which was leased by him, had been redecorated on order of Mrs. Biddle by an interior decorator brought from Paris. Valuable tapestries and old furniture adorned it.

Labor Dispute Ends in Death Of Organizer

Garment Factory President Arrested on Homicide Charge.

NEW YORK, May 9.—(AP)—Angry words gave way to fists and flying knuckles to bullets today in a heated dispute climaxed by the slaying of a union organizer in a Brooklyn garment factory and arrest of the firm's 64-year-old president on a homicide charge.

Shot and killed during the argument over organization of 35 women in the Trio Coat Corporation was Vito Trimarco, 36, an organizer for the New York cloak makers joint board, composed of nine craft unions in the industry and affiliated with the International Ladies' Garment Workers' Union.

The arrested corporation president was Giuseppe Frisachi, who had long opposed the union's efforts. Police said a permit had been issued in his name for a pistol they seized after the killing.

Heading a delegation of 11 men, Trimarco, witnesses told police, argued with Frisachi for more than an hour. The altercation, they continued, developed into a fist fight, and Frisachi fell backward over a sewing machine.

Shortly after two shots sounded. One bullet struck Trimarco in the heart.

JOE ADONIS SURRENDERS TO BROOKLYN OFFICIAL.

NEW YORK, May 9.—(AP)—Joe Adonis, a round-shouldered, silent little gangster to whom the authorities have attributed a long and shadowy power in the Brooklyn underworld, surrendered today, two hours after a world-wide search for him had started.

He walked into the office of Special Assistant Attorney General John Harlan Amen in Brooklyn and—with his attorney doing all the talking—made a categorical denial of the charges existing against him—kidnaping, extortion and felonious assault.

Then he climbed into a police limousine which took him to headquarters for the usual routine of fingerprinting and photographing. He uttered no word, but merely made inquiry through gestures as to what he was to do next. A big sapphire ring sparkled on his left hand. He was booked in his real name—Joseph A. Doto. He also has gone under aliases of Arros and Joseph De Mio.

He is accused specifically, along with Sam Gasberg, 50, a former aide, with abducting Isadore Wapinsky, 50, in 1932, and of holding him for two days until the payment of $5,000 ransom.

Florida Runoff Facing Carter And Andrews

May 28 Vote To Settle U. S. Senatorial Race.

JACKSONVILLE, Fla., May 9.—(AP)—There appeared no doubt today that United States Senator Charles O. Andrews and State Railroad Commissioner Jerry W. Carter would enter the May 28 runoff primary for the Democratic senatorial nomination.

Andrews continued to maintain his big lead over five opponents, and late reports from Tuesday's primary gave Carter, Townsend-supported candidate, a safe margin over Magazine Publisher Barnard MacFadden, for second place.

Unofficial reports from 1,281 of the state's 1,429 precincts gave Andrews 156,437 votes; Carter, 70,845, and MacFadden 65,879. Governor Fred P. Cone was fourth with 59,689. Attorney-Author Charles Francis Coe had 31,113, and Dr. O. B. Hazen trailed with 4,217.

In the race for the gubernatorial nomination, State Senator Spessard Holland, of Bartow, continued top man with an unofficial vote of 107,348 in 1,293 of the 1,429 precincts.

Attorney Francis P. Whitehair, of DeLand, appeared Holland's second-primary opponent. The latest figures gave Whitehair 85,993 votes, and B. F. Paty, of West Palm Beach, 70,925. Fuller Warren, of Jacksonville, was fourth with 66,940.

Taste for Beer Balks Writer's Leap to Death

Police Entice Man From High Ledge by Drink Suggestion.

NEW YORK, May 9.—(AP)—A taste for beer turned Harlan C. McIntosh against a contemplated 16-story plunge to certain death.

The 32-year-old writer was perilously close to the edge of a ledge outside his apartment in west 16th street last night, while police sought to stop him.

It was Police Sergeant Michael Kelly's suggestion to "have a last drink of beer" which changed McIntosh's mind. He re-entered the apartment and police grabbed him.

American Vessel Docked at Bergen

WASHINGTON, May 9.—(AP)—The American freighter Charles R. McCormick, last American vessel remaining in Norwegian waters, was reported today to be at Bergen, Norway.

Information to this effect has reached the State Department from the German naval commander in Norway.

Three ships were in Norwegian waters at the time of the German invasion. The Flying Fish and Mormacsea have returned to the United States, but the State Department and the owners have reported great difficulty in communicating with the Charles R. McCormick. The information which has come through said that the vessel arrived at Bergen April 8.

Yugoslavs Plan Army Alliance With Russians

Belgrade Hopes Proposed Pact Will Shield Nation From Axis.

BELGRADE, Yugoslavia, May 9. (AP)—Yugoslavia and Soviet Russia have agreed to work at top speed on plans for far-reaching political and military co-operation, it was reported authoritatively today.

The Yugoslav military mission, headed by General Vojin Maksimovic, inspector of national defense, now is expected to leave for Moscow at the end of next week. Concrete Soviet proposals meanwhile will be brought here for cabinet discussion by the Yugoslav trade delegation which is in the Soviet capital. This delegation is expected to leave Moscow next Monday and arrive here three days later. Simultaneously it was reported in Sofia that Soviet Russian diplomats had conveyed to Britain, France, Germany and Italy the desire of the U. S. S. R. to see no Balkan adventure by any of them.

"Partners" Inform.

Such a "fatal collision," it was stated, would hurt Soviet interests. The action, wherein both Yugoslavia and Bulgaria were informed because they may become military partners with Russia, was taken after the arrival of an Allied battle fleet at Alexandria and concentrations of both Italian and German troops near Yugoslav frontiers.

Officials and civilians alike in Belgrade expressed the hope that Russia's protection quickly would become a fact. They shared the opinion that Yugoslav-Russian military ties would shield this country from any "trouble" with Germany or Italy.

Peace Hope Rises.

In other southeastern European capitals the active entry of Russia into the Balkan picture was seen as a possible guarantee of peace, at least for the time being. Officials in Ankara declared Turkey—ally of Britain and France—would consider favorably conclusion of military and political agreements between Yugoslavia and the Soviet.

Yugoslavia, however, continued her military preparations along the Italian and German borders.

Thousand Bags Of Mail Taken Off Italian Rex

Italy To Fight With Germany, Fritz von Opel Declares.

NEW YORK, May 9. (AP)—Officers of the Italian liner Rex reported on her arrival here today that the vessel was held for 13 hours at Gibraltar and that 1,124 sacks of mail were taken off by the British.

At the same time, the British authorities returned 404 sacks of mail and parcel post which had been removed earlier from other Italian ships.

Among the Rex's 1,160 passengers—including 350 Americans and some 200 German refugees—was Adolfo Alessandrini, a special Italian envoy sent here to consult British authorities in an effort to speed clearance through Gibraltar of Italian ships bearing cargoes from this country.

Others aboard included Fritz von Opel, the former German motor manufacturer and rocket ship experimenter who now is a citizen of the principality of Liechtenstein, who was taken off the Italian liner Conte di Savoia on April 24 while en route to this country.

Von Opel declared he had certain information that Italy would enter the war on Germany's side and that he even knew—although withheld—the day when this would occur. He also asserted he had "been told" that many German-Jewish refugees coming here were "spies."

Nazis Invade Netherlands And Belgium; Big Air Fight

Chamberlain warned this week. These bases in some places are only 125 miles—about 30 minutes by fast bomber—from the British coast.

Military strategists said the German drive into Belgium had as its object severing communications between Belgium and France. Possession of bases on the Belgian and Dutch coasts also would give Hitler bases near enough to Britain to use the fleet of small, short-range submarines Germany reportedly has been building.

Invasion of France.

Land invasion of France might be possible from Belgium, as in 1914. Although the French have fortified the Belgian frontier against such a possibility, these defenses are not nearly as strong as the Maginot line on the German frontier.

The invasion of Holland immediately poses a grave question for the United States—the safety of Holland's rich East Indian possessions containing vast natural resources badly needed by Japan. The United States warned Japan and the world several weeks ago when the threat against Holland was born that the status of these islands in the south Pacific must not be changed.

Only this warning was revealed that the American battle fleet which had completed scheduled war games off Hawaii, would remain in Hawaiian waters and engage in further tactical exercises.

Leaves Suspended.

In the meantime all leaves of French army officers were suspended and they were asked to return to their posts immediately.

In London Exchange Telegraph reported from Zurich, Switzerland, that the first German air raid on Brussels resulted in 400 casualties, dead and wounded.

The bombing of Holland's Schiphol airfield reportedly resulted in casualties, a number of wounded being taken to a nearby hospital.

Landing Continues.

The landing of German parachute troops in Holland continued well after dawn, some landing at 7:50 a. m. at Boxtel in South Holland.

It first was rumored the planes were German en route to attack Britain, but reports of heavy German anti-aircraft fire heard across the border before Dutch batteries opened fire indicated the planes may have been British raiders returning from an attack in Germany.

The air alarm came after the Dutch government cut off all public telephone, teletypewriter and cable communication with the rest of the world, incoming and outgoing, closed all canals, locks in the Amsterdam area and ordered the Holland radio shut down. These drastic precautionary measures followed a new wave of rumors that Holland was in imminent danger of invasion.

Amsterdam anti-aircraft batteries opened heavy fire at 2:41 a. m. Dutch time and fired for four minutes at planes whose motors could be heard plainly over the residential section of south Amsterdam. Reports coming into Amsterdam from various points said numbers of planes crossed the northern half of the Netherlands and the Dutch Frisian Islands, flying from east to west.

Amsterdam's anti-aircraft guns blazed again at 4:05 a. m. Intense activity in the air was reported from points throughout Holland, with huge squadrons of foreign planes crossing back and forth.

The firing ceased at Amsterdam after a few shots.

Circles Over Helder.

A squadron of foreign planes was reported circling over the Helder, Dutch naval base on the northwest coast at the entrance to the Zuider Zee, and six German seaplanes were reported circling over IJmuiden in central Holland.

Yesterday the commander in chief of the Dutch army, General Henri Winkelman, prohibited all large gatherings of civilians in strategic provinces along the borders in a further measure to strengthen national security.

The taking over of communications was presumed to be in connection with Dutch military preparations.

United Press efforts to establish telephonic communication with correspondents in Dutch towns near the German border indicated that Dutch soldiers had taken over local exchanges, as male voices answered instead of the usual female voices. The caller was told the subscribers wanted did not answer their telephones.

Fifty Planes Sighted.

Fifty unidentified planes were sighted over Nijmegen. The sound of gunfire was heard again in Amsterdam at 4:20 a. m. Nijmegen is a large town 60 miles southeast of Amsterdam very near the German border.

An air battle broke out over Amsterdam shortly before 5 a. m. with fighter planes diving on bombers believed to be German. A column of smoke was seen in the direction of Schiphol airfield outside Amsterdam, but it was not known immediately if it was caused by bombs. Anti-aircraft fire made such a noise bomb explosions might pass undistinguished.

The airfield of Welschap near Eindhoven was bombed.

Attempt to Land.

Three German planes attempting to land at Souburg in Zeeland were fired upon. It was said that six German planes bombed the Welschap airfield.

Numerous planes were sighted over Vianen flying west. A number of unidentified parachute troops descended at Naarden Slidrecht and several other places.

Parachutists also landed at Delft.

Parachutists also landed at Delft.

12½ miles from The Hague. Among towns throughout the country where foreign planes were sighted, including planes identified as German bombers in flights ranging from one to 50, were: Den Haag, Rotterdam, Hook of Holland, Haarlem, Tilburg, Zaltbommel, Geldermalsen, Venlo, Alkmaar, Maastricht, Hengelo, Scherpenheuvel, Arnhem, Leiden, Delft and Emmen.

Military authorities and local officials throughout the country were warned to be on the lookout for parachute troops.

About 100 parachute troops were landed near Dordrecht.

Foreign planes, believed to be German, bombed the Schiphol airfield, one of the big air fields near Amsterdam.

The bombing was described as "very heavy." The attack started at 4:20 a. m.

Heavy Damage.

Schiphol is one of the biggest air fields in the Netherlands. Damage to the airport was believed heavy. Three columns of thick smoke were visible from a nearby point.

Fifty German Heinkel planes were sighted over Slidrecht flying at a height of less than 400 feet.

German planes were landing at the River Maas near the German frontier and were landing troops. The troops were crossing the river in rubber boats and were reported to have gained a foothold in Dutch territory. They were described to be reaching the Dutch side in "considerable numbers."

Troops Landed.

Foreign parachute troops, believed to be German, were landed at Waalhaven, the major airport at Rotterdam, which is Holland's most important seaport. Parachute troops also were landed at Rozenburg Island, near Rotterdam.

About 100 parachute troops were landed at Hoogerwaal, where there is a bridge which constitutes a major link of communications between north and south Holland.

Airdrome Guarded.

Near Amsterdam a heavy military guard was thrown around the Schiphol airdrome after the bombing attack.

A large number of civilians living nearby crowded to the outskirts of the airport but were not allowed nearer than a quarter of a mile from the landing field.

A responsible source in The Hague told the United Press by telephone that "We have not yet established contact with the military authorities and some members of the government, but you can say:

Looks Like War.

"This looks like war." "I do not believe the Dutch government will submit to this treatment," the informant said. "I believe they will accept the challenge."

Large numbers of parachute troops were landed near Leiden between Katwijk and Wassenaar. A parachute detachment estimated at 150 men, "undoubtedly German," landed near Waalhaven. German planes again bombed the Schiphol airdrome at 5:15 a. m. The planes were identified by eyewitnesses as "undoubtedly German." They dropped at least 30 heavy caliber bombs.

At 5:40 a. m. 12 Heinkel planes and five hydroplanes were sighted over Slidrecht flying westward. It was said that the parachute troops which floated down near Haagscheschouw, between Leiden and The Hague, were dressed in Dutch military uniforms.

At 6 a. m. more parachute troops were dropped near Ravesteijn, close to Nijmegen.

A radio broadcast said Dutch forces had captured a number of parachute troops clad in German army uniforms.

Plane Shot Down.

It was reported that one German plane was shot down near the Schiphol airdrome.

A number of German parachute troops in German uniforms were captured by Dutch patrols on the outskirts of The Hague, it was reported.

Twenty-four German planes were sighted over Rotterdam at 5:50 a. m.

It was reported without confirmation that German Messerschmitt planes had landed at the Schiphol airdrome. It could not be ascertained immediately whether the planes were shot down or whether they landed of their own accord.

Fifteen Heinkel bombers were sighted over Delft at 5:50 a. m. A few minutes later an additional 21 German planes passed over Rotterdam apparently heading for the Ypenburg airport.

At 6:20 a. m. the official radio for the first time described "foreign planes" as landing "enemy" parachute troops.

The official announcer said a large formation of planes had just been sighted near The Hague.

At 6:30 a. m. the official radio said: "New and large formations of planes are arriving constantly from Germany."

At 6:40 a. m. 22 German planes were observed flying westward at Rheden near Utrecht.

It was reported that at least two Dutch planes were set on fire and destroyed on the ground during the bombing of the Schiphol airdrome.

Il Duce Silent; British Force Takes Iceland For Protection

Mussolini Says Acts, Not Words, Will Decide His Move.

ROME, May 9. (UP)—More than 1,000,000 Italian troops are "at a moment's notice, the Fascist press said tonight after Premier Mussolini told a cheering crowd his decision between peace and war will lie in acts and not words.

Mussolini spoke to a crowd of 75,000 from the balcony of his Venice palace on the fourth anniversary of the founding of the new Italian empire while Fascist students demonstrated before the German consulate here with shouts of "Down with England and France!"

The crowd in Venice square shouted "Tunisia! Tunisia!" referring to Italy's claim on French Tunisia, and set up a terrific din as Il Duce appeared on the balcony, expecting to hear some vital statement on the international situation. But Mussolini only said: "As for the past month, you must get accustomed to my silence. Only acts will break my silence."

The controlled press extolled Italy's military preparations and Marshal Rodolfo Graziani, leader of half of Italy's armies, issued a message saying: "With unchanging faith we soldiers are on all of Italy's frontiers raising our weapons and flags and ready for whatever command, wherever the king wishes and Il Duce leads."

The Resto Del Carlino said Italy has 65 first-line divisions—about 1,000,000 men—ready for any emergency, which is as many men as Italy had under arms after two years of the World War.

The Popolo Di Roma, meanwhile, reported from Athens that Britain is striving urgently to spread the war to the Mediterranean and Near East and that the British scheme is being "developed in such a manner as to make the world believe the British are attacked by Italy and are not the actual aggressors."

British Force Takes Iceland For Protection

England Acts To Prevent Seizure of Nation by Nazis.

LONDON, May 10. (Friday)—(AP)—Great Britain took protective custody of Iceland today by landing an armed force on the North Atlantic island which is united to German-occupied Denmark by the tie of the throne of King Christian X.

The British foreign office announced this action was taken to prevent seizure of Iceland by Germany.

It was not disclosed immediately whether the British force encountered any difficulty with Germans reported to have infiltrated into the island before and since outbreak of the European war.

The foreign office said Iceland was given a guarantee that the occupation would be only for the duration of hostilities.

The little northern kingdom is expected to provide the Allies with excellent submarine bases as well as seaplane and airplane bases.

It was disclosed that R. C. Harris of the British ministry of economic warfare arrived in Iceland today with Charles Howard, Icelandic charge d'affaires in London. The British government made it plain it has no intention or desire to interfere with the existing administration and that it is prepared to negotiate at once with the Icelandic government an agreement on trade matters which will bring material advantages.

The only defense force at the disposal of the authorities of Iceland, sister kingdom of Denmark, consists of about 70 police.

Before the war Germany made a practice of sending frequent expeditions to Iceland, nominally for scientific purposes and in connection with projected air routes.

When the war broke out there was in Iceland a considerably larger number of Germans than was justified, the British said, for purely commercial considerations.

Since the war began this number has been augmented by the crews of several shipwrecked German vessels.

U. S. Increases Loans To Chile and Colombia

WASHINGTON, May 9. (AP)—Jesse Jones, federal loan administrator, announced today the Export-Import Bank had increased loan commitments to Chile from $5,000,000 to $12,000,000 and to Colombia from $5,000,000 to $10,000,000. The original loan to Chile was made last September, and the loan to Colombia about 60 days ago. Jones said neither country had yet started using the funds.

Jones said all of the money would be used to finance imports from this country and that these would consist chiefly of industrial supplies.

Holland Prepared To Get Foe 'In Dutch'

ATLAS of the Netherlands is General Henri Gerard Winkelman. For the future of his country—a heavy burden, indeed—rests on his shoulders now that Holland is invaded. He's the Dutch commander-in-chief.

STOLID and serene is this view of Arnhem, Holland, as seen through the "Sable Gate," but many fear this peaceful town will be one of the first objectives of Nazi legions as war engulfs the Netherlands.

HOLLAND'S HARPIES Deadly as those mythological monsters are these Dutch warbirds which are seeing action now that the German invasion of Holland is underway.

ROOKIES TODAY but tomorrow—ah, who can tell? Seasoned veterans of the front they may be—if they are still alive. A Dutch sergeant-major instructs volunteers in the grimmest of all arts, that of killing, as implacable tentacles of the World War closed on small neutral Holland. (Story on Page 1)

WEDDING CHARIOT In some unromantic circles it's known as a fire truck, but it was a chariot for Chief Anne Crawford, of Cedar Hill, R. I., world's only feminine fire boss, after her heart was eternally entwined with that of M. L. Holst. Bride and groom are in driver's seat following the wedding.

THAT'S HOW Mary Lou Miller uses Persis Harper's technique to illustrate for Aline Thayer how pansies should be planted. They're readying for World's Fair reopening. (Story on Page 15)

BEER snatched H. C. McIntosh back from a literal brink of death. (Story on Page 7)

SAVED from death by the quick action of her father, Wallace Thrasher, was Mrs. Russell Hayden, of Detroit. But Thrasher lost his own life when he shielded her from the gun of her mate, who then killed himself.

Red Generals, Admirals Given Full Authority

Political Officials Divested of Power in Armed Ranks.

MOSCOW, May 9. — (UP) — Russia, co-ordinating her armed forces in the face of possible extension of the European war, has made her military commanders "entirely responsible" for future Soviet martial operations, the Soviet press disclosed today.

The move eliminates the divided responsibility between political and military officers.

This disclosure followed the replacement of Marshal Klementi E. Voroshilov as Soviet commissar of defense by Marshal Semyon Timoshenko, who led the Russian military campaigns in Finland and Poland.

Given Full Authority.

Editorials in the Communist party newspaper Pravda and in government mouthpiece Izvestia explained the reinstitution of Red army generals and Red navy admirals to a state of full military authority and responsibility.

The editorials recalled the lessons learned by the Red forces in the Far Eastern campaigns against Japan and in Finland. During those campaigns a military council which included a political commissar held the authority.

"The reform," Pravda said, "aims to raise the authority of our commanders and strengthen military discipline. The necessity of reintroducing generals and admirals had long been clear.

Also "Responsible."

"Though belated, it constitutes a link in the chain of measures strengthening discipline of the armed forces," the newspaper continued. "The titles of general and admiral reflect clearly that the commanders have full authority in all army units."

"The results of the Finnish and Far Eastern campaigns," it added, "established their authority among the Red army and the masses of the Soviet people."

Izvestia said that there was a mandate now acquire full power and become entirely responsible. Soviet officials declared today that Moscow was contemplating a reported Soviet-Bulgarian-Jugoslavian military alliance.

Izvestia said that there was great tension in the Mediterranean, where war between Great Britain and Italy, according to the newspapers, would inevitably involve other countries in southeastern Europe.

Joyce Matthews Weds

Colonel Gonzalo Gomez

WHITE PLAINS, N. Y., May 9. — Colonel Gonzalo Gomez, son of the late President Juan Gomez of Venezuela, married 20-year-old Joyce Matthews, Hollywood actress, today at the White Plains courthouse.

Officials at Valhalla, N. Y., had declined to perform the ceremony because Miss Matthews is not 21.

Gomez announced that a planned good-will tour of the United States will be postponed until he returns to this country from a honeymoon trip around South America to Los Angeles.

NEW ALLIANCE LOOMS—Parallel reports of steps toward both Russian and Allied protection of Yugoslavia were viewed yesterday in the Balkans as evidence of possible Russian-British-French co-operation against the Rome-Berlin axis in that corner of Europe. White arrows show directions of possible attacks on Yugoslavia by Germany or Italy. Shaded triple-pronged arrow shows how Russians might come to aid their Slavic neighbor across Rumania. Black arrow show logical routes open to the Allies from either Egypt or Turkey.

Propagandists Curbed by New U. S. Regulation

Required Registration of Foreign Agents Keeps Activities in Open

By CEDRIC LARSON.

For North American Newspaper Alliance. WASHINGTON, May 9. — During the World War of 1914-1918, America was the happy hunting ground for rival armies of spies, agents, provocateurs, saboteurs and propagandists of every conceivable and inconceivable type.

The outcome was that after a great deal of vacillation, we finally plunged into that epochal struggle to "save the world for democracy" as the rallying cry put it, and ultimately emerged with no tangible results except a staggering bill of what economists conservatively estimate at one hundred billions of dollars.

Today Americans are probably the most propaganda-conscious people on earth. We are strongly allergic to it, over-sensitive about it, and shy away sharply from anything which emits even faintly the fragrance of propaganda.

Even the terse and colorless modern war communique, which is the soul of ambiguity, is eyed with suspicion and often rival communique are carried below such headlines as "Pay Your Money, Take Your Choice," and the like.

Nowhere are these tendencies more strikingly revealed than in the actions of congress itself.

And by the terms of the act approved June 8, 1939, certain persons employed by agencies to disseminate propaganda in the United States and for other purposes were required to register with the Department of State.

A foreign principal, as defined by the amended (August, 1939) act, includes "the government of a person domiciled abroad, any foreign business, partnership, association, corporation, or political organization, or a domestic organization subsidized directly or indirectly in whole or in part by any of the entities described."

Willful failure to comply with the terms of the act, or making a false statement of a material fact, or omitting any material fact required by the act, upon due conviction, brings maximum penalties of $1,000 and two years' imprisonment (either or both penalties).

By the end of December, 1939, there were only 272 registrations. One calendar year later, on December 31, 1939, this number had swelled to 418.

A careful analysis of the registrations reveals the remarkable fact that about 100, or roughly one-fourth, of all registrants represent principals in the British Empire (excluding India and Egypt) in whole or in part. Probably 20 further registrations (who did not reveal their client's nationality) could be added to the list.

Boulder City, which had about 6,000 people during the peak of construction on Boulder Dam, now has a permanent population of about 3,500.

Workers Need Only $309,000 In Center Drive

They Count on Atlantans' Generosity for Ultimate Victory.

With only $309,000 of the minimum goal of $1,300,000 yet to find, workers in every department of the University Center campaign last night were scanning their prospect list, making telephone calls for appointments and by their intensity and persistence showing that they realize that the last mile is the longest.

Every division chairman agreed in answer to the question of General Chairman Preston S. Arkwright that they had still many prospects to see and expected generous response.

Harrison Jones, heading the men's general division, expressed himself emphatically that there are many more people who must be seen by the seven sections in his outfit.

"We are taking stock tonight," said he, "and taking steps to insure the fact that every one on our prospect list will be given an opportunity to participate in this great project for the southeast. With only this margin separating us from a position of being able to acquire the gift of $2,500,000 from the general education board, it would be unthinkable for a city like Atlanta to fail in her opportunity."

Thomas K. Glenn, chairman of the initial gifts committee, will preside at today's report luncheon. A special feature will be the Agnes Scott College chorus under the direction of Lewis Johnson, director of music.

Allies Prepare 'Final Assault' In Narvik Drive

Two Columns Close in On German - Held Ore Port.

By PETER C. RHODES.

KIRUNA, Sweden, May 9. — Two Allied and Norwegian columns are driving through snow-capped mountain passes upon the Lapland iron ore railroad leading into Sweden in an effort to isolate the German garrison holding Narvik and began a "final assault" upon the town.

Information brought across the frontier today by refugees, some of them haggard Norwegian soldiers who escaped from the Nazis in Narvik, indicated that the columns driving upon the railroad from north and south were only 10 miles apart.

The two columns are pushing toward the railroad town of Bjornnefjell, just across the border, and once they have closed this trap upon the port they will turn and sweep westward for the big assault on Narvik itself.

Meanwhile, I was told by a Norwegian soldier who escaped from the border, that British warships and planes visit Narvik harbor every day and lay siege to places in the mountains where the Germans have machine-gun and light artillery defenses.

I was on the way to Narvik but the Swedish military headquarters refused to permit me to go on to the iron ore port which is about 90 miles from this town.

I was told that Allied and Norwegian forces had made considerable progress from the north and

French Repulse Nazi Attacks On West Front

Infantry and Artillery Go Into Action in Night Assaults.

PARIS, May 9. — (AP) — Concerted German attacks along a broad area on the extreme northern flank of the western front have been "everywhere repulsed," the French high command reported tonight.

The fighting went on throughout last night between opposing infantry. The high command's night communique indicated it took place in the 15-mile area separating the Moselle and Nied river valleys.

In addition to the infantry fighting, the artillery of both sides spurted into action to the west of the Vosges mountains and in the region of Wissembourg, along the southern half of the front.

had taken all ridges dominating the German positions along the Bjornnefjell railroad as well as Elvergard Moen below Herjangsfjord, eight miles north of Narvik.

The Norwegians have been aided by Allied French Alpine ski troops who have spent the last 10 days in clearing the Germans out of one mountain after another until they have accomplished this task.

Simultaneously, another Allied force, I was told, landed at the village of Elvegard at the lower end of Skjomensfjord, 10 miles southwest of the iron ore port, and had worked its way over the Stornstein mountains to the southern ridge dominating Bjornnefjell heights from the south.

Chamberlain's Resignation Is Believed Near

driven ashore and destroyed by shellfire and torpedo. One convoy attacked consisted of 10 ships, and six torpedoes "found their mark," the communique said.

The air ministry, a short time later, announced two German planes were shot down over the Scottish coast today.

Sources reporting the Labor refusal, given at a 45-minute conference with the prime minister tonight, said Chamberlain indicated his willingness to resign if he thought that would lead to formation of a new national government representative of all political factions.

Clement R. Attlee, Labor party leader, and Arthur Greenwood, deputy party leader, were present.

Lloyd George Unlikely.

Sir Archibald Sinclair, liberal leader, is understood to have adopted the same attitude. Whether Chamberlain will make a new attempt to bring the conflicting groups together under his leadership, or whether he will make way for a new prime minister, is a question which cannot be answered tonight.

In any event it appears unlikely that the shaggy-haired Welshman, Lloyd George, would return to the office he held in the decisive years of the World War. He is reported to have declined to be considered for leadership in a second war, after 50 years of active politics.

War Effort Spurred. Another thing seemed even more certain—a quickening of the war effort and greater initiative to save Britons disturbed by the failure in Norway.

2,500,000 More Men. Before parliament recessed today until May 21 for the Whitsuntide holiday, a proclamation in the name of King George VI made an additional 2,500,000 men liable for armed service when summoned.

The proclamation gave Britain a potential fighting manhood of 4,500,000 between the ages of 19 and 27.

The government also prepared to burst any "Trojan horse" within Britain. It presented a bill demanding the death penalty for grave cases of espionage and announced regulations to control aliens and propaganda.

Sir John Anderson, home secretary, told the house of commons the measures were framed carefully to halt "mischievous activities" without penalizing mere expressions of opinion.

Dictators Curb Life of Women, Pilot Club Told

Civil Service Official Cites Opportunities Afforded in America.

One of the first signs of totalitarian development in a country is the disbanding of women's organizations, Mrs. Lucille Foster McMullin, United States civil service commissioner, told members of the Pilot Club at a meeting here last night.

"The only organizations allowed to women in the dictator countries are those sponsored and carefully supervised by the totalitarian state," she said.

Tracing the rise of women in government service, Mrs. McMullin pointed out that there are now 172,000 in the executive branch of the federal government, and that in those branches of government under civil service there is no discrimination either in jobs or pay, against women.

She praised highly a pending bill by Congressman Robert Ramspeck of the tenth district, which would extend the civil service.

Seeks Return to Prison Where 'Life Is Easier'

DES MOINES, Iowa, May 10.—(P)—Donald H. Jay, 25, wants to go back to prison where life isn't so hard.

Jay, freed from the Anamosa (Iowa) reformatory a month ago, said the person to whom he was paroled forced him to work 18 hours a day.

He is a voluntary prisoner in the city jail while investigators are looking into the case.

Chemist Terms Cottonseed as No. 1 Cash Crop

Recent Growth of Industry Cited at Conference in New Orleans.

NEW ORLEANS, May 9.—(P)—Cottonseed, discarded a half century ago as valueless, was declared today to have become the southern farmer's most valuable cash crop.

Largely through the efforts of modern chemistry the average annual value of cottonseed to the southern farmer today has grown to approximately $250,000,000, declared E. R. Barrow, Memphis chemist here attending the 31st annual convention of the American Oil Chemists' Society.

"This makes it the largest cash crop, because the cotton linters are mortgaged, but there is no attachment against the cotton seed," said Barrow.

Looking to the future, he said that in spite of multiple uses of this former waste product since the cottonseed industry began to develop about 1880, "we haven't yet even scratched the surface in the developments to come out of our chemical laboratories."

Here's an Opening For Young Dentist

INEZ, Ky., May 9.—(P)—Old Doc Speer has retired and persons suffering from a toothache are wondering what to do.

Dr. Speer—his full name is A. D. Speer—has been Martin county's only practicing dentist for the past 52 years. He'll still treat a patient in an emergency but prefers to spend his time on his farm.

Since Martin county is not a populous one, serving as its only practicing dentist was not a difficult task. But 52 years is a long time, Doc Speer thinks.

He recalls he was the only dentist for six counties in three states—Kentucky, Ohio and West Virginia—when he opened his practice.

Trial of Eidson Delayed Again Until Tuesday

Lawyer With Ill Wife Obtains Flog Case Postponement.

Trial of Dan Eidson, 25-year-old East Point man, on charges of assault and battery growing out of alleged floggings, was postponed yesterday until Tuesday, because of the illness of a defense attorney's wife.

The trial had been scheduled originally for the past Wednesday morning. Attorney H. A. Allen, who will assist John Eidson in the trial, announced that Mr. Hudson's wife was ill and he would be unable to appear in court. At the request of Assistant Solicitor Daniel Duke, the case was postponed.

Eidson is charged with participating in five floggings during 1937, 1938 and 1939.

$975,000,000 Fund for WPA Wins Approval

House Group Favors Eight-Month Bill; Theater Projects Out.

WASHINGTON, May 9.—(P)—President Roosevelt's request for authority to spend $975,000,000 for WPA in eight months instead of a year, if necessary, won approval of a house appropriations subcommittee, members said today, but the group rejected an administration request for revival of the federal theater projects.

Over the objections of the Republican members, the subcommittee agreed to the President's request and tentatively arranged to present the relief bill, which also carries funds for the Farm Security Administration, to the house next Thursday.

Several legislators predicted prolonged debate over the proposal to put the WPA fund on an eight-month basis, starting July 1, which they contended was tantamount to boosting the total for relief for the next fiscal year to $1,500,000,000.

Colonel F. C. Harrington, WPA commissioner, had recommended the federal theater projects.

Death of Miller Called Accident

LONDON, May 9.—(P)—A coroner's inquest decided today that Webb Miller, European general manager of the United Press, died accidentally as a result of a fall from a train at Clapham Junction.

Dr. Frederick Simpson testified Miller suffered a fractured skull and "his injuries were consistent with a simple fall onto the railroad track."

"It is a sad case, a sad end to a brilliant life," Miller's body was found yesterday between two railway lines, 10 yards from the end of the Clapham station platform. Since blackout restrictions prohibit lights, it was presumed Miller stepped from his compartment in the belief his train was at the platform.

Funeral services will be held tomorrow in the chapel of Golders Green crematorium. Miller's ashes will be sent to the United States. His wife and 18-year-old son are in New York.

Sportsmen To Have Use Of Submarginal Acres

WASHINGTON, May 9.—(P)—The Agriculture Department announced today that 8,500,000 acres of submarginal land in its 141 land utilization projects would be opened to free public use for hunting, fishing and trapping. There are projects in all states except Massachusetts, Vermont and New Jersey.

Solons Pleased By Firing Test Of Garand Rifle Open All Day

Johnson Weapon Is Praised, But Change Thought Unnecessary.

FORT BELVOIR, Va., May 9.—(P)—Members of congress who have heard testimony critical of the army's new Garand semi-automatic rifle expressed satisfaction with its performance today, after seeing it in action here.

A score of senators and representatives witnessed a demonstration of the Garand, along with a rival weapon, the Johnson semi-automatic rifle.

Chairman Thomas, Democrat, Oklahoma, of the senate military appropriations subcommittee, who requested the demonstration, said that both weapons appeared to be "good guns" and added:

"Since the War Department already is manufacturing the Garand, there seems to be no reason to go into production on another rifle."

Undertaking to equip the nation's initial protective force of about 400,000 troops with the Garand rifle, the army already has invested $15,000,000 in its manufacture.

Harris or Mrs. Stowe Will Be Present To Meet F. D. R.'s Friends.

Speaker Roy V. Harris, of the state house of representatives, announced yesterday that either he or Mrs. Fred A. Stowe, secretary to the state Democratic executive committee, would be on duty every day at the Georgia Democratic headquarters recently opened at Room 812 Henry Grady hotel here.

"We are expecting a number of leading Democrats in from over Georgia and other southern states from time to time," Harris said. "Mrs. Stowe and I will divide the responsibility of headquarters and we will be glad to see and confer with all friends of President Roosevelt at any time."

The Georgia delegation has endorsed President Roosevelt for a third term.

Neutrality Act

Hampering Finns

WASHINGTON, May 9.—(P)—Hjalmar Procope, Finnish minister to the United States, said today that neutrality act restrictions on shipping were hampering Finnish use of their $30,000,000 Export-Import Bank credits.

He estimated that about $16,000,000 of the credits were still unused.

Under the neutrality restrictions American ships are forbidden to go to Finland. Thus while Finland may buy goods here with the Export-Import Bank credits, she faces heavy transportation difficulties.

Recently the Finns asked permission to take some of the credit in cash, which could be spent elsewhere, instead of in goods, but no official action has been taken on this proposal.

Mayor Guarantees

Traffic Study Fund

Failure of city council to approve a $550 appropriation Monday as the city's share of a $20,000 WPA survey of traffic conditions of metropolitan Atlanta will not delay or deter the project, it was learned yesterday.

Mayor Hartsfield yesterday informed federal authorities that he personally will underwrite the $550 fund if city council refuses its sanction, and asked that the work be executed with every expedition.

Alderman Ed A. Gilliam, chairman of council's finance committee, Monday told city hall reporters the allocation had been approved, but it "was his mistake."

It was not among the finance papers he presented. He said he was under the impression it had passed although the finance committee had taken no action on it.

2 SUBS, 94 MEN MISSING.
LONDON, May 9.—(P)—The admiralty announced today that six officers and 35 seamen are "missing" from the submarine Sterlet and five officers and 48 men from the submarine Tarpon. Both were reported on April 30 to be overdue and presumed to be lost.

Battleship Vs. Plane

There has, apparently, been much thinking of the muddled variety regarding the relative value, in war, of battleships and warplanes, ever since the two weapons came into conflict along the coastal waters of Norway and in the Skagerrak.

There have been loud claims by those who see in the airplane the controlling weapon of present-day warfare, to the effect that the battleship has been rendered obsolete and that it is, actually, at the mercy of an enemy which holds preponderant air strength.

As a matter of fact, an offshore fight is no fair test of the strength of the two arms. Even in the days before the plane became so heavy a fighting factor, naval forces placed themselves at a disadvantage in attacking shore positions. This is a recognized fact among all naval and military strategists.

The British fleet came out of the Norwegian adventure with considerable glory, certainly with no great disaster. If it could so conduct itself when the enemy aircraft had all the advantage of near-by bases on land, with the support of shore batteries, it rather emphasizes the contention that, in its own proper element, at sea, the battleship would be more than a match for any air attack which might, there, be brought to bear.

Sea strength is still, in all probability, the ultimate deciding war factor. It must be remembered that, even if Hitler has won spectacular successes against smaller and weaker nations, he has not yet faced a major test against the land or naval power of France and Britain. It must also be remembered that, after all, the British navy has swept German commerce from the oceans of all the world.

Beauty, Plus Brains

The late Flo Ziegfeld, world-famous connoisseur of feminine pulchritude, once upon a time said, of all the lovely girls who had graced his spectacular shows, the "most beautiful blonde in the world" was Justine Johnstone, then a star in the Ziegfeld Follies.

That, however, was a couple of decades ago. Today Justine Johnstone is contributing something other than personal decorative value to the happiness of the world. She is credited with much of the development of the new cure for syphilis, the "continuous, slow intravenous drip" treatment which, it is claimed, will cure the disease within five days. If this is true, it means a revolution in health and social affairs of the nation of the world. It means a probable reduction in crime, in infant mortality and in disease generally that is beyond estimation.

Miss Johnstone married Walter Wanger in 1919 and, twelve years later, in 1931, became interested in pathology. Although she had no medical training she became the lay associate of Drs. Harold Thomas Hyman and Samuel Hirschfeld, conducting syphilis research under the auspices of the Columbia University College of Physicians and Surgeons. Later, Mrs. Wanger and Dr. Hirschfeld continued their joint researches in Hollywood.

If the reports, and claims of the efficacy of the new cure are even partially correct, the former Follies beauty should have squealed, once and for all time, that ancient canard about the paucity of brains in conjunction with blond beauty.

Conserving Bauxite

Voluntary conservation of domestic bauxite stores and the purchase of huge quantities of the clay-like material from which aluminum is derived from Dutch Guiana reflect the concern which a war involving the Netherlands arouses in this country.

American manufacturers, faced with the heaviest volume of orders in history, have sharply reduced purchases from the American mines in Georgia, Alabama, Arkansas and Mississippi as a safeguard against shortages in the event war cut off the nation from imported supplies, whether through conquest or disruption of sources of supply or through lack of shipping available for the normal freighting of the mineral. Last year 92 per cent of the imports were from the Dutch possession.

The conservation of aluminum is part of a general plan to store strategic minerals against the day when they may be temporarily unavailable because of warfare, when a shortage of only a few items conceivably could shut down the industrial empire around which the entire American economy has been constructed.

And, as the shadows grow longer across the world, the protection of those vital sources will become more and more necessary. Which is why this manifestation of co-operation on the part of industry, without pressure or compulsion, bodes well for the future.

Finances of War

There is growing belief that the weak spot in Britain's war effort is to be found in Sir John Simon, chancellor of the exchequer. He has, it is stated, failed to realize that the real problem is to spend money fast enough to procure necessary equipment in time, and that the manner of raising that money is actually the secondary problem.

Simon has described the present British budget, involving a war expenditure of some two billion pounds per year, as on "heroic scale." The Labor party opposition in parliament, however, is more and more expressing a view that may be summed up in the phrase "To hell with the budget! Let's win the war!"

This, of course, envisages adoption of a system somewhat like that in force in Germany, with token currency, systems of barter, rigid rationing, etc. It is pointed out, however, that, despite all the economic difficulties imposed on Germany by lack of credits, the blockade and other economic restrictions, Hitler is spending on the war alone an annual budget of three billion pounds, which equals the combined costs of the war to both Britain and France. Moreover, all Hitler's expenditures go directly for the prosecution of the war, whereas a sizable proportion of the Allied costs are going to plant-expansion and similar indirect, even if necessary, costs.

Illustrative of the Simon viewpoint is his reputed action in refusing to approve the heavy warplane purchases arranged in this country by the Allied purchasing commission. It is said that Simon was chiefly responsible for a drastic reduction in these orders, which has had the effect of retarding American plant expansion and slowing American deliveries for the future.

Linked, of course, with the Simon tendency to parsimony is the desire of Chamberlain to maintain the capitalist system. The Manchester businessman cannot conceive of operating without a sound budget; and the thought of a totalitarian system, even if necessary to win the war, is utterly abhorrent to his spirit.

Yet, on the other hand, Britain has not yet called upon her people for sacrifices commensurate with those being made daily by the people of France. Taxation, even though Simon may call it "heroic," is still far lighter in Britain than in France; and the French soldier receives pay equaling only two or three cents a day, whereas his British ally is paid approximately half a dollar a day. French surtaxes are higher than British; and wage-scales for French labor have been drastically reduced, while hours of work have been increased.

It will probably develop, within the next week or two, that the weak spot in Britain's war effort stems from Sir John Simon and leaders of his type, men who cannot envisage the necessity for an "all out" war on the financial front and who are attempting budget balancing and national economy at a time when the issue is national life or death.

It may be necessary, for the duration of the war, for Britain to abandon all save the shell of democratic government and turn to a totalitarian form of control, in the hands of a small group, which will forget ancient shibboleths of the bookkeepers and concentrate on winning the war and "to hell with the budget!"

All hands among the candidates agree that war must not rear its ugly head in our midst. It's bad enough being confronted by the faces on the "true detective" magazines.

Another winsome picture we can't see, in the present state of Europe, is the Nazis tiptoeing through the tulips of Holland, when the time comes.

A man is the creature who looks into the tailor's tripe-view mirror to see how the coat sets around the neck, and says: "Boy! Do I need a haircut!"

While F. D. R. is stumping the country for conservation, the G. O. P. will convene in Philadelphia to repair the erosion that left it only Vermont and Maine.

A New York court, in its wisdom, rules a defendant cannot be held for calling a woman's hat a "basket," as his guess is as good as anybody's.

Editorial of the Day

A GEORGIA BENEFACTOR

(From The Charleston News and Courier.)
Governor Rivers entertained Robert M. Nelson, of New York, whom he calls one of Georgia's greatest benefactors. Mr. Nelson is said to have brought more than $11,000,000 in industrial investments to Georgia.

South Carolina needs some benefactors of the Nelson type. Perhaps they would appear if South Carolina assured industrial investors that they would be welcome. A committee of nine gave the general assembly advice on getting new industry, but little has been done to carry out the recommendations.

THE CAPITAL PARADE

By JOSEPH ALSOP AND ROBERT KINTNER.

FACTS ABOUT PLANES

WASHINGTON, May 9.—The emptiest nonsense now assailing the ears of the public is the story that the Allied plane-buying program is so big as to be dangerous to our own national defense. The exact opposite is true. From the standpoint of American interests, as well as English and French interests, the plane-buying program is too small.

It is too small for a simple reason. Early in the winter the excellent Allied purchasing mission, working in co-operation with military missions from both Allied armies, prepared tentative contracts with American manufacturers. These contracts called for the delivery of at least $1,000,000,000 worth of planes, and, if possible, $1,500,000,000 worth, by October 1941. The contracts were sent to London and Paris for approval, unfortunately before the world struggle had moved out of the siege-warfare phase.

Certain penny-pinching English and French leaders, reportedly captained by Chancellor of the Exchequer Sir John Simon, argued that the expenditures called for in the original contracts were altogether too huge. Thus contracts for only $600,000,000 worth of planes were approved. Now, after the cruel lesson of the tragedy of Norway, Anglo-French policy has been altered, and negotiations are on for still greater plane purchases. But, meanwhile, the expansion of the American aircraft industry has been unhappily delayed.

LESSON OF THE WAR

The cut in contracts approved means that, instead of 10,000 fighting planes, the Allies now have on order only 4,600. This may prove quite as tragic as the loss of south Norway, for the one great lesson of the war to date is the immense importance of air power. Yet, although the timidity of Allied plane buying is tragic, the actual record of American plane production is decidedly encouraging.

What bemuses those viewers with alarm who are not guilty of willful misrepresentation is the difference between plane deliveries and production capacity. As yet the delivery of planes has not begun to mount greatly. In April the entire aviation industry is believed to have finished and shipped only about 300 fighting craft. But, while deliveries have not begun to rise, production capacity is increasing by leaps and bounds, largely because the Allies have had to finance important additions to the aviation factories despite the cut in the contracts. So far, Allied orders have been chiefly given to five large manufacturers, whose plant floor space has already been extended from 5,000,000 to 8,000,000 square feet.

In fact, on the basis of contracts already approved and in production, the American airplane industry will be turning out warplanes at the rate of a little more than 15,000 a year by December, 1940. Both Secretary of the Treasury Henry Morgenthau Jr. and Assistant Secretary of War Louis Johnson have been trying to persuade the Allied buyers to spread their orders, including most of the 31 potential manufacturers, rather than concentrating on the five largest. If their persuasions are effective, and if the new contracts are promptly concluded, it is estimated that the industry's rate of production by next December will be 30,000 planes annually, or nearly double the present expectation.

"If the Allies would give orders tomorrow for the 20,000 planes which they are certainly going to need," said one high authority, "American production would hit the sky in a very short time."

WHAT REALLY COUNTS

Engine production is still the big bottle-neck, although the greatest pessimists concede that in the two years from January, 1939, to January, 1941, even engine production will have been quadrupled. Because of doubts of the ability of manufacturers to speed up engine production more than they have so far, the pessimists are inclined to doubt whether increased orders will have such an effect as is suggested by the more hopeful estimates above.

One obvious fact remains. As yet the army and navy may not have obtained delivery of the planes they need. In view of the terrific German production capacity, American capacity may still seem disappointingly small. The Allies may have been, indeed almost certainly were, amazingly short-sighted to cut their orders as they did.

But even the reduced Allied orders are financing a vital increase in American output, and, as new Allied orders come in, American output will continue to improve. Under the circumstances, it matters little that the army has not yet authorized 5,500 planes. If the time comes when the army really needs planes, they will be forthcoming infinitely more rapidly than they would have been without the Allied orders. And the ability to get new planes rather than the number of planes growing obsolete in the hangars, is what really counts.

SILHOUETTES

By RALPH T. JONES

Has Chamberlain
"Missed the Bus?"

It is impossible, looking upon the status of affairs in Europe as this is written, to avoid a deep feeling of pessimism. For, frankly, at this stage the Nazis and Hitler appear to be winning the war and the thought of what the world will face, if Britain and France are crushed, is not conducive to brightness and hope.

Maybe our analysis of the situation is wrong and, frankly, we hope it is. But this is the way it looks. Britain looks like a comparatively unarmed householder who, face to face with a gunman who holds a loaded gun at his head, dares the gunman to shoot on the theory that he, the householder, has the skill to make or the money to buy a better gun. He ignores the fact that before he can make or buy that better gun, the gunman now in the hands of the gunman will have done its deadly work and the victim will have no further interest in the affair, whatsoever.

There is no doubt that, given a few years for creation of a modern war machine, the Allies could defeat Germany. The great question of the moment is, have they the time to make machine already? If they have, the present dark clouds may be but a passing phase.

If they haven't, it is likely that Mr. Chamberlain has "missed the bus."

Strength
In the Air.

To the Germans Churchill concedes numerical superiority in the air. Allied plane production has not yet reached the rate of output of the German.

The fighting in Norway was no proper test of relative air strength. The Germans had command of the air in that brief campaign, admittedly, but this was chiefly because the Allies had no available landing fields and, hence, could not use their planes. It was hopeless to attempt to compete on equal footing with an enemy that had half a dozen near-by air bases, with planes which had to return to Britain very time they needed refueling or a new load of ammunition.

Somewhere, the Allies must have a strong air force. British and French factories have not been idle ever since September, and we know that quite a quantity of American planes have been delivered, either across the Canadian border or for shipment from various ports.

Of course, it takes time to train pilots. But, again, the Allies have not been loafing on this job, we may be sure.

There are other factors. Every evidence indicates that the supply of gasoline available to Germany cannot be large. And you can't fly planes or operate a mechanized army without gasoline. And the blockade, however leaky in spots, must have created a problem as to material in German factories.

At least, all these things are indicated as probable.

If They Cannot Catch Up.

If the Allies simply cannot catch up with Germany in the plane and other equipment race, then it is simply the end of democracy in Europe.

For, while Chamberlain and his associates are making their plans, the Germans will be winning the war. It is impossible not to fear that the British, by their immemorial custom, are depending upon "muddling through." That type of action is no use nowadays.

If they are operating on the old system, they are probably doomed. For that means they have not awakened to the new "timing" in war strategy. While they are organizing and deploying their forces for conflict, the enemy will be bombing those forces out of existence and the war will be over before the slower British are ready to begin to fight.

True, German blitzkrieg has, so far, operated only against weak, little nations. But all the evidence of neutral observers is that it is a terrible thing, that it strikes like lightning and depends for success upon demoralization of the enemy before they can catch their breath. Knock 'em off balance with the first blow and keep them staggering. That's the theory.

Well, if the Allies are really ready for anything that may come, as Chamberlain once declared, they may yet win the war. But if they are counting on pilots yet to be trained, on deliveries of American-made planes next fall or spring, on forces and equipment which have not yet left distant places of the earth, there is a sickening, too sickening, likelihood that "they have missed the bus."

And, if they have, it won't be a nice world for any of us with a guy like Hitler as the world's boss man.

Twenty-Five

Years Ago Today.

From the news columns of Monday, May 10, 1915:

"London, May 9.—Newspaper dispatches from Switzerland to Paris report Austrians and Germans fleeing from all parts of Italy. A Geneva dispatch asserts that 600,000 Italians have been concentrated at Verona, 25 miles from the Austro-Hungarian frontier."

And Fifty

Years Ago.

From the news columns of Saturday, May 10, 1890:

"Yesterday morning, at 9 o'clock, a special train, arrived over the East Tennessee, Virginia & Georgia, loaded with a picnic party from Dallas and Powder Springs. The train stopped at the gas works, where the party was transferred to the dummy line. The party was pulled out to Grant park, where the day was spent."

FAIR ENOUGH

By WESTBROOK PEGLER.

A Note
Of Humor

NEW YORK, May 9.—There's a note of humor, reminiscent of Charlie Chaplin in the days before he became a man with a message in the pompous squawk telegraphed to the American Federation of Labor in Washington by the national Service of the Building Employees' Union after Tom Dewey's men had picked up three officials and the bookkeeper of the racket as material witnesses in the case of George Scallise. Mr. Dewey wanted the testimony of some keymen of the union in the Scallise prosecution, so when the mob rallied in Atlantic City he grabbed his witnesses under the authority of an interstate treaty which permits extradition in such circumstances. There is no such treaty between New York and Illinois, which is the racketeer's home state, and Mr. Dewey had detected no eagerness on the part of the boys to co-operate in the task of delousing their union.

"Such action has no parallel in labor circles," said the message to the AFL in Washington. "We believe such activity seriously threatens labor councils, and we ask all labor to note that only in this state is such procedure possible. Future bodies should, when fixing convention locations, note the fact."

The warning to other unions, conducted or dominated by gorillas of the underworld, to stay out of New Jersey will be well noted by those whom it may concern, but it is unnecessary in the case of the so-called Stangehands' union, the International Alliance of Theatrical Stage Employees and Moving Picture Operators, for that malodorous racket already has honored the fair city of Louisville, Ky., with its preference, and will gather there on June 3 to reallocate the grafting and extortion privileges.

The hodcarriers' racket will not be interested one way or another, for it is not in the habit of holding conventions except under the hats of the boss unioners, who include some of the most rapacious leaders that ever beat a poor working stiff out of a day's pay.

Police

Warned

The police of various cities and the F. B. I. should place Louisville on their "must" list for June 3 and the four or five days ensuing, for the meeting of the Stangehands' Union promises to present a congress of grand and petty larcenists, yeggs, graduate bootleggers and assorted thugs the like of which is not likely to be discovered anywhere outside the austere councils of AFL unions, Joliet of Dannemora.

Occasion will be taken, no doubt, to deplore an attack on labor with a capital "L" the cruel incarceration of that noted alumnus of a Halsted street brothel and union racketeer, Willie Bioff, whose present address is the Cook county jail, and to reaffirm the union's faith in Nick Circella, the Chicago stickup man and general practitioner in crime.

The Louisville police are advised to place special guards around their banks, and the people of the city, if they are prudent, will move out of town for the duration, taking with them all possessions of value.

Gang Was

Self-Conscious

The building service mob were a little self-conscious at their reunion in Atlantic City, for the recent heat on their late illustrious president, Mr. Scallise, and certain other leading wags in labor's battle had attracted more attention than ordinarily attends the deliberations of a gang. Not only that, but there is reason to fear that Mr. Scallise and the charming brothers Schwartz, of New York, will presently have company in their predicament, for it seems unlikely that the hoodlums who adorn this subsidiary of the AFL permitted Mr. Scallise to take it all.

The protest to the AFL was correct. No such action has disturbed the solemn councils of a racket operating under charter from the AFL. But that is not to say that this action came an hour too soon or that the national leadership of the AFL deserves any credit for the belated attempt to create a distinction between the labor movement and the underworld. And Mr. Dewey, rather than William Green, will receive the credit for a service to the rank and file of labor and the reputation of the AFL.

ONE WORD MORE

By RALPH MCGILL

HAPPIEST MAN IN GEORGIA Tonight there will be celebrated the birthday of the man who, I believe, is the happiest and most contented man in Georgia.

If I were charged with presenting an award to the man who had done the one best job for his state, I would unhesitatingly present it to this man.

He is Tap Bennett, the salt-of-the-earth gentleman who is the administrator at Pine Mountain Valley.

He is on the job each morning at sunrise, or before. Indeed, the sun often is surprised, when peeping over the rim of the world, to discover Tap Bennett miles away from home already on the job. Pine Mountain Valley is a resettlement project. It was mismanaged for a while. Tap Bennett came. His idea was that work and a full stomach are good for the inner man and what ails him, mentally and physically. Work is Tap Bennett's platform.

He got work started. There were some who objected. Tap told them they would have to leave. They did. This was just before an election. Tap stood by his guns. A hostile force sent in special writers and photographers. They had been informed by the disgruntled who were unwilling to work. Tap had said not a word to anyone.

They left. The hostile forces spread the story that discontent and failure were rampant at Pine Mountain Valley.

When they were gone, Tap Bennett and the persons there who wanted to work and to become landowners and citizens started to work.

Pine Mountain Valley isn't a coddled, petted project. It is a place where people work hard and hope hard. They have achieved wonders and their project is so successful many states are missing a great opportunity not to imitate it. Provided, of course, they can obtain an administrator who believes in work and who understands, and likes, people.

Tap Bennett's heart is as big as his feet. It's big. He is happy in his job and he is happy about the citizens of Pine Mountain Valley. Georgia has no better citizens than these hard-working, taxpaying citizens who have been resettled and given the opportunity to prove themselves.

THE HONOR ROLL

There was a baby show at Pine Mountain Valley two days ago. There were 40 babies and their mothers in the community house.

There wasn't a baby underweight or sick. Tap Bennett's face glowed with pride and happiness. He was as happy, or happier, than any of the parents.

He remembered back four years ago when defeated, beaten people, possessing nothing at all, came with their undernourished children. He recalled what had to be done for all those who were sick and in need of medical care. All had been selected from relief rolls.

He could look at those 40 fat and plump babies, each radiating health, and at their parents, well and strong, with payments made on their land, with furnished houses, and with crops in the ground and chickens on it. He knew it was good.

The grade schools are at Pine Mountain Valley. The high school students go to two neighboring high schools. Last year there were 18 students on the honor roll at Hamilton and 16 of them came from Pine Mountain Valley.

Tap Bennett all but danced at the news. He was as proud of them as he was of his own boy when Tap Jr. won honors at the University of Georgia.

Georgia doesn't realize that at Pine Mountain Valley she has about 200 citizens who are comparatively new to the state; who are taxpaying citizens, making their own way, enjoying no present benefits not available to any other citizen. That they have made their community an exceptional one is to their own credit.

THE ADMINISTRATOR

If the New Deal had had 1,000 Tap Bennetts to administer their projects and experiments, there would not have been the many mistakes which brought about criticism. The administrators who gave up on the job before Bennett came were sincere men. They just couldn't grasp the idea.

Tap knew immediately that what makes for happiness is work and something on the table at mealtime.

So, they went to work. Tap Bennett got in the field and plowed with some who were slow to catch on. Tap Bennett worked himself. The office is three small rooms in an old house. The money was spent on a barn.

Tap Bennett doesn't believe there is much good in an office. But a barn—well, a barn is useful. It's all right to spend money on a barn.

He has the blessing of common sense. He likes people. They like him. He isn't paternalistic. The community meets and talks over its own problems.

I've known a lot of stuffed shirts who occupied places on important commissions which met and met and made reports and did little. Many of them were called "great Americans."

I think Tap Bennett is a great American. He is a typical American, the sort who pioneered and made the country. There are plenty of Tap Bennetts left. They aren't vanishing Americans.

Tap Bennett was a New Dealer well before the New Deal. He had been working for the objectives of the New Deal before the elections of 1932. He believes in them yet. They almost are a religion with him.

He wants to resettle people, to make new citizens, to see children go to school and get on the honor roll; to see fat, healthy babies instead of anemic ones.

It's his birthday today. And tonight the whole community will give him a party.

He is the happiest man I know. And one of the best.

Those Who Heed a Pep-Talk
Are Privileged to Grind Some Other Fellow's Axe

By ROBERT QUILLEN.

An eloquent appeal and greeting to the Norwegian people by the famous nationalist, Sigrid Undset, said in part:

"We greet with sad and bitter pride our soldiers who are fighting today for the honor and freedom of our country; for our right to remain what we have been so long—a people who love life and all that sanctifies it, a people who hate loathsome catchwords about 'blood and iron,' 'blood and race,' and 'nerves of steel' and all those concepts which revolt the very depths of our beings."

Such sane and mature-minded speech is needed by the people of all nations, for we are permitting ourselves to be impressed by standards and ideas that are childish, little and foolishly snobbish.

STATEMENT BY FRANK WHELCHER

Editor Constitution: In view of an erroneous charge published and broadcast at the close of my recent trial with respect to a remark attributed to me regarding the newspapers, I am furnishing this statement to the press with the hope that it will be given the same degree of prominence that was given the alleged remark.

I never made the remark attributed to me, as can be verified by several unimpeachable people who heard exactly what I did say.

During the progress of my trial one particular reporter covering the case had been especially unfair to me in his news articles, studiously picking out every isolated fact or circumstance that in his opinion was unfavorable to me, and always avoiding unimpeachable explanations of these facts and circumstances as developed by the evidence, and in one instance going so far as to cast reflections by implication not only upon me but members of my family and others. When the verdict of not guilty was read in court I turned to this particular reporter and expressed my opinion of and to him personally, and he understood that my remarks were addressed to him and not to or about newspapers generally.

I believe in a free and untrammeled press as essential to our form of government. I was given a fair trial and the result speaks for itself. I am deeply grateful and am more convinced of the fairness of the people of Georgia and am perfectly willing to abide the judgment of my neighbors as to my conduct when all the facts are fairly placed before them.

B. FRANK WHELCHER, Gainesville, Ga.

Editor's Note:

The remark Congressman Whelcher refers to is "Damn the newspapers, and you can print that, too."

Newspapermen at the press table at the recent Gainesville trial understood the remark to have been addressed to those at the press table generally, and it was so printed by newspapers reporting the incident. The Constitution is glad to print Congressman Whelcher's statement.

Toll Based on Population Less, Safety Expert Declares Here.

Georgia's highway patrol compares very favorably with those of other states but still Georgians stand no better chance than in the national average in escaping death on the highways, J. Stan Baker, national safety council traffic expert, told police chiefs and sheriffs gathered here yesterday for the dedication of the state patrol's new 1,000-watt short wave police radio.

He was speaking at a banquet given by Commissioner Lon Sullivan and the department of public safety.

Averages Differ. "On a basis of per million miles driven, Georgia has about half again as many fatal accidents as the national average, but on a basis of per 100,000 population, the Georgia average is a little below the national, this just about making even the chances," Baker said.

"The reason for this difference is that more people in Georgia don't drive than do in other states and also the high number of Georgia highway accidents involving out-of-state drivers."

The national average is 12 killed for each 100,000,000 miles driven; the Georgia average, 16.9. Per 100,000 population, the national average is 25 killed; in Georgia, 23.

Patrol Praised.

Baker said the Georgia patrol was rendering effective work and that conditions would improve with the installation of the radio. He said the radio will make more effective the apprehension of hit-run drivers and auto thieves.

Out of state guests included Major T. Weller Smith, of the Alabama state patrol; Captain Fleming Mason, of the South Carolina state patrol, and Major H. N. Kirkman, of the Florida patrol.

The dinner guests heard a broadcast over the state patrol station, WGSP, as a part of the program, arranged by Sullivan.

Boy Scouts Name Mayor, City Aides

Special to THE CONSTITUTION.

MILLEDGEVILLE, Ga., May 9. Luther Reid, of Scout Troop 71, Hardwick, yesterday was elected to serve as mayor of Milledgeville on Boys' Day, June 6. He defeated Thomas Bivins, of Troop 54, by a three-vote margin.

With 90 per cent of the Boy Scouts in the county casting ballots in the election Reid and his six running mates for council swept into office by a count of 31 to 28.

Successful candidates to city council were Billy Barron, Bonner Jones, Albert Martin, J. A. Shealey, Bernard Spivey and John Trammell.

Reid announced appointments of Bivins as chief of police, with Joe Herringdine and W. T. Berry as policemen; Robert Goggans, clerk and treasurer; Isiah Davis, assistant clerk; Edwin Hughes, recorder; Buford Neighbors, fire chief; Billy Hargrove, city attorney; H. R. Gordon, superintendent of streets; Harvey Davis, superintendent of the cemetery, and Drew Thompson, superintendent of the sanitary department.

Good Morning—By Louie D. Newton

Fletcher Dobyns, a lawyer, living in Pasadena, with offices in Los Angeles, a man whose legal career includes three years as state's attorney of Cook county, Illinois; assistant United States district attorney of the northern district of Illinois; assistant attorney general of the United States; special counsel for the United States Shipping Board, etc., has written a book, "The Amazing Story of Repeal—An Expose of the Power of Propaganda," published by Willet, Clark & Co., 1940, which I commend to students of the American scene.

We are far enough away from the campaign of the wets and dries over prohibition and repeal to calmly review the story of prohibition and the period of return to legalized liquor, and this book undertakes to examine the available facts dealing with this interesting chapter in recent American history. The book, consisting of 457 pages, is apparently the work of a man who has devoted much time to its writing. It is factual in its treatment, with citations of every quoted statement. It appears to be a substantial survey of the whole field of facts involved in one of the greatest social questions related to our day and generation.

The book is divided into three parts. Part one deals with "How Repeal Was Put Over," with chapters on "The Association Against the Prohibition Amendment," "Shock Troops of the A.A.P.A.," "The Final Grand Assault," "The Allied Tammany Halls," "The Result of Repeal." Part two deals with "Repeal Propaganda," with chapters on "The Technique of Propaganda," "How and Why America Went Dry," "The Eighteenth Amendment," "The Volstead Act," "The Administration of the Prohibition Law," "Prohibition and

Miller Receives Portion of Data He Demanded

Says Officials Are 'Seeking To Use Every Possible Delay.'

Chairman W. L. Miller, of the State Highway Board, said late yesterday he had received a portion of the information he had demanded regarding the financial affairs of the department during the period he was out of office, but charged that department officials are "seeking to use every possible delay" in answering his communications for information.

Meanwhile, department officials said they had prepared a report showing the disbursement of $500,000 withdrawn from the state treasury on April 20, two days before he was restored to office. The recently completed May 1 balance sheet which showed the department with a contractual deficit of $4,517,793.78 was furnished Miller yesterday.

Only a Portion.

The chairman also exhibited several folders of requisitions for materials which, he said, came from J. G. Glover, supervisor of state forces. Miller said the folders contained only a portion of the requisitions and purchase orders and was not what he had demanded.

"They tell me it will take time to get them up," Miller said. "Of course I know they are just delaying things as much as possible."

The chairman said he is delaying into a report that there had been "enormous" purchases of asphalt a few days before his return to office. The purchases of asphalt as well as other materials will be shown on the purchase orders Miller has demanded and which his colleagues on the board, Herman H. Watson and Lawson L. Patten, said would be furnished him.

Not To Rush Demand.

Miller said he would not follow up his demand on State Auditor Zack Arnold for an audit of the department during the period from December 2 to April 22, when he was out of office.

"I asked the auditor for a special audit because I had been unable to get needed information," Miller said. "He says he will make it only if I charge fraud. I am not making any charges against anyone, but I feel like I ought to know what occurred in the department while I was out."

Arnold repeated yesterday that he would order an immediate audit if Miller would say "he has any suspicion of fraud."

"Audits are a matter of routine unless a department head says he suspects something wrong," Arnold said. "If Mr. Miller says he thinks there are irregularities I will abandon every other line of work of my department and start a check immediately. Otherwise the audit will be made in the regular way after the close of the year's business June 30."

Highway Department officials said the $4,517,793.78 deficit was "not unusual." They added that the working deficit was more than $7,000,000 when the Rivers administration came into power and has run as high as $9,000,000.

The list of items paid for out of the $500,000 which Miller inquired about was not made public, but it was learned that the items totaled more than 500, running from a few dollars for day laborers up into thousands for contractors and counties doing highway work.

Gas Main Blast Injures Model, Geysers Steam

Jets Muddy Column 14 Stories Up Side of N. Y. Hotel.

NEW YORK, May 9.—(P)—A gas main explosion which broke an underground steampipe sent a column of steam and mud up the side of the 32-story Park Central hotel early today, seriously injuring a woman and knocking down several other persons.

Connie Renaud, 22-year-old model, was knocked down and struck by a chunk of cement. She also suffered burns of the face, hands and body from escaping steam.

The force of the blast blew a hole 25 feet in circumference in the pavement on the 56th, street side of the hotel, situated on Seventh avenue. Mud splattered hotel windows as high as the 14th floor.

A woman and a man, walking with Miss Renaud, were bowled over but did not require medical treatment. A photographer and several patrolmen also were knocked off their feet and beluged with mud.

At least 50 hotel windows were smashed.

During the World War the United States airplane industry turned out more than 23,000 planes and 30,000 engines.

U.S. Threatened By Old Plagues, Parran Warns

Nation's Health Chief Calls for Immediate Precautionary Steps.

WASHINGTON, May 9.—(P)—A warning that plagues may sweep the densely populated industrial areas of the United States unless precautionary measures are taken was sounded today by Surgeon General Thomas Parran.

The head of the United States Public Health Service told the annual conference of state and territorial officers:

"Let us be lulled into complacency by accomplishments, let me sound a note of warning in respect to possible outbreaks of plague, typhus fever, yellow fever or smallpox."

Typhus fever and plague have been spreading eastward from the Pacific coast among rats, ground squirrels and other rodents, Dr. Parran said, and bites of the fleas which infest them may transmit the diseases to human beings.

The dread maladies have been found in most of the Pacific and Rocky Mountain states and in some plains states and Southern states.

Typhus fever and plague were the scourge of the middle ages and occurred in epidemics in the United States as late as 1900.

For many years this country "has escaped the ravages of yellow fever" because of strict quarantine measures, the surgeon general said, but since the disease is still prevalent in South America and because of rapid airplane transportation between the North and South American republics a real danger exists. The mosquitoes which transmit the disease are common in the United States.

Mapmaker Lists Needs of Europe

WASHINGTON, May 9.—(P)—The State Department geographer is convinced that boundary-troubled Europe must come to a new concept on the nature of borders.

Neither shifting frontiers nor military conquest will solve the problem, said Mapmaker S. Whittemore Boggs in a study issued today by the Columbia University Press.

He listed these needs: "Respect for homogeneous communities, several of which may be included within a single customs union and may employ a common monetary system."

"General simplification of boundary functions, the lowering of many trade barriers, the production of goods where they can be produced most economically, and their exchange for goods which can be obtained advantageously elsewhere."

Boy, 18, on Motorbike Hurt in Crash With Auto

Injured when his motorbike struck an automobile near the intersection of South Ira and Glenn streets, James Elmer Tester, 18, of 157 Richardson street, S. W., was admitted to Grady hospital yesterday suffering from a compound fracture of the right leg.

Police listed the driver of the car as H. B. Wilson, 33, of 978 Stewart avenue, S. W., who was booked on a charge of reckless driving—accident. Tester was charged with reckless driving—running past a stop sign.

Census Enumerator Runs Into Difficulty

PADUCAH, Ky., May 9.—(P)—Mrs. Vera Grubbs McDaniel, a census enumerator, completed her assigned territory of some 1,100 persons, but not without some difficulty.

She had to board a United States engineer launch to reach three families on an island in the Ohio river, embraced by Paducah's city limits. She used a rowboat to visit families living in several river houseboats.

Then, Mrs. McDaniel and the stork were tied in reaching one home, and she assisted in the birth of a baby before winding up her questioning.

Mother of E. H. Crump, Memphis Politician, Dies

HOLLY SPRINGS, Miss., May 9.—(P)—Mrs. Mollie Nelms Crump, 97, aged mother of E. H. Crump, Memphis political chieftain, died this morning. She was the widow of Edward Hull Crump Sr., Confederate veteran.

James Buice, Ex-Policeman, Fatally Stricken

Suffers Heart Attack While Returning Home From Doctor.

James David (Jim) Buice, 42, former policeman and for the last five years an employee of Neut Garner, Atlanta bondsman, died yesterday when stricken with a heart attack while returning from a doctor's office to his home at 759 Woodland avenue, S. E.

A familiar figure around the police station for more than a decade, Buice served as head of the vice squad during the administration of Police Chief T. O. Sturdivant. He was dismissed twice, but reinstated each time, finally resigning in 1935 to accept a position with Garner.

At the time of his death, he was riding in an automobile with C. E. Garner, of 645 Grisham avenue, S. E., the son of his employer.

Surviving are his wife; two daughters, Mrs. W. G. Moore and Miss Mary Joe Buice; a son, J. D. Buice Jr.; four sisters, Mrs. Jim Langley, Mrs. R. B. Maner, Mrs. Frank Peavy and Mrs. Ernest Bagwell, and two brothers, J. T. and R. W. Buice.

Funeral arrangements will be announced by J. Austin Dillon.

Luise Rainer Revives Suit to Divorce Odets

HOLLYWOOD, May 9.—(UP)—Luise Rainer, Viennese actress, today revived her divorce complaint against Clifford Odets, playwright.

A hearing was set for Tuesday. The complaint originally was filed two years ago and alleged mental cruelty. Following a reconciliation the complaint remained dormant. Miss Rainer charged Odets had an ungovernable temper and insisted there should only be one career in the family. They were married January 8, 1937.

Trio Cremated After 2 Planes Collide in Air

Military Ship Lands Safely With Pilot Hurt Slightly.

LOS ANGELES, May 9.—(UP)—A mid-air crash between a military pursuit plane and a plane carrying photographers killed three men and injured one today.

The dead were: Walter Quinton, veteran pilot for the Paul Mantz Air Service, Marshall A. McCarroll, chief of the Paramount Newsreel Los Angeles office.

M. Coombs, photographer for the Vultee Aircraft Company.

Vance Brees, Vultee test pilot, returning to the Vultee plant at Burbank yesterday from a routine flight, was injured.

Wings of the two planes touched as they were nearing the Downey airfield. Witnesses said each pilot apparently failed to see the other plane because of sun glare.

Brees succeeded in bringing his fast pursuit plane down on the field with only slight injury to himself. The other ship crashed and burst into flames, cremating the men inside.

Speaker Says Bar Must 'Cure' Itself

The practice of law was described "as second only to the ministry" by Mayor J. Woodall Rodgers, of Dallas, Texas, in an address yesterday before the Atlanta Bar Association and Lawyers' Club.

"Need we deny that the lawyer and the legal profession have lost caste through the years?" he said. "Whether it be through overcrowding its ranks with uneducated, unqualified, unethical members, or the apathetic attitude of the profession itself in failing to set its own house in order, the fact nevertheless remains that the cure lies within the profession itself. The lawyer holds his own fate."

Trustee Will Get Diploma at School

CADWELL, Ga., May 9.—For probably the first time in the history of Laurens county a member of a school board of trustees will receive a bonafide diploma as a member of the senior class of 1939-40.

Walter Daniell, clerk of the Laurens county commissioners, will be among the large graduating class at Cadwell Consolidated High school when the diplomas are handed out early in June. Mr. Daniell has been studying at night. He has made good marks and will be graduated with honor, officials of the school said. He has been a member of the board of trustees of the school for years.

For reasons beyond his control Mr. Daniell failed to get a diploma when a boy, but decided he wanted one, so began the night courses.

Monroe To Hold Week Honoring Work of WPA

MONROE, La., May 9.—Mayor Jake Launius has issued a formal proclamation designating the week of May 20-25 as the "This Work Pays Your Community" week, and urges every citizen to visit every WPA community service project in Walton county in order observe the work.

The cotton farmers are joining in adding their support, and also are celebrating National Cotton Week from May 17-25. Open house will be held at all WPA projects.

Hitler Telegraphs Carol On Independence Day

BERLIN, May 10.—(Friday)—Adolf Hitler today telegraphed congratulations to King Carol, of Rumania, on the occasion of the Rumanian national holiday celebrating the proclamation of her independence May 10, 1881.

Today in Atlanta Churches

Mrs. R. G. LeTourneau, of Toccoa, will speak at 8 o'clock tonight at the Atlanta Gospel Tabernacle, Euclid avenue near Edgewood. She will tell her experiences in Christian work with young people. Mrs. LeTourneau operates a Christian camp for Young People on Winona Camp, Ind. each summer. Dr. Ira E. David, pastor, announced.

General Altar Society of Sacred Heart church will meet at 2:30 o'clock this afternoon in the assembly room of the church with the St. Catherine's Circle as hostesses.

Annual spring banquet of the Atlanta Baptist Student Union will be held at 7:30 o'clock tonight at the First Baptist church on Peachtree street. Dr. D. B. Nicholson, of Atlanta, state student secretary for Georgia Baptists, will be principal speaker.

School of Evangelism at the Warren A. Candler Methodist church will award certificates Sunday at the morning services to those who completed the program.

Business Woman's Circle of the Trinity Methodist church met Wednesday night at the church. The program was built around "What Is Taking Place in Your Church Today." Miss Mary Pool presided.

Palmer Dallis circle of St. Luke's Episcopal church will sponsor a benefit movie for children at 3 o'clock this afternoon at the church.

Bees' Blitzkrieg Quickly Halted By Stranger's Tireless Thumb

Harassed Housewife Finds Succor in News Office; Sudden Discouragement Dealt to Invaders.

By GEORGE MACNABB.

Special to THE CONSTITUTION. NEWNAN, Ga., May 9.—Recipe: One swarm of infuriated bees; one distracted housewife expecting company; a newspaperman; one physician and one south Georgia beekeeper. Mix well on a warm spring afternoon, and—

A swarm of bees, roughly about 57,000 little black wild bees discovered a loose screen in the home of Mrs. Herman Glass and proceeded to march into the house Indian fashion; but faster than an elephant falling from a skyscraper.

They located a sweet-smelling bottle in the bathroom and most of them swarmed around it thicker than bees (which should give you a general idea). Those who couldn't reach the bottle divided into squads of eight and covered the rest of the house from cellar to attic quicker than you can say "It was a bee blitzkrieg."

Mrs. Glass was (figuratively) standing on a left eyebrow. It was then 4:30 o'clock. Mrs. Glass expected company about six. The house was full of bees, bees, bees, swarming and zooming and whining . . . slipping down lampshades, crawling up curtains, lining up on the dining table, falling in the dishes, wading six-deep in the ash trays.

And Mrs. Glass, he it understood, is terribly afraid of bees. They sting.

Action, then.

And what more natural than to call the newspaperman and put a bee in its reporter's bonnet.

It so happened that about that time a tall, lanky stranger, who introduced himself as a Mr. Palmer, walked into the newspaper office in quest of publicity for a Boy Scout band. But bees were on the reporter's mind. The conversation turned to bees—and instantly the stranger "lowned" he owned 90 hives of 'em down at Mount Vernon.

Ninety hives! A band promoter who runs 90 hives of bees! Talk about coincidences.

And so Palmer was commended, all seven feet of him. A car belonging to Dr. A. A. Barge (who was in it) was ditto, and the three barged out to Mrs. Glass'.

Dr. Barge carrying his bag in case of stings. Well the man from Mount Vernon knew what to do. After picking up a squirming example, studying it, and delivering a learned discourse in south Georgian on the various types of the bee, he concluded that these, a wild bunch at best, were not worth saving. So, instead of catching 'em, he slew 'em one by one.

LUCKY TETER AND HIS HELL DRIVERS SUNDAY, 3 P. M. LAKEWOOD PARK General Admission 25c

one, employing the following useful method: You place the bee under your thumb and press, definitely discouraging him. In this way he killed many hundreds, most of which he washed down the bathtub drain.

The day was saved. Dinner plans went on. The company arrived on time, none the wiser.

And, oh yes, Mr. Glass was out of town when it all happened. Lucky man.

Wary Police Chief Couldn't Avoid Fate

BROOKFIELD, Mo., May 9.—(P)—Police Chief J. E. Carroll, invited to attend a meeting of the Brookfield Anti-Thief Association, was tipped off by a friend he might be roughly initiated into the order. And so he stayed away. Then came a call that someone was trying to steal a car from a garage. Enlisting the aid of the

'20-Mule Team' Set For Rhodes Today

"Twenty-Mule Team" has been held over at the Rhodes theater starting today. It stars Wallace Beery, supported by Leo Carrillo and Marjorie Rambeau.

Saga of the pioneers who braved the valley's treacherous heat to wrest a fortune from the borax mines, "Twenty-Mule Team" presents Beery in his element as Muleskinner Bill Bragg. As his Indian "swampy," Plute Pete, Carrillo scores as outstandingly as he did in "Viva Villa," while Marjorie Rambeau proves such a surefire feminine teammate for Beery as Saloon Owner Josie Johnson.

night marshal, Chief Carroll crept up on the dark garage.

Just as he entered, someone switched on the light and there was the whole Anti-Thief Association ready to give him the initiation works.

Rialto Holds Over Doctor Takes Wife

"The Doctor Takes a Wife" is evidently just the type of broad comedy Atlantans like in their screen programs. Anyway, the reception accorded this picture at the Rialto theater, where it has been showing for a week, has compelled Manager W. T. Murray to extend the engagement for another seven-day period, which begins with the first show this morning.

Loretta Young and Ray Milland are the stars of the production, with a smart and competent supporting cast that includes Gail Patrick, Reginald Gardiner, Edmund Gwenn and Frank Sully. It was directed by Alexander Hall and the story is from the type-writer of Allen Leslie.

It is the story of a young doctor sworn never to plunge into matrimony, and of a young woman novelist whose popularity is based upon her glorifications of spinsterhood.

Canadian Warship Takes Nazi Craft

OTTAWA, May 9.—(P)—The new Canadian flotilla leader, the destroyer Assiniboine, shared honors with a royal navy cruiser in the capture of the German merchantman Hannover in the Caribbean Sea, the royal Canadian navy made known today.

The 5,600-ton Nazi vessel, attempting to run the Allied blockade with 6,000 tons of ore and lumber from the Netherlands West Indies, was overhauled in the early morning darkness of March 8 off the Dominican coast.

Despite high seas and attempts the German crew to burn their ship, the Allied vessels towed her to Kingston, Jamaica, as a prize of war.

White's Views Upon Russians Altered by Girl

Her National Praise Makes No Impression—But She Does.

By WILLIAM L. WHITE,
Special Correspondent.

S. S. SATURNIA, EN ROUTE TO TRIESTE.—(By Mail).—Through the glass we could see the lights of the little towns along the Dobrajan coast, and in the morning we would land at Trieste. The very pretty blond Russian girl, who has been a year in the States and is now going back to Moscow, looks at the lights for a while through my binoculars, and then hands them back.

"I shall be very glad to get home," she said, for the second time. "I liked America very much, but I don't feel at all like Greta Garbo in that movie, 'Ni-notchka'."

"Don't you like Rumania?" she asked. Russians don't like Rumania at all.

"I don't know Rumania. I don't like what I hear."

"And what's that?"

Condition of Peasants.

"That the peasants are very, very poor, and more miserable than any in Europe, and probably would be no worse off under you Russians than they are now. Not at all like the Finns—I never saw a poor farmer in Finland."

"They all owned their own land and had good houses and barns. And I hear that the king of Rumania, in the middle of all this poverty, is putting a marble wing on his castle in imitation of Buckingham palace."

The Russian girl looked at me hard. "And you'd write all that?"

"If I find that it's true when I get there."

"And you really think your American papers would ever print it if you did write it?"

"If I write it, I know our American papers will print it."

"I hope they do," she said, and although she said it very sweetly and nicely and politely, I could see she was quite sure that they never would.

"But even if it is all true and I write it, I don't want to go there, because places like that are not nice to be in."

"But why don't you come to Russia?"

"I'd like to very much," I said, and this is true.

"It isn't at all like it is in the movies," she said. "We are quite free. There are no spies."

"Perhaps I will come," I said, and this was not true, and I only said it to be polite. For I am quite sure that the government in which she believes so much would never grant me a visa to visit Russia.

But even though the Soviets won't let me in, I know they can't be as bad as their bitterest and silliest enemies make out, or they could not have produced as gentle and kindly and intelligent and well-mannered a girl.

Majority of U. S. Voters Favor Greater Aid for Allies If Needed

Voice Preference at Present for Candidate Who Promises To Keep Nation Out of War But Is Willing To Give France and Britain Help.

By DR. GEORGE GALLUP,
Director, American Institute of Public Opinion.

PRINCETON, N. J., May 9.—With public sentiment overwhelmingly against American entrance into the war, it is almost certain that both political parties will take a vigorous stand to keep the country at peace. On this issue there is likely to be little debate or controversy. The real issue which is almost certain to be debated in the campaign is the extent to which the United States can, or should, help England and France short of going to war herself.

Many G. O. P. leaders are trying to assess isolationist sentiment in their party and in the country. Is the public mood after eight months of war predominantly for giving no more help than at present to the Allies, or is it for furnishing all the help the Allies need except sending our army or navy?

To get some indication of sentiment on this vital issue, the American Institute of Public Opinion put the following question before the voters in all areas of the country:

"If you were voting for President, which type of candidate do you think you would be more likely to vote for?"

1. A candidate who promises to keep us out of war and refuses to give any more help to England and France than we are now giving them, even if they are being defeated by Germany.

2. A candidate who promises to keep us out of war, but who is willing to give England and France all the help they want, except sending our army and navy."

The vote of those expressing a choice was:

Candidate Favoring Greater Help for England and France If Needed 66%

Candidate Opposing Additional Help for England and France 34%

The chief significance of the survey lies in the vote by political parties. Although many Republican leaders have been attempting to make the G. O. P. appear to be the party of peace and isolation and to paint the Democrats as a party of intervention and war-mindfulness, the study today finds virtually no difference in viewpoint among the rank and file of voters in the two parties.

Decatur Edifice Is Purchased For $13,500

Building Had Housed the DeKalb County Agricultural Offices.

Sale of a building at 528 North McDonough street, Decatur, which for the past three months has housed the DeKalb county agricultural offices, was announced yesterday by Wheat Williams, Decatur real estate man.

A two-story brick structure, with granite front, the building and property were purchased for $13,500 by E. G. Spencer, C. R. Strickland and D. R. Hall, representatives for a national paint company. Seller was the Pan-American Life Insurance Company.

The building has served as headquarters for the DeKalb county AAA office, home demonstration agent, county agent and 4-H Club.

The announcement followed closely announced plans to subdivide the Comfort Hill section of Decatur into 70 building lots. According to Williams, the section was purchased by P. L. Weekes, Decatur contractor, from the Barnwell estate at an undisclosed figure.

Choosy Holdup Men Refuse Victim's $17

CHICAGO, May 9.—(AP)—Milton Klein thinks the holdup men in Chicago are getting a little choosy, but he's glad of it.

Klein, an apartment building superintendent, was confronted by two armed robbers who entered the building and demanded the "rent money."

When Klein handed them $17 and assured them that was all he had on hand, the robbers disgustingly tossed the money on the floor and stalked out.

10 Days Behind Bars

OMAHA, Neb., May 9.—(AP)—Edgar Stevens, 37, has an answer to what's in a name—in his case 10 days in jail.

Arraigned before Jolice Judge Lester Palmer on vagrancy charges, Stevens explained that as kangaroo court judge in the county jail he was known as "Suspended Sentence Stevens."

"They call me '10-Day Palmer'," the police judge observed.

'Center' Debate Will Be Taken Before Regents

Augusta Paper Questions Plan's Effect Upon University.

ATHENS, Ga., May 9.—(AP)—An editorial in an Augusta newspaper today said the state board of regents would be asked tomorrow whether officials of the University of Georgia had made commitments to private schools in Atlanta that might affect the state institution adversely.

The editorial quoted George Hains, a member of the board, as asserting he planned to inquire whether any agreement aiming at a proposed university center at Atlanta might prove injurious to various units of the state school.

E. B. Braswell, Athens publisher, has conducted an editorial campaign against the Atlanta center "swallowing up" the university.

Millwee Owens, Augusta editor, declared editorially, "We are not willing for a university center to be established in any part of the state at the expense of some other part of the state."

Fish Sportsman's Ashes Given 'Poor Little Fishes'

BUFFALO, N. Y., May 9.—(AP)—Three friends of Albert E. Vagt, 77, past president of a fishing club, carried out his last request by casting his ashes into the Niagara river and reciting this epitaph:

"Poor little fish. You won't have to be afraid of me any more."

They did. Right back home, where detectives awaited. An excited motorist had reported the mysterious hand, and had given police the Stratis license number.

F. D. R. TO BE SPEAKER. WASHINGTON, May 9.—(AP)—President Roosevelt accepted today an invitation to address the bicentennial celebration of the University of Pennsylvania September 22 at Philadelphia. He also will receive an honorary degree of doctor of laws.

Clubwomen Pass Resolutions At Closing Annual Session

By BESSIE S. STAFFORD,
Editor of Georgia Federation of Women's Clubs.

GAINESVILLE, Ga., May 9.—Indorsement of General Federation of Women's Clubs' resolution to participate in Flag Day in June, and to urge people to display flags at their homes and other suitable places, and to participate in national revival and community celebrations, was made at the last session of the 45th convention of Georgia Federation. The meeting was held here today in the First Baptist church. Clubwomen resolved that the United States must be prepared to share responsibility for establishing and maintaining some form of world organization, wherein world values will be accepted as the framework of civilization.

Study of the equal rights for women amendment to the United States Constitution, and all questions involved in the subject met the approval of state women. Approval was given to the passage and enactment of a federal non-support bill. Indorsement was made of the White House conference on children in a democracy, and clubwomen pledged to study the reports and proceedings of the conference in order to qualify for participation in state and local programs which aim to make the conference effective, to the end the coming generation will be physically sound and spiritually, morally and intellectually fit to carry on the functions of government in a way to strengthen and perpetuate democracy.

The social security act relative to migratory workers and enactment of legislation to provide federal aid to states for assistance of needy transients was indorsed by the body. Georgia clubwomen went on record as opposing the transferring of the forest service to any other department of the federal government. This resolution will be presented at General Federation's convention in Milwaukee this month, as clubwomen believe that the administration of the forest service is an appropriate function of the Department of Agriculture.

Bainbridge Tallulah Circle won the Grace Hughes Browning cup for making the largest junior gift to the school, owned and operated by Georgia Federation. Honorable mention was given Toccoa Junior Club for the $50 gift, and Manchester Junior Club for the $40 gift to the school. In the essay contest conducted by Mrs. R. C. Freyer Jr., state co-chairman of juniors, on "The Challenge to

K. D. K. Fraternity Plans Steak Fry

Omega chapter of the Kappa Delta Kappa National High School fraternity entertain members at a steak fry at the country home of Mr. and Mrs. B. J. Kane tomorrow evening.

Officers are: President, Frank McLaughlin; vice president, Norman Kane; secretary, Frank Conner; treasurer, Alex Smith; corresponding secretary, Richard Trippie; sergeant-at-arms, Jerry Morris.

Young ladies invited are Misses Hollis Rawson, Mary Amerine Lillian Wilson, Florence Cantrell, Elsas Norris, Lane Winslow, Betty Greive, Gloria Gormly, Marion Bell, Betty Graham, Patty Hunt, Anne Funke, Mary Jean Thibodeau, Peggy Johnson, Louise Lauder, Stella Hillard, Dorothy Ann Perkins, Dorothy Spratlin and Margaret Murrah.

Juniors' prize was won by Carpe Diem Club of Columbus, which was awarded $10. The gavel was won by the above mentioned club for the largest number of essays written by every member of Carpe Diem Club on the same subject. Mrs. George Buchanan is president of Carpe Diem Club. The Toombs gavel went to West Point Woman's Club for bringing in the largest club membership.

Mrs. Albert M. Hill, the president, presided at the session, and requested clubwomen to plan a successful campaign for Mrs. H. B. Ritchie, who was indorsed for some high office in General Federation, the election to take place in 1941. The proposal met with ready response from the convention and clubwomen pledged support of this well-known Georgian who is recording secretary of General Federation.

Mrs. J. E. Hays read the courtesy resolutions expressing appreciation of the hospitality of Gainesville and even thanked the dogs for wagging their tails in welcome to delegates attending the convention. Greetings were sent Mrs. Charles J. Oliver, of Atlanta, who will reign as everybody's mother in the Sunday celebration of Mother's Day to be held in Piedmont Park in Atlanta. She belongs to the Atlanta Pioneer Society.

Mrs. Lewis I. Waxelbaum, credential chairman, reported that 245 delegates attended the convention, one of the largest and most enjoyable in federation history. She was given a vote of thanks for her efficient and accurate report. Mrs. Waxelbaum was assisted by Mrs. A. S. Hardy, of Gainesville, the local credential chairman.

Daniel-Harris.

Mrs. Nell Zachry Brewer announces the recent marriage of her daughter, Inez Claire Daniel, to John Stewart Harris, son of Mr. and Mrs. Stewart Brooks Harris, of Atlanta, formerly of Augusta. The marriage was performed by the Rev. Luther W. McArthur, pastor of St. Luke M. E. church, on April 26 at the home of the pastor in Kirkwood.

The young couple is residing at 667 Ashby street, S. W.

MISS MARGARET LA VERNE PARTAIN.

Miss Partain's Engagement To Mr. Grey Is Announced

Of important social interest is the engagement of Miss Margaret LaVerne Partain to Douglas Talcott Grey, of Atlantic City, N. J., and Atlanta, which is announced today by the bride-elect's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Jacques O. Partain. The marriage will be solemnized June 15 at the Peachtree Road Presbyterian church and will be a social event of the early summer.

The bride-elect's mother was formerly Elsie McKnight Brabson, daughter of the late Margaret Clem and George W. Brabson, of Florence, Ala., descendants of pioneer families of Alabama and Kentucky. Her paternal grandparents are the late Mary Pittman and William Anderson Partain, of Birmingham, Ala., descendants of prominent families of England and Virginia.

Miss Partain graduated from North Fulton High school and attended Florida State College for Women, where she majored in interior decorating and designing. She continued her study of art at Oglethorpe University, receiving her A. B. degree in fine arts. She is a member of Chi Omega sorority.

Miss Partain has two sisters, Misses Jacqueline Partain and Mary Anderson Partain. J. O. Partain Jr. is her only brother.

Mrs. Amanda Vaughn was a guest and acted as captain for the Mary E. La Rocca grove, who assisted in the ritualistic work. Mrs. Sallie Owen and Mrs. Lillian West received the initiatory degree.

Guardian Mrs. Jeannie Brown, Mrs. Leila Cottongim, Mrs. Daisy Moultrie, Mrs. Beatrice Owen, Mrs. Rosa Seifres and Bessie Goss, from La Rocca grove, and Mrs. Helen Shearin, from State grove, attended the North Georgia District convention held in Cedar-town Friday.

Mesdames Beatrice Owen and Sallie Owen were hostesses Wednesday to the Officers' Club and Service Club at their home, 1056 Laviston street. Luncheon was followed by the Service Club session. Birthday gifts were mailed Wednesday to Mrs. Ida Blackburn at the Woodmen Circle home in Sherman, Texas, whom La Rocca grove sponsors.

Mrs. Ola Durden will entertain the clubs at a daddies' meeting Saturday evening, May 25, at her home in College Park.

Open House Will Be Held At Girl Scout Lodge Sunday

Open house will be held at the Girl Scout lodge, North Fulton park, from 2 to 5 o'clock on Sunday. A program will be presented at 3:30 o'clock.

This will be a housewarming ceremony. Each of the 50 Girl Scout troops will present a gift to be used in the house. Some troops are giving brightly-colored dishes and others are giving cooking utensils. This house will be used by all the troops in the Atlanta area for their activities. Troop 31, of Park Street Methodist church, West End, held a two-day house party at the lodge last week. Two Brownie Revels with a total attendance of over 200 persons were held during the week. Troop 25 spent Friday night at the lodge. The program on Sunday will include songs by Troop 18, of Morningside; a play, "The Tenant," given by Troop 38, of Emory, directed by Miss Ann Bellinger; Troop 1, of St. Mark Methodist church, will act as hostesses. Some item of troop equipment will be given to the troop having the largest number of victors registering. Another award will be made to the troop having the largest number of girls attending.

The Girl Scout day camp, which will open on June 24, will be held at this Girl Scout lodge and directed by Mrs. Hugh Park Jr., field captain. Activities will include swimming, archery, badminton, tennis, nature, etc. Mrs. Sharpe Wall is the chairman of the day camp committee, and she will be assisted in making plans for the camp by Mrs. J. H. Woodcock and Mrs. Virlyn Moore Jr. The camp will be in session on Mondays, Wednesdays and Fridays for a month.

The week of July 22 there will be overnight camping trips to the lodge for the day camp campers. The Brownies, younger Scouts, will attend the day camp on Wednesdays.

Miss Tommie Quin And Mr. Eve Feted.

Miss Elizabeth Calley was hostess at a dinner party last evening in the Mirador room of the Capital City Club for Miss Tommie Quin and Fred Eve III.

The marriage of Miss Quin and Mr. Eve will be a social event of tomorrow at St. Mark Methodist church.

The guests were members of the wedding party and out-of-town visitors here to attend the marriage.

The table was decorated with tulips and roses, and place cards carried out the bridal motif.

Yesterday Miss Quin was honored at the breakfast given by Miss Margaret Matthews, who entertained at her home in Ansley Park.

For Miss Miller And Mr. Gee Jr.

Miss Dixie Hurt Miller and her fiancé, J. Forrest Gee Jr., were honored last evening at open house, the former's mother, Mrs. Georgia H. Miller, having entertained at her home on Mozley Place.

Receiving with the bridal pair and the hostess were the groom-elect's parents, Mr. and Mrs. J. F. Gee Sr. Invited were 250 friends of the young couple.

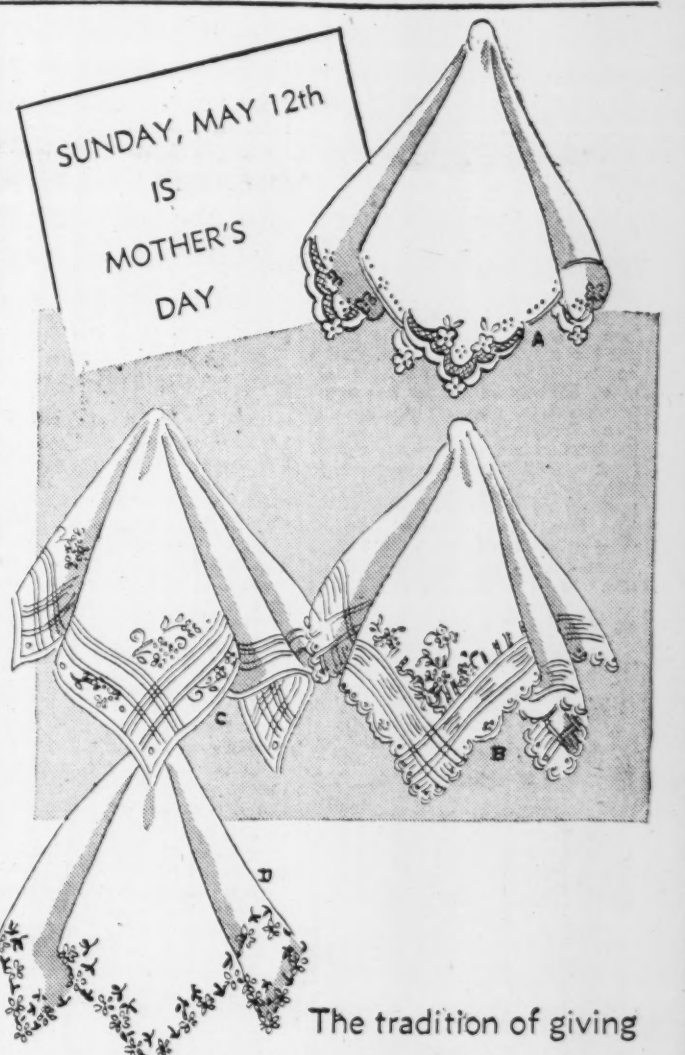

Assisting in entertaining were Misses Prentiss McIntyre, Wynelle Trotter, Thelma Davis, Helen Johnson, Cora Lee O'Shields, Mesdames Courtland Sorrells, Jack Kirkland and Harold Langford.

Extra Punches Gable, Lombard Goats

Lana Turner Denies All Rumors

By Sheila Graham.

HOLLYWOOD, May 9.—Ann Rutherford has posed for so many swimming suit photographs against a certain Santa Monica rock that the stone is now known locally as "Rutherford Rock." When that over-anxious extra punched Clark Gable's lip and split it—for a scene in "Boom Town," Wife Carole Lombard gloated, "Well, now we can have a vacation together." They have to "shoot" around Clark for a week—at least, until his lip is healed. Lucky the extra did not smash Mr. Gable's teeth at the same time!

Lana Turner has been offered a lot of dollars by an enterprising manufacturer of woolen sweaters if she will allow her name to be tagged to his merchandise! Lana, by the way, is rip-roaring-furious about the locally printed item that she is quarrelling with Husband Artie Shaw, and that she has been going places with former fiancé Gregory Bautzer. "It's so unfair," stormed Lana to this writer, "Will you please deny it for me?" Okay, Lana—and now don't make a liar of me by getting a divorce!

Barbara Stanwyck tells me that her long absence from picture-making—it's about six months since she faced a camera—has nothing to do with her rumored ill-health, nor to the persistent tale that she will soon become a mother. "I'm just waiting for a good part," says Barbara, who until then is having a swell time, resting and sun-tanning. . . . It's interesting to hear William Holden's comparison of Miss Stanwyck and Jean Arthur. Bill was co-starred with Barbara in "Golden Boy," and is currently emoting with Jean in "Arizona."

"Barbara," said Bill, "helped me. Jean is shy, but then, so am I. And I don't know how to talk to a shy person. I just freeze up."

Talking about shy stars. . . . Ginger Rogers is now making her first movie with Ronald Colman—"Lucky Partners," and, to break the ice after their introduction, told him how much she had enjoyed the Colman performance. "Arrowsmith," Ronald returned the compliment by praising Ginger's dancing pictures with Fred Astaire. But he didn't make any headway with her until he praised her performance in "Bachelor Mother" and "Primrose Path." From then on, the couple became friends. I doubt whether Ginger will ever again make a dancing picture—although I understand that her studio has not given up hope of arranging another song and dance epic for Ginger and Fred.

Marlene Dietrich puts her arms around Photographer Hymie Fink at the recent Hal Roach soiree, and coos, "Hello, Darling. I have a little present for you. I'll give it to you the next time I see you." The little present is some silver for the newly-married Mr. Fink's home. According to Hymie, almost his entire house has been furnished for him by movie stars. The Handsome electric stove in his kitchen came from Joan Crawford. Being a photographer in Hollywood puts you in a unique position of favor with the stars. The face "that launched a thousand ships"—in a picture—is sometimes on the homely side in real life. And it's up to the candid (?) photographers around town to be kind to their fair clients—if they want the said clients to remain friendly. And vice versa!

Favorite Motifs

By Alice Brooks.

Every needlewoman loves variety! If your stock of linens needs replenishing—if there's a shower or a bazaar on your calendar, get this pattern and let it solve all your problems. In it are the popular birds, butterflies and baskets—your choice of designs—your favorite types of stitchery! The collection of motifs gives you the opportunity of quickly adding a distinctive touch to all types of linens.

Use the longer motifs on towels, pillow cases and scarfs—the baskets and butterflies are just the thing for tea cloths. Do the flowers and butterflies in the gayest colors—the blue birds are effective in shades of blue with a touch of brown. Each motif is worked up so quickly you'll be delighted at adding so rapidly to your store of linens.

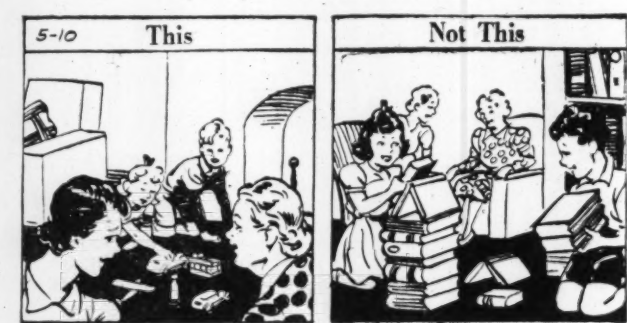

Pattern 6655 contains a transfer pattern of 15 motifs ranging from 5x10 inches to 2x3 1/4 inches; illustrations of stitches; color schemes; materials needed. To obtain this pattern send 10 cents in coin to Household Arts Dept., The Constitution, Atlanta, Ga. Be sure to write plainly your name, address and pattern number.

Roses for romance, sentiment and femininity! What a lovely picture this ensemble makes of the dressing table. Regardless of Mother's age, she would be thrilled to receive, on her special day, one or more toilet items with the typically American rose fragrance and coloring.

POINTS FOR PARENTS

By Edyth Thomas Wallace.

Mother: "You help me so much with the children, mother. I appreciate it more every day, that you have taught me to think through my problems with them, unemotionally."

Grandmother: "I didn't let you children play with our good Mother: 'But, grandma, you realize we have new methods of rearing children now and can't use your old methods.'"

It is important that we learn to evaluate both old and new methods of child rearing and not accept or reject them on a basis of whether they are old or new.

Increase Intake of Oxygen And Keep Your Heart Sound

By Dr. William Brady.

Anoxia, that is, subnormal oxygenation, insufficient oxygen supplied to the tissues and cells, is now recognized as a common cause of cardiovascular degeneration, heart-artery wearing out, slow heart failure, myocarditis, arterio-sclerosis, angina pectoris, coronary thrombosis, apoplexy, chronic interstitial nephritis, etc.

Many analyses of the blood have shown that the average normal person, at least in urban life, has a small amount of carbon monoxide in his blood, about 1.5% saturation. Smokers have from 3 to 6% saturation. As a rule, no definite symptoms occur until saturation with carbon monoxide reaches 10%, when there is likely to be tightness across the forehead, slight headache, flushing of the skin.

This is not the place to consider the many sources of carbon monoxide in modern life. I have presented in this column scores of articles dealing with carbon monoxide anoxia. Physicians today are conjecturing on the significance of this 1.5% carbon monoxide saturation in the blood. It is perhaps wrong to regard it as "normal" simply because it is found in the blood of nearly all persons, for of course carbon monoxide does not occur in nature and only those exposed to it can have even a trace of it in their blood. Moreover, if any part of the hemoglobin (oxygen-carrying component) of the blood is replaced with carbon-monoxide-hemoglobin, that means a degree of anoxia, asphyxia of the tissues or cells, oxygen deficiency, and so we can scarcely assume that it is normal, even if we are unable to diagnose the condition from the vague signs or symptoms such slight anoxia produces.

It is a familiar observation of smokers that they can indulge to excess when they are active at open air work or play, whereas they are likely to suffer untoward effects of slight overindulgence when they are sedentary. I think the explanation is that muscular exercise, work or play increases metabolism, increases absorption of oxygen, and so prevents or more quickly relieves the anoxia from the carbon monoxide in the tobacco smoke. Moreover, treatment by inhalations of carboxygen (oxygen with 5 to 10% carbon dioxide) is not only the best treatment for acute carbon monoxide asphyxia, but also excellent for acute alcoholism and a prompt relief for the ill effects of excessive smoking. Incidentally, belly breathing is a good emergency remedy for unpleasant effects of smoking.

It seems the consensus of modern medical opinion that frequent exposure to atmosphere polluted with carbon monoxide, sedentary habit or lack of exercise, and smoking are factors which combine to cause anoxia and premature wearing out of heart and arteries—cardiovascular degeneration.

Tennis, Dancing

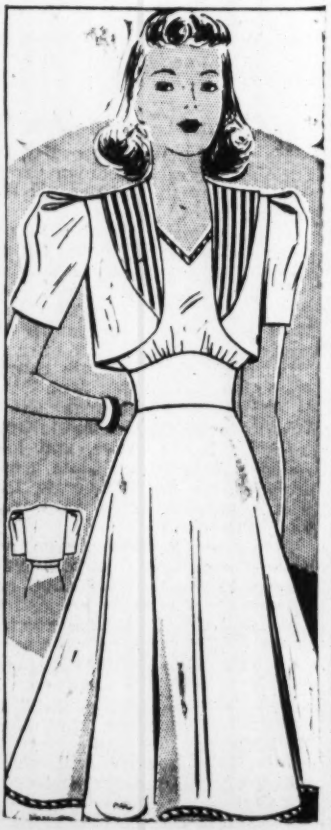

By Barbara Bell.

Isn't it good news that you can make a tennis frock and a dance frock both from the very same pattern? Well, you can! Just take a look at design No. 1789-B. In linen, sharkskin or gingham, with the skirt cut short, it will be as smart and practical a sports frock as the most choosy one you could choose! In dimity, organdy or silk print, with the skirt swirling down to your toes and the shoulders narrowed to formal straps, it will be a dream of a dance frock.

Both ways it's very becoming, thanks to the corsetlike waistline, gathered bodice and full skirt. And you can wear the bodice for daytime and evening both!

Barbara Bell pattern No. 1789-B is designed for sizes 12, 14, 16, 18 and 20. Corresponding bust measurements, 30, 32, 34, 36 and 38. Size 14 (32) requires 4-3/8 yards of 39-inch material without nap for sports version; 1-1/4 yards contrast to trim for evening version, 6 yards.

It's ready! Barbara Bell's new Fashion Book, with almost 100 sparkling new designs. Price of pattern, 15 cents; book, 15 cents. Do not send stamps. Send orders to Barbara Bell Pattern Department, The Constitution, Atlanta, Ga.

Girl Afraid To Leave Father

By Caroline Chatfield.

Dear Miss Chatfield: I'm in a bad jam. Since mother died 10 years ago I have kept house for father and practically given my life up to him. Now I have fallen in love with a man who says that father is selfish and spoiled and when we are married we must live apart from him. Father doesn't say much but he looks so stricken when I mention marriage that I haven't the heart to tell him the whole truth. I have waited hoping he would show some sign of interest in a widow who is plainly after him. But no luck yet. What shall I do? My fiancé is getting impatient and I feel that I should come to a decision. I guess I lack courage. T. H.

Answer: Queer some fathers seem to think that, if a daughter has plenty to eat and to wear, a place to sleep, all bills paid, daughter should be contented. It doesn't occur to them that when romance calls no other voice is heard. They cannot go back in memory to the time when companionship of their parents was not enough, back to the days when youth called to love, and they wanted love, a home, a family of their own.

Yet life moves on and the daughter who sacrifices her life in an effort to please her father for loss of his companion, cannot hope for anything but loneliness in the long years that may lie ahead. In the nature of the case he will die long before she does, but with every passing year her opportunities for marriage are diminishing. When the parent is gone so are the prospects. It isn't fair for one generation to be sacrificed to another except in extreme cases. A spoiled and lonely father isn't an extreme case.

Now that you have had all the responsibilities of running a home and making a man comfortable, but have been denied the normal joys of love and marriage, my advice to you is to be firm yet kind with your father. Get a housekeeper for him, marry your fiancé and enter the open door to happiness.

Given half a chance, a widower will remarry. He hardly has half chance when his daughter runs his house, cushions him with comforts, hovers over him and entertains him in his hours of ease. Dollars to doughnuts the widow who is plainly after him will land him very quickly after you have moved out so you will have done your father a good turn by weaning him. The wedding will probably be two weddings in the family.

You'd Better Step Up Your Circulation

By Ida Jean Kain.

Everybody knows that circulation is the old, reliable fountain of youth. But most of you regard it as nature's job and no concern of yours. That is all right as long as you are young and active.

The circulation goes briskly about its business, cheeks are pink, and life is merry.

But after 30 years or so, a little co-operation on your part is obligatory. If you are to look and feel beautifully well, the circulation must continue to function efficiently. Allow it to become sluggish and all the magic of makeup, a fashionable coiffure and fine feathers can't obscure a sallow skin, lifeless hair and a generally down-at-heels appearance.

So, if you are not any too pleased with the way the lady in the mirror has been looking of late, better step up your circulation.

It's the circulation of blood through the body that supplies the tissues with oxygen from the lungs and food materials from the digestive tract. It also transports the waste materials to the elimination system. The rapidity of this transportation is a good gauge of the efficiency of the circulation.

You can do a great many things to help the circulation along. For one thing, avoid garments which bind—a tight band about the waist, tight garters, or an extremely tight brassiere. Anyone who stands all day should be particularly careful to avoid binding clothes.

There are a number of ways of stimulating the circulation. The person who stands a great deal of the time benefits by hot and cold foot baths, rubbing the feet with a good, stiff bath brush, and resting with the feet propped up. The last is excellent for relieving congestion in feet and ankles.

MY DAY: Youth's Greatest Need Is Confidence

By Eleanor Roosevelt.

NEW YORK CITY.—One cannot help but have an anxious feeling about Holland at present. Hitler's claim that he is ready to "protect" Holland against the aggression of France and England fills one with curious foreboding. These "protections" so often seem to mean aggression under a veiled form. The difference between attack and protection seems hard to discover these days.

Last evening, at our table, there was much talk of old wars and new wars, history already written and history in the writing. When all is said and done, and statesmen discuss the future of the world, the fact remains that the people fight these wars. I wonder that the time does not come when young men, facing each other with intent to kill, do not suddenly think of their homes and their loved ones and, realizing that those on the other side must have the same thoughts, throw away their weapons of mass murder. They might insist that their public servants—the statesmen of the world—get together and, on a rational and peaceful basis, solve the problems for which wars are fought. Of course, this would take willingness to co-operate, but it should not be impossible to great minds who plan war.

I read in the morning newspapers that some of our "greatest minds" gathered together at the University of Rochester, told the college students that new frontiers (of economic achievement) would always exist, because they always had, and that the contention that everything had been discovered made no appeal to them. I suppose that they might contend that wars would always exist because they always have. If we agree with the second idea, however, that there are always new things being discovered, then we must take heart and hope that statesmen will also discover new ways of solving the economic and national urges which today involve nations in war, and which should be as easily defeated by the elders of the nations as the internal troubles should be handled by the youth of nations.

I wish I could have heard that whole Rochester symposium. What I read of it seemed to sound a note of confidence on the part of men who are the heads of great corporations, but it did not seem to touch the actual specific difficulties which face men seeking jobs in industries which seem to have disappeared.

I gather that the main thing that youth must have is confidence. I have heard that said about business. "If business had confidence today, it would expand," but it trembles before the vagaries of government. Perhaps that is the trouble with youth! It is equally fearful of a government which imposes limitations on what it may do for it, and of a business system which is constantly restricting jobs.

Best Dancers Know All The New Steps

Panting and puffing! For this unhappy pair, dancing is just an endurance contest. He labors trying to follow.

Your dancing ought to be such fun, winning you scores of delighted partners. And it can be when you practice at home with pointers on leading and following—when you learn the smart steps—and variations that make a dance exciting.

If you're the feminine half of a dancing pair, ask yourself, "Am I hard to lead?" If you lean forward you undoubtedly are. Hold your head up, keep your hips well under your body, your weight on the balls of your feet. Then you can be light-footed, easy to lead. And if you wait for your partner to step first, you don't take the lead from him.

But, of course, no girl can follow a partner who has her in a strangle hold. The correct way is to hold her lightly and firmly—but not gingerly. The man's right hand should be under her left shoulder. Changes in step and direction are indicated with a twist of the shoulders, a pressure of arm or hand.

And how long is it since you learned a new step? Your dancing grows monotonous if you're a "repeater." Be one of the smart young crowd who make every dance, from waltz to rumba, fresh and gay with lively variations.

Our 40-page booklet, Social Dancing Self-Taught, shows you with footprint diagrams and simple directions how to do basic steps and smart variations in the Westchester, tango, rumba, waltz, fox-trot, shag. Pointers on leading and following, on posture, help make you an excellent dancer.

Send 15 cents in coins for our booklet, SOCIAL DANCING SELF-TAUGHT, to Home Institute, The Constitution, Atlanta, Ga. Write plainly your name, address, and the name of booklet.

Easy-To-Make Slip

By Lillian Mae.

"Underline" the smartness of your new dress silhouette with this slip, Pattern 4400 by Lillian Mae. Most important feature of all, there are no side seams! The bias side pieces allow plenty of "give," and eliminate any need for a side closing. Another outstanding note is the optional shadow-proof panel at the back skirt that keeps out the sunlight. The princess lines will fit with smooth perfection and take just a jiffy to stitch up with the Sewing Instructor's aid. The built-up straps form one piece with the front and back center panels. You may cut the back neckline lower for wear under sheers.

Pattern 4400 is available in misses' and women's sizes 14, 16, 18, 20, 22, 24, 26, 28, 30, 32, 34, 36, 38, 40, 42 and 44. Size 16 takes 3 3/4 yards 39-inch fabric and 4 yards lace edging.

Send fifteen cents (15c) in coins for this Lillian Mae pattern. Do not send stamps. Write plainly size, name, address and style number.

Order the new Lillian Mae pattern book by the next mail . . . and be clothes-ready for summer! Within its pages you will find a complete wardrobe for either a traveling or an "at home" summer. There are town and country tailored, the latest sportswear, airy sheers and cottons, enchanting evening gowns. Fashions for every age are shown, from magically slimming matron frocks to spirited clothes for tots—and each in an easy-to-use pattern. Book 15 cents.

Real Spaghetti Dinner

Less than 10c per portion!

A grand dish, quickly made—and perfectly made with tender, easily digested Mueller's Thin-Spaghetti.

SPAGHETTI BEAUX ARTS
1 pkg. Mueller's Thin-Spaghetti
1 lb. hamburger steak
1 cup mushrooms (fresh or canned)
1 grated onion
1/2 cup bread crumbs
2 tablespoons milk
2 tablespoons butter
1 tablespoon flour
2 cups water
2 tablespoons catsup
Salt and pepper to taste

Moisten bread crumbs with milk, combine with hamburger steak; mix in thoroughly salt, pepper and onion. Form in small balls and sauté with mushrooms in butter until brown. Remove from pan, stir in flour and brown; add water and catsup; cook, stir until smooth. Cook Mueller's Thin-Spaghetti as directed. Mueller's cooks firm yet tender in just 9 minutes, due to an exclusive "quick-dried" process. Put meat balls and spaghetti on hot platter and pour sauce over. Serves 6.

Mueller's use only the finest ingredients. Mueller's never has that sticky coating of excess starch that requires a cold-water rinse after cooking, so it can be served piping hot! Order Mueller's today.

Mrs. Bailey Will Represent Georgia at Opening of Fair

Announcement was made yesterday by Mrs. John K. Ottley, chairman of the woman's committee of the Georgia fair, that Mrs. E. M. Bailey, of Acworth, will represent Georgia at the opening of the 1940 fair tomorrow. Mrs. Ottley wired Mrs. Bailey's acceptance of the honor yesterday to Mrs. Oswald B. Lord, chairman of the national woman's committee for the fair.

Mrs. Bailey will leave for the east today, and arriving at Newark, N. J., will join the mass flight over New York and the fair grounds on Saturday. She will also participate in all activities and social affairs incident to the opening.

Mrs. Bailey, one of the state's leading figures in club and social circles, was named life director of the Georgia Federation of Women's Clubs at the organization's annual convention which met in Gainesville this week. This honor was awarded for long and distinguished service in the federation, of which she has served as vice president and headed numerous important committees.

The officers of the federation are: President, Weldon Branch; vice president, August J. Bohn; secretary, Harry Binford; treasurer, William G. Donnellon; sergeant at arms, George M. Henderson Jr.; chaplain, Cornelius G. Murphy.

Young ladies invited are Misses Claire Johnson, Carolyn Howell, Dottie Lowe, Elizabeth George, Carol Knight, Gloria Gormley, Barbara Dillon, Patty Carlisle, Mary Ann Braungart, Dottie Groome, Catherine Snyder, Jean Gann, Betty Blasingame, Shirley Thomas, Helen Milburn, Mary Barker Whitlock, Mary Francis Broach, Betty Smith, Ann Ram-speak, Helen Taulman and Sue Pierson.

Chaperons will be Mr. and Mrs. W. P. Branch, Mr. and Mrs. A. J. Bohn, Mr. and Mrs. Harry Binford, Mr. and Mrs. G. P. Donnellon, Mr. and Mrs. Fred Murphy, Mr. and Mrs. George M. Henderson.

Plans for the club's spring flower show to be held the first week in June were announced. Mrs. Chester Martin will act as judge.

Mrs. A. W. Saarinen gave a report of the convention of the garden clubs of Georgia held recently in Augusta.

The monthly award for the most artistic arrangement was won by Mrs. H. S. Drake. The best specimen prize was won by Mrs. Irvin Ennis.

Modern South Completes First Lynchless Year

New Record Credited to Education Plus Fast Radio Patrols.

The modern south ended its first year without a lynching at midnight Wednesday and yesterday a foe of mob rule credited this new record to effective education, plus swift work of police radio patrols.

Mrs. Jessie Daniel Ames, executive secretary of the Association of Southern Women for the Prevention of Lynching, said the 12-month lynchless period was the first since tabulations were started in 1882.

In contrast to this is the peak mark of 231 mob killings recorded in 1892.

Mrs. Ames said swift action, made possible by police radio alarm systems, particularly as used by highly mobile state trooper units, was an efficient and relatively new technique in combating mobs.

She declared the 12 months just past—and the previous year's record of only three lynchings—represented the fruits of long years of campaigning to bring about "lynch-consciousness."

Formerly, she said, lynchings were "hushed up" and therefore soon forgotten.

"Now, however," she added, "we get the facts and see that they are publicized. When we hear a lynch-mob has assembled, we make a direct appeal to law enforcement officials, so that lynching cannot take place without the authorities knowing of it."

She said the association, representing about 41,000 southern women and now in its 10th year, campaigned especially against public opinion that has "accepted too easily the claim of lynchers that they acted solely in the defense of women."

Of last year's three lynchings, she asserted, none involved a crime against women.

British Warship Saves Haakon From Germans

STOCKHOLM, May 9.—(P)—A British warship helped King Haakon, of Norway, and his government in escaping when German capture was near, the newspaper Nya Daglight Allehanda said today in a dispatch from Oslo.

Norwegian troops fired all their ammunition to protect the Norwegian monarch fleeing from Gudbrandsdalen, the newspaper said, and he boarded a British warship and subsequently landed at another point in Norway.

DeKalb Seeks $30,000 for Clinic Project

Canvass Will Begin Today for Funds To Support Lunch Program.

This morning more than 100 house-to-house canvassers start a drive to raise $30,000 needed to support the DeKalb county clinic and its "hot lunch" program for 33 county schools for which is being sought through C. N. Kell, president, 2,000 pledges of $5 annually for the next three years.

The "hot lunch" program, inaugurated six weeks ago in 25 county schools, disclosed nearly one-third of the school children suffering from malnutrition. The lunches, prepared by WPA labor with surplus commodities, are distributed free of charge to needy children.

Of the quota, Kell said, $27,000 will be used to finance cafeteria equipment and buy additional foodstuffs not supplied by the surplus commodities division.

Kell emphasized the benefits of the "hot lunch" program and declared that many school children from indigent families were now attending school regularly and, at the same time, receiving the necessary balanced meals.

Dies Is 'A Lunatic,' Says Red Paper

MOSCOW, May 9.—(P)—A satirical article in Komsomolskaya Pravda, youth newspaper, said today the title of "America's Lunatic Number One" should be conferred upon Representative Martin Dies, Democrat, Texas, chairman of the special committee to investigate un-American activities.

Referring to a medical census of lunatics and idiots in the United States, the article asserted the census overlooked Dies.

It said his committee persecuted liberals.

Sylvester Building Will Be Dedicated

Georgia NYA officials will be joined by state and Worth county officers in the dedication of the new vocational building at the high school in Sylvester Tuesday.

Expected to attend the ceremonies are Governor Rivers, Braswell Deen, head of the State Department of Public Welfare; M. D. Mobley, state director of vocational education; C. H. Barker, head of the NYA work projects division; Emmett Rushin, NYA employment director, and Martin McGhee, director of the Macon NYA district.

The building, including a canteen, workshops and classrooms, was built by NYA labor with materials furnished by the county. After dedication exercises, scheduled for 5 o'clock, a banquet will be held honoring NYA workers on the project and their parents.

Crackers Take Third Straight Game From Little Rock, 9 to 2

Smithies Battle Jordan; Purples Versus Aggies

West Fulton Retains N. G. I. C. Lead With 15-6 Win Over Decatur.

Sidney Scarborough's league-leading Tech High Smithies and Shorty Doyal's high flying Boys' High's Purples will play host to Jordan High and the Monroe Aggies respectively today in "Big Five" baseball league tilts, both to be played at Piedmont park at 3 o'clock. Commercial, having an off day in the league, will play Marist on the latter's diamond.

Griswell Whiffs 12 Decatur Batters.

West Fulton remained atop the N. G. I. C. baseball league by blasting out a 15-to-6 victory over Decatur on the latter's field yesterday behind the six-hit hurling of Griswell who fanned 12 men and walked only one.

Wasser Allows Typists 5 Hits.

Louie Van Houten's Marist Cadets carved themselves a 7-to-2 victory over Commercial High, "Big Six" league member, in a non-league tilt behind the brilliant five-hit hurling of Southpaw Joe Wasser, Cracker bat boy, et al, at Grant park yesterday afternoon. The same teams play again today at Marist.

Fulton Defeats Richardson, 8 to 5.

Fulton High defeated Richardson, 8-to-5, in an N. G. I. C. league game yesterday at the Fulton diamond.

BY JACK TROY

Can't Always Tell Before the season opened, Jack Suydam, currently playing right field for the Crackers, could have been had for the Southern league waiver price of $1,000.

Suydam was one of the Detroit-owned players turned loose by Judge K. M. Landis. The Crackers signed him as a free agent upon the recommendation of Buster Chatham. Suydam played with Fort Worth last year.

In the spring, however, Suydam's batting average was practically nil and he didn't look very impressive on defense. It didn't look as if he would help the Atlanta club very much.

So waivers were asked on Suydam and none of the other clubs claimed him.

Which, it develops, was a blessing in disguise for the Crackers.

Suydam hit a home run with the bases loaded in the first inning of Wednesday night's game against Little Rock that was worth $1,000 to the Crackers.

He hit one against Knoxville here that helped win the first game of the series.

In fact, as the first month of the season draws to a close, Suydam is tied for second place among the league's home-run hitters. Socko Rocco, of Nashville, leads with nine, and Suydam, Dejan, of Chattanooga, and Meyer, of Knoxville, are tied with four each.

Suydam, a left-handed hitter, pounds left-handed pitching as hard as he does the orthodox kind. And this is unusual.

Can't always tell about ball players. Suydam is a better defensive outfielder than he appeared to be in the spring. And, while his batting average is below .300, he has been poking timely wallops when the Crackers needed them.

Long Time No See Atlanta fans should take a good long look at Suydam when the Crackers return next Monday. He's a rarity.

For who can remember the name of the last Cracker who hit a home run with the bases full?

And Suydam did it with two men out and a pretty fair left-hander, Prendergast, on the mound.

It speaks well for Suydam's speed, too. He didn't blast the ball out of the park. He knocked it between outfielders in Little Rock's spacious park and ran it out.

No less impressive than the rise of Suydam has been the steady uphill climb of the Crackers.

They moved into Little Rock to play for third place and took it over. Today they are in Little Rock for a four-game series and second place is at stake.

It's really amazing to consider that the Crackers, with the bad start they got, are not very many games out of first place as the end of the first month of play nears.

And they have done it without help.

This bespeaks not only the versatility of Manager Richards, who has done a great job at first base, but also his ability to handle players.

After the opening series with Nashville, the Crackers looked like second division. Today, with very little or no strengthening, they have the appearance of a team that might surprise everybody and win a pennant.

Ferdinand's Corner

Cartoon in a New York paper shows a man walking up to a street sweeper. "Ah, a left-hander," he espied, "you're pitching against the Yankees tomorrow!" A right-hander, even if it had to be that young Cleveland FELLER, looked good to the world champions yesterday. . . . It took only two minutes and five seconds last Saturday to convince the racing world that Big Bird was just a big bum. . . . But what about Saturday? . . . A lot of folks will betcha it's Bimelech in the Preakness. . . . And don't be surprised if holders of mutual tickets on Gallahadion aren't sobbing a new line to an old tune—"I wonder what became of Gally?" . . . Note to Morris Station, Ga., reader: In June, 1930, Max SCHMELING won the heavyweight championship by a foul over Jack SHARKEY in four rounds. . . . And then, in June, 1932, Sharkey won a 12-round decision over Schmeling. . . . Primo CARNERA, old satchel foot, won the heavyweight title by knocking out Sharkey in six rounds a year later. . . . There wasn't any screen atop the right-field fence in Sulphur Dell when Jim POOLE, washed up as a Cracker, joined the Vols and set the Southern league record of 52 home runs. . . . Poole caused them to erect a screen and ever since the homer mark has remained secure. . . . Believe it, because it's true, Buster CHATHAM is playing center field regularly for the Fort Worth Cats. . . . Before shifting to center, Bus was used at third base. . . . Bill TERRY has flatly stated he will not send John RUCKER to Jersey City, managed by Bert NIEHOFF. . . . "The place to learn is right here with us, where such experienced men as OTT and MOORE can teach him every day. . . . Rucker is a fine prospect," Terry said.

Atlanta Opens Four-Tilt Set With Memphis

LITTLE ROCK, May 9.—With Larry Miller scattering 10 hits and fanning nine traveling batters, Atlanta defeated Little Rock, 9 to 2, here tonight to sweep the three-game series.

The Crackers presented a revised line-up, with Mauldin on second base and Mailho, Suydam and Marshall in the outfield.

The game was the final of the series for Atlanta at Little Rock, with the Crackers scheduled to open a four-game series Friday night at Memphis. A single game is scheduled Saturday afternoon, with a double-header Sunday in the Chick ball park.

As in the previous two games, the Crackers pounded away in the early innings to put on the clincher. After scoring a single run in the second and two in the fourth, a four-run blast in the fifth sent Hank Harris to the showers.

While he gave up 10 hits, Miller never was in trouble. He pitched out of holes in the first and second but two hits in the third gave the Travelers their first tally. Three hits gave Little Rock its final run in the sixth.

Every Cracker got at least one hit with the exception of Miller. Suydam, Hafey, Williams and Anderson got two each, but Hafey's blows went for six bases as the result of a double and homer.

Dewey Williams got two singles and batted in four runs. His first came in the fifth with the bases loaded and his second in the ninth with two on.

The Crackers got a one-run lead in the second. With one down, Hafey doubled to left center and Williams fanned. Anderson's single to left scored Hafey.

Little Rock tied it in the third. Lupien singled and took third on Sieling's double. Lupien scored after Duke fled to Marshall.

Breaking loose, the Crackers made two more in the fourth. After Marshall fanned, Hafey hammered a high one over the 345-foot left field fence. Williams lined out and Anderson singled.

Richards doubled off the scoreboard, scoring Anderson. Paul's swat missed leaving the park by inches.

More Cracker crush netted the visitors four more in the fifth. Mailho walked and took third on Suydam's single through Schalk. Marshall singled through Lupien, Suydam taking third. Hafey walked, filling the bases. Williams' single to center scored Suydam and Marshall, with Hafey taking third. Hafey scored the fourth run on a wild pitch.

NASHVILLE, Tenn., May 9.—Charley Greer's line one of Mike Martynik's southpaw pitcher against the right field fence with the bases full in the ninth inning tonight, driving in John Mihalic with the winning run of a 2-1 decision over the New Orleans Pelicans.

The triumph gave the "Pels" the win with the Pels, two games to one.

Batted for Jeffcoat in eighth, the Martynik and George Jeffcoat, the Pels forged ahead in the fifth on Ludwig's sacrifice, Martynik's sacrifice, and by Scailzi and Burton's single. Gus Dugan fourth home run of the season tied the score in the eighth.

Southern, Texas Presidents Hot About Judge's Reversals

Bramham Went Over Heads of League Presidents in Cases of Rogers, Wilson; Decisions Are Being Appealed.

By JACK TROY.

The presidents of the Texas and Southern baseball leagues are "hot under the collar." And the weather has nothing to do with it.

For the first time in the history of the leagues the head of the minor league organization has seen fit to step in and over-ride the prexies on matters considered "in the family."

President Alva Gardner, of the Texas league, recently lifted a suspension on Umpire Bill Wilson, who drew a knife when threatened by players of the Fort Worth team.

Gardner figured Wilson's apology and a previous record of unquestioned conduct entitled him to a clean slate.

SIMILAR STAND.

President Trammell Scott took a similar stand in the case of Packy Rogers, New Orleans infielder.

Rogers was suspended for throwing a ball at Umpire Red Jones in a game at Little Rock. The ball hit the umpire on the leg, didn't hurt him.

President Scott lifted the suspension after he figured Rogers had been punished enough.

But William G. Bramham, president of the minors, couldn't see it their way and on his own initiative reversed the presidents. He has set down both Wilson and Rogers for 90 playing days.

DECISIONS APPEALED.

The decisions are being appealed to the executive committee and will be carried to Commissioner Kenesaw M. Landis if necessary.

"I have always felt that such matters can be handled within a league," President Scott said yesterday.

In their appeals, Wilson and Rogers will have the unqualified support of the Texas and Southern league offices.

They are test cases, really, since nothing of the kind has happened in either league before, and it will be interesting to see if Bramham hasn't usurped more power than the office of minor league director should carry.

The three-man executive committee comprising Earl Mann, Dr. E. M. Wilder, president of the S. L. League, and George Trautman, president of the American association, has the right to reverse Bramham if it sees fit.

Foe Might Be Arranged at Track Meet in Birmingham May 17-18; Bulldogs May Fly to New York.

By JOHNNY BRADBERRY.

Just about the only folks who are angry with Dartmouth officials for canceling the Big Green's game with Georgia next fall are the Bulldog football players. And after they get through riding the rails, their anger probably won't last.

In reality the cancellation is a blessing and without much of a disguise. The game was scheduled for November 23. The Saturday before Georgia plays Tulane and the Saturday after Tech. Then comes Miami.

So the game would mean a jump from Athens to New Orleans to Athens to Hanover to Athens to Miami and back to Athens.

And there were three tough games in there. Count 'em. One, Tulane; two, Dartmouth, and three, Georgia Tech. The prospects of playing that trio on successive Saturdays were not cheerful—especially since two of them are a long way from home.

Georgia Fights for Chance at Crown Against Tech Today

Smith To Face Oliver on Hill At Rose Bowl

Florida Coach Believes Bulldogs Better Than First-Place Alabama.

By CHARLIE ROBERTS.

The Bulldog can stem the Tide. That is the opinion of Sam McAllister, Smilin' Sam is the genial baseball coach at the University of Florida. His team just split a two-game series here with Georgia Tech. His 'Gators are one of the few teams who have faced the Georgia Bulldogs and Alabama's Crimson Tide, the two top teams in the Southeastern conference.

And Sam thinks the Bulldogs, who play Georgia Tech here this afternoon at 4 o'clock at Rose Bowl field, will "take" Alabama if the two should meet in play-off for the conference crown. Alabama is unbeaten, and Georgia has dropped but one game in the conference. The Tide must get through a series with Mississippi State to keep their record clean, and the Bulldogs must take the sting out of the Yellow Jackets today and tomorrow, when they play again at Athens, even to have a chance to cop the crown.

McCASKILL BEST.

Getting back to McAllister though, his team dropped a pair to the Tide, and was licked in both ends of a home and home series with the Bulldogs. Smilin' Sam says Georgia has the edge at the plate and on the mound, where he rates Alex McCaskill, Bulldog righthander, the best pitcher his team has seen this year. He adds too that Smith and Clifton both are probably as good as Alabama's best. His rating big, blond Alex tops among the college hurlers, just about makes it unanimous. So does everyone else who has seen him work this season.

The Florida baseball mentor dubs the Bulldog defense "adequate," and opines that Alabama just does not have the power at the plate that Coach J. V. Sikes' sockers pack from left-off man through the pitcher. That is high praise for Mac, for his own 'Gators have out-hit every opponent they have this year.

One thing certain, anyway, fans hereabouts will be pulling for 'Bama to drop one, for you can't sell that Bulldog machine short to anyone who has seen it perform. Any college nine good enough to rout the Buford Bonns Allens, the best semi-pro team in these parts; Tubize, of Rome, and Elberton, as Georgia did, should be good enough to whip the pants off any other college opposition.

Sikes will send Bob Smith to the mound today against the Jackets. Coach Roy Mundorff will counter with his ace, Pluto Oliver.

Brooks Made Ace; Not Woodward

J. B. Brooks and not G. B. Woodward, scored the hole-in-one at the Key course's fourth hole Wednesday.

It was erroneously reported in yesterday morning's paper that Woodward scored the ace. He called to correct the mistake.

The shot to the 205-yard hole was made with a brassie. Woodward and Carl Poss were playing with Brooks.

Softball

A no-hit game featured the opening of the local softball league when C. B. Potts, pitching for the Four-Square Blues, blanked the Scripto team. Two run-away games were held at Piedmont field, with Hertz defeating Sims 10-0, 4 to 2, in the opening girls' game and Four Square Girls defeating Devos & Reynolds 21 to 0.

The Atlanta Police Department state champions, trailing Economy Electric Supply until the fifth inning, 1 to 0, came to life in the fifth with a big inning, scoring five runs to clinch the game. Economy will not be marked with a loss, however, as it was only a practice game, the police team not being officially entered in a league.

TIMBER TOPPER—This is Auburn's Chuck Morgan, the Southeastern conference high hurdle champion. He will be in action against Georgia Tech Saturday at Grant Field. In addition, he is a potent threat in the low hurdles, the high and broad jumps.

Purples Defeat Athens Mermen Here, 38 to 28

The Boys' High swimming team capped a 38-28 decision from the Athens High tankmen in the Atlanta Y pool Wednesday in a tune-up swim for the G. I. A. A. session this Friday and Saturday.

In eight events on the card each team won four first places, with the Purples taking the last two competitions, the diving and 160-yard relay events. Their other wins came in the 100-yard free style and 220-yard free style races.

RESULTS.
40-yard free style—(1) Miller (A); (2) Dougherty (B); (3) Reese (B). Time—21.5.
100-yard breast stroke—(1) Ashford (A);

EXPECTS RELEASE.

MACON, Ga., May 9.—(P)—The contract of Bill Peters, former Alabama star who has served Mercer University as line coach, is not expected to be renewed when it expires in June. Peters told the Macon Evening News he had conferred with the athletic board "but with no satisfactory results," and said he doubted he would be retained.

RESULTS.

Fancy diving—(1) Ezell (B); (2) Postero (A); (3) Hiles (B).

Skeet Shooters Will Vie Today In State Meet

Two-Day Session Begins at 1 O'Clock at Capitol Gun Club.

Loud reports and reverberations will be heard along Bankhead highway today and tomorrow, for beginning today at 1 o'clock at the Capitol Gun Club the crack shots in these parts will take aim and fire in the Georgia state skeet championship, which is slated to run for two days, today and Saturday.

The professional title last year went to M. E. Hicks, of Atlanta, who will be the only local defender of a crown. Last year's meet, shot in Savannah, produced some worthy champions. Jack Boardman, Augusta, won the state, and Clayton (Red) Boardman, Augusta, the junior crown. The other titles went to Savannah native sons, namely, H. L. Thompson, winner of the 20-gauge shoot; John Stevens, victor in the small-gauge affair, and H. L. Thompson, who was the high over all man.

An interesting program is set for this year's meet, with today devoted to the smaller gauges, the opening event being for the sub-small-bore championship. Following this will be a four-event, 100-target set for classes A, B, and C, for the 20-gauge guns. A champion in each class, including the novice, will be decided.

In the Saturday afternoon shoot the new Georgia state skeet champion will come into possession of his title. In this event the shooter has his own choice of gauge and gun. The first 100 targets of this race will settle two other titles also.

One of these will be the ladies' championship of Georgia, regularly registered, and it will require an added one dollar fee for eligibility, as will the shoot for the juniors, firing their own race in conjunction with the major league shoot also.

A five-man team race also is in the offing, on the all-bore championship, in which any squad representing a city, state or a gun club, will be eligible.

The meet is registered and approved by the National Skeet Shooting Association.

PERRIN WINS.

NEW ORLEANS, May 9.—(P)—Jimmy Perrin, of New Orleans, last night won a 15-round decision from Bobby Ruffin, of New York, in a match recognized by the Louisiana state athletic commission as a world's featherweight championship fight. Both weighed 126 pounds.

The Spotlight

By GRANTLAND RICE.

PENNANT WEAK SPOTS.

At least three American league clubs have a chance to pile in on the unhappy Yankees this season and apply the intercostal chive. The main trouble they face is within their own camps—not within the Yankee corral.

These clubs are Cleveland, Boston and Detroit. Afflicted by certain definite weak departments, all three may blow the big spot, which consists largely in mowing the Yankees down after four years of complete power.

What are these weak spots?

No. 1. Cleveland, with one of the best ball clubs in the league, has too many temperamental stars or near stars. This isn't the fault of Manager Oscar Vitt.

Cleveland has an able catcher in Rollie Hemsley—also one of the best pitching staffs in baseball, headed by Bobby Feller. Cleveland has a good infield, with a star shortstop—a good outfield.

But Cleveland also has at least four ball players who don't belong in team play—at least four men who are hard to handle, who haven't one-fifth of the spirit that Brooklyn carries.

If these four men only could understand the true spirit of winning competition—even if they only could realize they are trying to throw away over $100,000 in World Series money—Cleveland would have a shining chance to win after 20 years in the wilderness far away from the milk and honey.

The Red Sox.

No. 2. Red Sox. The Yawkey-Cronin team has the infield and the outfield. It has the scoring punch. It has a great combination around short and second. It has Jimmy Foss and Ted Williams.

But the Red Sox haven't a first-class catching staff and they lack pitching strength. Their main dependence is a 40-year-old left-hander who has been around 16 years.

Experts tell me that Joe Cronin, a fine fellow and a fine manager, is no marvel at handling pitchers. This may, or may not, be true. Maybe he doesn't have the pitchers. But there is a distinct art in working your pitchers correctly. Uncle Wilbert Robinson was a past master. Uncle Will McKechnie, of the Reds, is another. But they are few and far apart.

No. 3. This brings us to Detroit's Tigers. They have all the scoring dynamite a ball club needs. They have pretty fair pitching. But they have a second-division infield—a spotty infield well below any normal pennant showing.

Detroit can go out and get the runs. But before the season is over the Tiger infield will show too many gaps to match their run-making offensives.

So these pennant weak spots against the staggering Yankee include these—

1. Cleveland—too much inside dissension and trouble.

2. Boston—lack of battery

Mrs. Horacek Reaches Finals At Capital City

Mrs. Reddy Eliminates Bright, 4-2; Horacek Defeats Sloan.

Mrs. Frank Reddy defeated Mrs. Morton Bright, the defending champion, 4 and 2, and Mrs. Joe Horacek beat Mrs. C. C. Sloan, 5 and 4, yesterday to advance to the finals of the Maier-Berkele handicapped golf tournament at Capital City Club.

They will meet today in the finals of the tourney.

In the first flight of the only handicap meet sponsored by the Atlanta Women's Golf Association, Mrs. Max Mentzer and Miss Janis Heidacher reached the finals. They also are scheduled to play today.

Mrs. Mentzer defeated Mrs. J. R. Brown, 4 and 2, and Miss Heidacher turned back Mrs. Warren Pollard, 1 up.

In the second flight, Mrs. J. S. Ward won from Mrs. T. A. Branch, 7 and 5, and Mrs. C. D. Fields defeated Mrs. W. C. Henry, 5 and 4.

3. Detroit—a rickety infield.

The Big Chance.

What about the Yankees? Their main control in the realm of rule, in the kingdom of conquer, has been balance. They have great catching, good pitching, a star infield, a fine outfield—defensive and offensive strength just about evenly matched.

They came home in poor condition for two reasons—bad weather in the south and a killing spring training tour that covered most of the map below the Mason and Dixie line.

They also had four years of easy success back of their fifth charge. Each man on the club had banked $25,000 in World Series cash since 1936.

They left a big opening for some well-rounded challenger, but if they win this time it will be largely because their main opponents had too many soft and spongy spots.

TIGERS HONORED.

Pat Canning Rose to Fame In Short Space of 4 Years

18-Year-Old Net Star Who Will Play Here Next Tuesday was the 'Tomboy' of Berkeley Tennis Club; Now Experienced Player.

Pat Canning four years ago was a gangling youngster whom San Francisco tennis experts expected to become a champion. Tall, with her black hair cut short, she was the tomboy of the Berkeley Tennis Club—Helen W. Moody Roark's home club.

Now Miss Canning is 18 and a champion. She is no longer a tomboy, but a graceful young lady who last season gave more experienced players trouble in the eastern tournaments. She reached the finals of the national junior singles, and lost after a three-set battle. She won the doubles title, however, and this year is out for more victories in the senior division.

Miss Canning will play in the annual invitation tennis tournament at the Northside Club, which opens next Tuesday afternoon.

The meet will run through Sunday afternoon when trophies are awarded to winners in the men's singles, women's singles, and mixed doubles. For the working fans, matches will be held both afternoons and nights, from Tuesday through Friday. Then the semi-finals are set for Saturday afternoon and the finals Sunday afternoon.

The Women's Auxiliary of the Henrietta Eggleston hospital, sponsors of the meet, have their headquarters at 84 Broad street, and ticket reservations may be made with them.

Miss Canning, in looking for more "senior" competition, will find plenty of opposition here. Alice Marble, world champion, is, of course, the headline star—being world champion and practically unbeatable in the women's field today. The other 12 out-of-town players who will compete include Mary Hardwick and Nina Brown, British Wightman cup stars; Gracy Wheeler, Helen Fulton Shockey, Helen Pedersen, Millicent Hirsch, Sara Comer and Virginia Wolfe.

Low Jenkins Seeks Ambers' Title Tonight

Sweetwater Boy Has Had Sensational Rise as Lightweight.

By JACK CUDDY.
NEW YORK, May 9.—(UP)—With fists blazing in two-gun fashion, Jean Low Jenkins—grim, scar-faced "killer"—will try to blast the lightweight crown from Champion Lou Ambers' bobbing head tomorrow night at Madison Square Garden.

This cadaverous young Texan is a dangerous man, with seven straight knockout notches on his shooting-iron after 10 consecutive victories—nine in the New York area.

But Champion Ambers, though 1-2 years old and a prospective pappy, is one of the smartest, toughest, and most experienced fighters in the world. Even bullet-bangers like McLarnin, Canzoneri, Armstrong, Montanez, Zivic and Davis were unable to "dry gulch" him during eight years of busy battling.

Hence, nearly 19,000 fans are expected to jam the Garden for this 15-round "Lou-Low" natural between hunch-shouldered Ambers, the bomb-proof master boxer and 23-year-old Jenkins, deadliest puncher the 135-pound division has produced in years. Promoter Mike Jacobs expects a gate of $70,000.

Gaunt Jenkins is a story-book fighter who met with mediocre success in 44 fights among the tank towns and then completely captivated New York in 10 short months.

CENTER HILL WINS.
Center Hill Grammar school defeated West Haven, 29 to 7, yesterday afternoon at Center Hill. Bone, with three for three; Roberts, with four for five; Thompson, with four for five, and Bartlett, with two for three, led the hitting for the winners. For West Haven, Norton's three for three and West's two for three were best.

Sharp SHOOTN.

U. S. G. A. BRINGS UP BATTLE OF WORDS.
Now that the Alex Morrison-Tommy Armour battle, fought on the pages of two national magazines, has been dumped into the nearest wastebasket, another rousing argument has opened.

The United States Golf Association, which has the last word in any argument, is the cause of the firing.

Arch Murray cut loose with the first shot and some of the shrapnel hit the hair of Henry McLemore.

The battlefield is laid out on the pages of Golf magazine.

After reading the stories in the April and May issues, we were impressed with the idea that the magazine was looking for a fire-works fuse and hit upon the story criticizing the U. S. G. A. as a means to a selfish end.

Whether that is true or not, the argument brought up a few points which are of interest to the golfing public.

Murray took the attitude that the U. S. G. A. does little to promote its champions, and that, as a result, the championships are drawing pin money. He quotes figures in an effort to prove that since Bob Jones was drawing so many fans you could see few shots gate receipts have hit the bottom.

It was a needless effort. Most golfers know that.

McLemore came back with facts and figures supplied by the leaders of the association. He pointed out what the U. S. G. A. does do and why they do not build up amateur golfers.

Room for Improvement.
Murray must be a newspaperman in the broad sense of the word. Evidently he has had his toes stepped on.

For instance, in his article, he says:

"But they (U. S. G. A. leaders) do nothing to promote their own flesh and blood. Their relation with the press are the coolest kind. Joe Dey, the executive secretary, who is supposed to act as a liaison man, actually does nothing of the kind."

"New York newspapermen know all too well the futility of trying to get any information from him. They have performed developed other sources for their stories. This is not right. The U. S. G. A. offices should be the clearing house for all stories. It should be a veritable fountain of information."

He goes on to point out that it may not be Dey's fault, because "he knows that the poobahs for whom he works would not appreciate any over-cordiality with the press."

"Meanwhile, the other sports are cashing in on the good will of their best friends—the press." Murray continues, "They go out of their way to help them. Baseball has waxed rich on the space it has been given on the sports pages, the most widely read part of any daily paper. So have football, boxing and horse racing."

"You won't run into a lack of co-operation between golf leaders and writers in the south. Most of the time, the heads of golf organizations are eager to help in any way possible."

Such men as Veazey Rainwater, president of the Southern Golf Association and a leader in the U. S. G. A.; Polly Boyd, chairman of Southern States Four-Ball tournament and sectional director for the U. S. G. A.; Sam Perry and the rest are always ready to help.

In a few cases, the co-operation may not be perfect, but it is not a one-sided affair, anyway. At times, Mr. Murray, the press may be leaning the wrong way.

In Rebuttal.
In the comeback, entitled "Golf Bums, Keep Out," McLemore quoted several golf officials.

One praised Charlie Yates and Gus Moreland among others as the U. S. G. A. ideal of top-notch amateurs, the article said.

"Charlie perfected his game without withdrawing from college, the official said, 'and went on to win the British amateur title and gain a place on the Walker cup team. Then he took a job in a bank, and really went to work, dropping his golf to a place of secondary importance. Moreland did the same, as have dozens of others. The U. S. G. A. would like to know that the last thing it wants to do is to implant in any player a desire to turn professional and make golf his living. Not that professional golf isn't a fine and honorable livelihood, because it is. But the U. S. G. A. wants those who turn professional to do it without any prompting or encouragement from it."

Another official of golf's governing body expressed the wish that the public could be told that star amateur players are by no means the principal interest of the association. There are tens of thousands of golfers who never have broken 90 or even 100 as against a handful who are of tournament quality. The association naturally is more interested in the great and general field of golfers than in the few par-breakers. The 90-100-110 and 115 shooters are the ones who build courses, clubhouses, and keep the game alive in general. It is the promotion of these players and not the stars, that the U. S. G. A. cares most about.

There were numerous other points in the stories, but we can't go into all of them.

One thing, though, cannot be put aside. The U. S. G. A. wishes to promote the game for bogey-hunters, an official says.

Why doesn't it do more?

Amateurs Box In Fast Fights Tonight at 8:30

Tonight's amateur fight show at Lakewood park is a sure guarantee of hot action, with some of Atlanta's top simon purps tossing leather against a hard-hitting team from Columbus in the feature matches of the show, which begins at 8:30.

This is the third of a series of amateur fights. Interest is increasing in these programs. The fights are getting better all the time and Promoter Jim Downing expects a large turnout for tonight's biff party.

Some of the boys who will be in there swinging are Jack Brown, Ben Brown's 175-pound brother; Bill Harris, Fred Evans, Cecil Dickerson, Ted Martin, Curley Anderson, Earl Dickson, Glenn Lawson.

Tommy Mann is challenging any heavyweight in the state and may find that challenge has been accepted.

Low popular prices will be in effect.

No One Hits Bogey In East Lake Play

No one could hit the blind bogey number on the nose at East Lake yesterday, but several came close. The elusive number was 78.

Sharing in the prizes were: R. E. Richards, J. C. Malone, Hugh Burgess, J. S. Blick and F. W. Wade, with 77's; Weldon Randall, 79; Tom Prescott, 80, and L. W. Hill, J. L. Morris and O. R. Randall, 76's.

New Officers To Be Chosen At Noon Today

Lanier and Savannah Defend Track, Tank Crowns.

By CHARLIE ROBERTS.

Georgia Interscholastic Athletic Association athletes and coaches will take Atlanta this week end like left-handed pitchers are taking the Yankees this spring. Beginning with an 11 o'clock coaches' meeting this morning at Grant field and the regular business meeting for the election of officers set for noon at the Ansley hotel, almost continuous meetings of one kind and another are slated to be going on until late Saturday night.

This afternoon at 2 o'clock out at Grant field Lanier High, of Macon, will begin defense of their track crown. Preliminaries will be run off in the sunlit session and finals will be consummated in a nocturnal affair to begin under the floodlights at 8 o'clock tonight.

Meanwhile, a weakened Savannah High team will be having a tough time retaining their conference swimming crown, won last year here. Preliminary heats will take place in the Georgia Tech pool tonight, with starting time at 8 o'clock. Saturday at 2:30 o'clock finals will commence. This is the first year the prep swimmers have had a fine indoor pool such as the one at Tech in which to perform, and they are all pepped up over the prospect. Tickets may be bought at Tech High, Boys' High and at the Tech pool. Admission charge is only 25 cents and one ticket will admit the holder to both the Friday night and Saturday afternoon swims.

TENNIS TOO.
Most of the day Friday and Saturday the G. I. A. A. tennis meet will be in session on the courts out at the Flats, too. The conference golf meet will be played in Augusta the same two days.

Dual tank meets this year show Tech High, Boys' High and Riverdale to be very nearly equal in strength, and the three are expected to wage a bitter battle for the crown. Savannah, the defending champ, is considerably weaker this year than last, and is not doped as a serious contender.

Neither is G. M. A., the other entry in the meet in Darlington, a very fine outfit, who finished in third place behind Tech High last season, has not entered this year's spray fest.

POETS FAVORED.
The track meet today is almost certain to go to Lanier again, with a 6-foot 8-inch-tall lad, Lanky Joe Murrow, likely to be high-point man in the meet. He excels in the javelin thrust, discus throw, shotput and high jump. They say he is the best prep athlete in the south since Perrin Walker was at G. M. A. He is a real show in himself.

M. C. Padgett's fine G. M. A. outfit, led by Carl Anderson, the great hurdler, is favored to take second place again as they did last year, with Boys' High in the dark-horse role. The Cadets have not lost a dual meet in several seasons, and recently defeated North Fulton, the outfit which covered the N. F. L. C. field like a blanket in their meet here Tuesday.

Richmond Academy, Savannah High, Columbus High, Commercial, Marietta and Riverside are other entries.

Present officers of the G. I. A. A. are Frank Davis, of Jordan High, Columbus, president; A. P. Mar-kert, of Richmond Academy, Augusta, vice president; and Marvin Jones, of Lanier, Macon, secretary and treasurer. New officers will be elected at the Ansley hotel meeting and luncheon at noon today.

'Man Mountain' Says He'll Run For Congress

Norcross Wrestler Wants Wheelchairs' Seat; Backs Townsend.

"Man Mountain" Dean, of Norcross, Gwinnett county, Georgia, and Hollywood, Cal., wants to go to congress from the ninth Georgia district.

The "Man Mountain," he of the long beard and the bear hug, let it be known he wants to grapple with the problems of all of the people in the halls of congress in a special dispatch (by mail) from Hollywood, where he is planning a new picture, doing radio bits and razzlin' a little.

He said he would be at home in Norcross in June to start his campaign for the seat now held by Representative B. Frank Wheelchel, of Gainesville. Dean said he waited until Wheelchel was acquitted because he "didn't want to take advantage of the congress-man. Wheelchel already has three other announced opponents for re-election.

The "Man Mountain" said his "only request is the backing of Dr. Townsend," of the Townsend old-age pension plan. He said he hoped to see Dr. Townsend at Long Beach, the haven for the aged, before coming to Georgia.

"I am not a politician nor do I hope to be one," said Dean, who to the voters will be Frank S. Leavitt. "I owe nothing. I have made no promises to anyone, political or otherwise. I have no axes to grind. My only desire is to help the people, particularly the old folks of my adopted state of Georgia."

There may be a slight rub. The "Man Mountain" announced for the general assembly from Gwinnett county two years ago. He campaigned vigorously until the entries opened. Then he withdrew quietly.

Gold Seekers Flock to State, Peyton Reveals

Two Companies Planning To Begin Operations This Year.

Gold seekers are flocking to Georgia in ever-increasing numbers, Captain Garland Peyton, director of the state division of mines, mining and geology, said yesterday as he announced two companies are planning this year to set up deep-mining operations in the state.

Exact locations of these operations have not yet been decided upon, Captain Peyton said. They will be in the vicinity of Dahlonega and Gainesville, however.

Peyton Optimistic.
Peyton is optimistic about the future of gold-mining in Georgia. One of his reasons for being optimistic is that only a comparatively small amount of gold has been taken from the hills of Georgia, he said.

He pointed out that Georgia has yielded only approximately $40,000,000 in gold, while in some years California has mined as much as $100,000,000.

Gold is sometimes mined from a depth of 4,000 feet, Captain Peyton said. The Georgia tests are expected to go as deep as 1,000 feet, which is something unusual for this state.

"Rotten Rock Layer."
In addition to the depth-mining possibilities, Captain Peyton explained that Georgia has a rich layer of "rotten rock," sometimes known as "saprolite," which has remained free of glacial movements. This rock layer, he said, yields a low grade of ore, but a grade that is sometimes higher than placer deposits.

A third possibility, he continued, is in the gravel of streams. This type of mining has not been exploited fully, he pointed out.

"Adequate power and good roads make it possible to mine any type of ore at a lower cost than formerly," he said.

Pugilistic Rooster Visits City Editor

"Red" the Joe Louis of Rhode Island roosters, paid a visit to The Constitution news rooms yesterday.

The feathered pugilist strutted around the city room a couple of times, exercised his vocal cords with a bit of vain crowing and flapped his wings.

"Red" chose the wrong time, however. It was late, just before deadline for the first edition, and when "Red" put on his wing-flapping act the city editor looked up from a pile of copy and blurted out:

"What the h— do you want?"

"Red," chagrined at such an insult to his prestige, trailed his owner, Louis Jean, of 31 Mildred place, out of the room.

Homesick Hen Returns to Nest

GRANTS PASS, Ore., May 9.—(AP)—How a homesick hen, sold down the river, spanned the roaring Rouge river to lay an egg in her native barn is the story of Farmer Charles Argyle. He sold two Plymouth Rock hens to Charles Catlin, who lives across the river three miles away. Three days later one of the hens returned to the Argyle farm and laid an egg.

Folks hereabouts wonder how she did it. Maybe she found the bridge. Anyway, Farmer Argyle ate the egg and returned the hen to Catlin.

H. E. Reams Convicted, Sentenced for Forgery

H. E. Reams, Atlanta dealer in restaurant supplies, was found guilty of forgery in Fulton superior court yesterday and sentenced to serve from seven to 10 years by Judge Walter C. Hendrix.

Reams was charged with issuing and cashing 10 fictitious checks totaling several hundred dollars. Assistant Solicitor Quincy Arnold presented the state's case while Attorney George Manley represented Reams.

C. M. T. C. Told To Pick Contestants for Awards

Fourth Corps Area headquarters requested each Citizens' Military Training Camp commander to nominate one enrollee this summer for competition in the National Society of Scabbard and Blade scholarship awards.

The awards, prizes of $100 each, are given the nation's two outstanding C. M. T. C. students to help defray expenses of a college education. Name of the most outstanding nominee in the corps area will be entered in competition with winners in the other eight areas.

Dr. V. P. Sydenstricker Will Discuss Vitamins

Dr. V. P. Sydenstricker, professor of medicine at the University of Georgia School of Medicine in Augusta, will speak on "The Role of Vitamins in Deficiency and Nutrition Diseases," before a meeting of the Alpha Omega Alpha medical fraternity at 8:30 o'clock tonight at the Biltmore hotel.

Preceding the address, the fraternity will elect officers and initiate new members at ceremonies beginning at 6:30 o'clock.

Lamour's Sarong, Your Tea Came From Dutch East Indies

Japanese Want To Protect Islands But U. S.
Says No.

By SIGRID ARNE.

WASHINGTON, May 9.—(AP)—There is a sure short-cut for an American who wants to picture the last spot on the globe to be touched by the war frenzy—the Dutch East Indies. It's Dorothy Lamour's sarong. That figured fabric that she drapes from armpit to shin was adapted from the garment of the beautiful women of Bali, one of the Indies. The difference is Balinese women knot their sarongs differently—from the waist down, instead of from the armpits. In Bali, it's considered immoral for women to show the legs.

Most Americans have several comforts that probably came from the Dutch Indies: rubber in the jolly's tires; quinine in the medicine cabinet; tapoca and nutmeg on the pantry shelf; kapok in the mattresses; tin fruit canisters; and of our meals: tea and coffee. We even call coffee "java," after one of the islands.

But the average American would be hard put to it to tell just where the islands are and what the people are like. On the map, the islands curve 3,200 miles from the southern India like the skeleton of a mastodon with a trail of vertebrae. Sumatra, Borneo and Java are the bigger islands, hundreds of little ones form the vertebrae.

In War Chatter. The Dutch Indies are in the war chatter because of the Japanese have been giving off signs of wanting to "protect" them. Secretary of State Cordell Hull, as a result, has made an announcement to the effect that any disturbance in the Dutch Indies would result in disturbance in the entire Pacific. That's diplomatic language for "hands off."

The islands have 61,000,000 inhabitants: sixty million of them peaceful Malay-Polynesian natives who know lots more about how to wind hibiscus blooms into their black hair than how to handle a rifle. They've never taken part in a major scrap, although the Dutch and English scrapped about them around 1700. The Dutch won.

Dutch Indians speak dozens of dialects. They've always produced their own pottery and textiles for their homes and have built their own golden temples. Most of them raise coffee, tea, rice (so much that they export some to China), rubber (half of which they sell to us). Some work in oil fields and tin mines.

The rest of the population is Kipling-esque. Dutch traders, agriculturists, government men. Dutch like the Indies so well they stay on when they retire. Marry natives. Not like the English in India. It's not uncommon to see a blonde "Myneer" pedaling his bicycle down the road followed by a string of cycles bearing his native wife and their children.

There are some Arabs and Hindus—usually traders—in the Indies, some Chinese who raise crops and lend money, and some Japanese.

The Dutch have fostered religious liberty in the islands. Most of the natives are Mohammedans, but 402,000 have joined the Dutch Protestant church.

Legally, the Dutch have handled their little brown brothers with velvet gloves. One set of laws, patterned on those of Holland, apply to Europeans and the Japanese. A second governs natives, providing for adjustments of local customs to religious beliefs.

Natives Own Land. Only natives can own land; all others lease it, even the Dutch. The longest lease runs 75 years, but can be extended.

The army's not much and it's mostly native—about 54,000 strong. They have their own munitions works and arsenals and the Dutch keep four armored boats and six destroyers in island waters.

There's a Dutch Governor-general, appointed from home. He has to consult a council of five on budget or military problems of the people. One of the most delicate jobs the Dutch have tackled has been to convince native Princes they should spend a good portion of their revenue on their subjects. Now no Prince can keep more than 40 per cent of his state's revenue.

"Rich as the Indies." The revenue is impressive enough to make the old expression, "Rich as the Indies," quite valid today. The islands have a virtual monopoly on some products: 90 per cent of chinchona bark (from which we get quinine); 79 per cent of kapok, for mattresses, insulation, and so on; and 80 percent of pepper. They also supply good portions of the world's rubber, copra, coal, tin, tea, coffee and petroleum. Islands exported $392,000,000 worth of goods last year and imported $248,750,000 worth, to which we contributed airplanes, autos and a variety of manufactured products.

American Lighter. Friends who have been there tell me the Dutch are benevolent administrators. But it stops with benevolence. They show no signs of building up a move for independence, as we have in the Philippines.

Civilization has penetrated in peculiar ways, like the time my woman friend wanted a manicure in a hill village. The manicurist was a native man, six feet tall, in a bright breach cloth with a red hibiscus flower over one ear. She says he didn't cut her cuticle any more than it's been cut right here in the U. S. A.

Her husband tells another. They went into the hills. They were watching a woman making pottery in the sun. He wanted a cigarette but the neighbors to listen to any disparaging comment must be taken into consideration, said the judge in holding that all telephone conversations must be regarded public.

A BALI GIRL on her way to market, basket balanced on a towel that's coiled in with her hair.

IN SUMATRA, natives store their rice in quaint structures like this.

Rabies Kills Youth After Three Years

MEMPHIS, Tenn., May 9.—(AP) Hailey Jones Jr., 11-year-old Beth (Ark.) schoolboy, died early today of rabies, apparently contracted from the scratch of a cat three years ago.

Doctors had been helpless to aid him since he was admitted to Isolation hospital here late last week. As a last-chance treatment, they administered sulphyridine in the hope it might have a curative effect.

Young Jones was eight years old when he was scratched on the cheek by a rabid cat. He took the anti-rabies treatment and apparently suffered no ill effects until last week when the disease developed. Doctors described the case as rare but not unheard of.

How Romantic Dixie Got Popular Name

HOUSTON, Texas, May 9.—(AP) A New Orleans bank was responsible for the popular term "Dixie," applied to the land below the Mason-Dixon line.

Henry E. Elrod, Houston engineer and numismatist, said the Citizens Bank of New Orleans was the originator, through its 10-piastre notes.

The notes were issued in 1852, printed half in French and half in English. On the face of the note was the word "Ten" and its corresponding French word, "Dix."

Southerners called the bills "Dixie." In those days states issued their own money and much of it was almost worthless. The New Orleans bank was in prosperous condition, however, and the bills spread over the Southland, which gradually became known as the land of the "Dixies," and, finally, Dixieland.

German Nationalism Gets Down to ABC's

BERLIN, May 9.—(AP)—A campaign for the revival of German script, that angular and hooked handwriting which is the dismay of foreigners, is being started by the intensely nationalistic magazine, "Neues Volk."

The magazine revealed its campaign is another manifestation of the revolt against foreign influences. "Our people, in its handwriting, has achieved an expression of its racial entity free from foreign modification," Neues Volk said.

It regretted that the post-World War generation had largely adopted the Latin script. The contention that the Latin form is better suited to commerce and science was dismissed by the magazine as a "Jewish notion."

Where Phone Snooping Is Neighborly Art

VIENNA, May 9.—(AP)—In Vienna, if you telephone to your choice of neighbors to listen to any disparaging comment must be taken into consideration, said the judge in holding that all telephone conversations must be regarded public.

In a test case, a judge held there is nothing private about an Austrian telephone. The possibility of a jumbled-up connection which would enable all the neighbors to listen to any disparaging comment must be taken into consideration, said the judge in holding that all telephone conversations must be regarded public.

Wheeler Urges Irrigating Arid Lands for Poor

Senator, Candidate for Democratic Nomination, Liberal.

By WALTER M. HARRISON

For North American Newspaper Alliance. WASHINGTON, May 9.—There is so much of the rough-and-tumble, straight-shooting west about Senator Burton K. Wheeler, of Montana, that you have to check the records to make sure that he is a son of conservative New England.

Maybe that hard scrabble farm at Hudson, Mass., where he did his bit as a boy to help dig out a living for his father's family of 10 children, had something to do with putting the steel into his tall, stout, hard-bitten frame, which has withstood so ruggedly the ups and downs of 30 years of tempestuous political life.

Beats Besmirchers.

Here is Burt Wheeler at 58, chairman of the senate's interstate commerce committee, absolved of being a "Red," unscathed after court attempts to besmirch and destroy him, now announcing that he is a candidate for the Democratic nomination for the presidency—if Franklin D. Roosevelt does not seek a third term.

Wheeler was far enough to the left to please the late Senator Bob La Follette, who picked him as a choice for the vice presidential place on the third party ticket of 1924. And he hasn't moved very far to the right since. Basically he holds that his liberalism is the right angle to take to save this country. He wants his six children to have the same kind of republic to live in that he has enjoyed. If you know Burt Wheeler and his devotion to his family, you can have no doubt that they are his motivating influence.

Led Court Fight.

Among the interesting things that have happened in this political spring is the extension of the olive branch from President Roosevelt to Wheeler, who was checked off the list of "my friends" when he jumped in at the outset against the supreme court reorganization bill and stayed with it openly, loudly and adroitly until public sentiment and congress jelled behind him.

Wheeler still likes most of the New Deal program of social justice, refused to allow the court fight to sour him on that part of the administration's program that he considers good; he is for giving labor as much as the next fellow and wants to be sure that, in standing for free enterprise, he is not standing for "free monopoly," of the sort which he believes has squeezed the life out of far too many little fellows in the past.

Settle Arid Lands.

The 10 per cent or more of migrant population in American agriculture must be tied down, he says, lest some of the things happen here that have become history in Russia, Germany and Italy.

"Our great power projects should carry water to vast tracts of arid lands in the west," Wheeler said, "and the government should pin the transient population down in such areas on small tracts where they have a chance, with low-interest rates and long amortizations, where they can be assured of carrying their loads and paying out. Then they will become good citizens and solve this growing itinerant problem. I hope we get going before it is too late."

As Wheeler watches the campaign of 1940 shaping up, he foresees a general assault upon the New Deal by the G. O. P., with the attack centered on the reciprocal trade treaties in the middle west and in the far west driving at Roosevelt's open friendship for the Anglo-French alliance. Just returned from a visit to the Pacific coast, Wheeler was surprised at the amount of feeling he found that the country cannot depend upon Roosevelt to keep us out of war. He thinks that feeling will be highly capitalized.

War Big Issue.

While domestic policies should be paramount, and unemployment unquestionably will be a major issue, the Montana senator believes that the war is most likely to have a vital effect, particularly if it becomes an "all-out" conflict with the Democratic Allies extended in a desperate and uncertain struggle during the late summer and fall.

Moreover, Wheeler is of the opinion that the third-term issue may overshadow all other discussion, in the event that Mr. Roosevelt accepts a third-term nomination.

Although Montana has profited by the administration's silver-purchase policy, Wheeler does not argue for continuation of the measure and thinks it quite likely that congress may amend the act.

Broader Income Tax.

He doesn't propose to make the broadening of the income tax an issue in his campaign, nor does he expect either party to take a stand on the question, but he frankly admits that such a policy is necessary and he would not be surprised to see the next congress take the jump.

When Wheeler is fighting, his voice is strident and there is a snarl in his manner. Across his desk his voice smooths, his manner polished, his vocabulary blunt and colloquial. His face is windreddened, eyes blue and sharp behind round, rimmed lenses on a hawk-like nose. His hair is thinning, but his six-foot-one body is so muscular, his movements so nervously alert, that not even a 20-year-old cub would call him old. He dresses plainly.

I forgot to find out whether Wheeler's folks were Irish. There is a definite feel of the fighting Irish about him. He has thrived on fighting and he isn't finished.

"Sandwich" Man Fin' Job as Sandwich Man

NASHVILLE, Tenn., May 9.—(AP)—Harry Futrell, the job-hunting suitor who donned a sandwich sign "I must have work" to get a job so he could marry, has gone to work.

Harry's unique advertising stunt brought him—of all things—a job as a sandwich man! His sign now reads "I have work" and names the restaurant which hired him. He's satisfied that advertising pays, but thinks he'll postpone his wedding a while longer.

A native of Honolulu who has recently come to Atlanta to live, is Mrs. Daniel W. Smith. Her cosmopolitan cooking includes famous dishes of Chinese, Japanese, Hawaiian and Spanish origin. Strangely enough, Mrs. Smith says she finds practically all ingredients, or good substitutes, available here in Atlanta. Mrs. Smith has a maid but does her own cooking for her husband and four children.

Atlanta Woman Cooks Many Foreign Dishes

Twenty-one hundred miles from San Francisco down in the South Pacific lie the tropical islands of Hawaii. When we think of these islands usually it is in terms of guitars strumming languorous music and of natives in friendly gesture placing lei around the necks of visitors. Seldom, if ever, does it occur to us to question how the families live, what the women cook and how they serve it in these islands whose people are fellow American citizens.

Recently, right here in Atlanta I discovered a woman who was born and reared in Honolulu, whose parents were French and native Hawaiian. She, with her husband and four children, came to Atlanta only about four months ago. She is Mrs. Daniel W. Smith, and I looked her up because she sent in to the Prize-Winning Recipe Column some fascinating recipes. From the brief letter accompanying and from the recipes I knew at once here was a woman who knew how and liked to cook.

Honolulu is a cosmopolitan city, in fact the islands are quite a mixture of races: French, Chinese, Portuguese, Japanese, Hawaiians and part-Hawaiians predominate. Naturally the food is a mixture of native Hawaiian dishes, of Spanish, Chinese, Japanese and others. Chinese dishes vie with native Hawaiian for first place in Mrs. Smith's meal planning. Her family is fond of chop suey, egg foo yung, pickled spareribs, squid or chicken cooked with a flavoring of ginger, and other Chinese dishes.

Almost everything needed for these foreign dishes is available in Atlanta, Mrs. Smith said, though in some cases one must make a substitution which though not exactly like the ingredients found in another country, its similarity is sufficient to produce good results.

Such is the case with peanut oil. The peanut oil which is so widely used in China is not quite the same flavor as ours, but our oil serves quite nicely in Chinese recipes, she stated. Following are some recipes and cooking ideas which Mrs. Smith considerably gave me for you.

Chop suey could be called the national dish of China, and Mrs. Smith makes it at least once a week. This is what she does:

Chop Suey.

1 cup cooked meat, chopped (for this she uses bits of left-over meats saved for the purpose)
2 carrots, chopped
1 stalk celery, chopped
1 cup cauliflower, cooked
Soy sauce

Fry meat in peanut oil until lightly browned, add vegetables and season with salt and pepper. Add 1 tablespoon soy sauce and a little water if mixture is too dry. Simmer for a few minutes, only until vegetables are tender. Serve with boiled rice. The Chinese do not serve chop suey over rice; they serve it as a side dish to be eaten with the chop suey. They do not use cornstarch in making chop suey.

Egg Foo Yung.

To make this fry several slices of bacon until crisp.
6 or 8 eggs
1 can bean sprouts, drained
1 onion, chopped, fine
1-2 teaspoon baking powder
Beat eggs, add bean sprouts, onion, baking powder and the crisp bacon crumbled. Fry in little cakes in peanut oil.

Chicken Luau.

This is one of the most famous of Hawaiian dishes. Americans come to enjoy it so much they make a point of stopping during travels by the islands to eat it. In Hawaii the tops of a vegetable called tara are used in making it, but Mrs. Smith says she uses spinach for it here in the states.

Directions for making:
1 chicken, 4 to 5 lbs., prepared and cut up.

Simmer chicken gently in a little water until tender. Season with salt and pepper. When chicken is tender stir in 2 to 3 cups steamed spinach, 1 cup coconut juice and a little grated coconut. Simmer a few minutes and serve.

Pickled Spareribs. (A Chinese Dish.)

1 pound spareribs
4 tablespoons peanut oil
1 cup vinegar
Sugar to taste
1 piece crushed ginger
1 small clove garlic
2 teaspoons cornstarch
Chop spareribs in 1-inch pieces. Heat peanut oil in frying pan. Put in pinch of salt, the garlic and ginger. Add spareribs and fry until brown. Add vinegar and simmer until ribs are tender. Add sugar and soy sauce and last, add cornstarch. Cook gently until it thickens. Serves 6.

Red Kidney Beans (Spanish)

1 can red kidney beans
1 clove garlic
1-4 cup olive oil
1 onion, sliced
1 can solid pack tomatoes
1 teaspoon sugar
1 green pepper, sliced
Heat oil in skillet. Add garlic and onions. Then add beans, tomatoes, pepper, sugar and season with salt and pepper. Cook slowly about 30 minutes. Serves 4.

ATLANTA, GA., FRIDAY MORNING, MAY 10, 1940.

MOTHER'S DAY

Many suggestions are advanced for the observance of Mother's Day. There are some who say that the nation's heroines who are honored on this day should be showered with gifts; others put forward the splendid idea of writing home or telegraphing if it is impossible to get home to greet mother in person. Then someone suggested that mother be nestled in an easy chair while her family cook and serve the dinner on Her Day.

These are excellent ideas, all of them EXCEPT the one about putting mother in an easy chair for the day. I don't think many mothers would stay there long! If I know anything about mothers they derive a greater joy from doing things for the family than from having the family do things for them. Of course, I do not mean that the whole family should gather around expecting a grand feast all to be prepared by the lady whose day it is, while other members of the family dash here and there, arriving just in time to put their feet under a bountifully laden table. What I do mean is that mothers are happiest when surrounded by their little brood, all of whom are showing traits which she strove to develop. For instance, mother would like more than anything else, to see selfishness, thoughtfulness for others, kindness, in her children. She would like to see a devotion to her and to other members of the family.

Now, since this is true, wouldn't it be a better plan to gather at home for Mother's Day and have everyone lend a hand in producing and serving a family dinner? This, I believe, would make mothers happier than any other way of celebrating her day. If every one helped a big family dinner wouldn't be a burden to mother or to any one, and if you don't think it would be the most joyous experience for your mother, ask her.

In the Spring Fancy Runs to Strawberries

Happily, strawberries will be with us for some time to come, the first of the local berries having been brought to market this week. Thus, it seems, some discussion of this famous fruit is in order. Short-cakes there will be, and pies, and ice cream and fluffy fruity desserts, and when local berries are abundant along will come those delectable sweets, strawberry jam and preserves, which challenge all others for first place in many affections. But suppose we begin with the berries just as we find them in the market.

In shopping for strawberries eye appeal counts for a lot because better berries show their quality in a fresh, clean, bright appearance. They have a solid red color all over and are without excess moisture, dirt or trash. The green caps are attached. Both caps and stems are a bright green.

Large strawberries have an appeal for the average buyer, but size is not an indication of flavor for flavor depends upon the variety. Small, mishapen berries usually are poor in quality and quite frequently have a small, hard, green area. Berries with white spots—especially on the tips—were picked before they were mature.

Look carefully at the container before you buy. A container stained a deep red is a warning flag to purchasers. Usually it means that the berries have been mashed or they are overripe and leaky. Decay may show up in the presence of mold on the surface of the berries.

Generous marketing is not encouraged except at preserving time, for strawberries are among the most perishable of all the fruits. Buy only enough strawberries for immediate needs is a good general rule to follow. If the berries must be kept overnight, look them over, and pick out any berries that show signs of softening or mold. Then place them in a collander, or other ventilated container, before storing them in the refrigerator or other cool place.

Wash the berries just before you are ready to use them. Often in the rush of preparing a meal, the berries are placed under a heavy stream of water, which is allowed to run on them several minutes. This method does not get rid of sand and grit; the berries lose flavor and are apt to be mashed or bruised.

To prevent mashing, rinse strawberries carefully, a few at a time, in a pan of water. Lift the berries out of the water, rather than pour the water off. In that way, the sand or soil settles to the bottom. Do not let the berries stay in the water any longer than necessary, or they will lose color and flavor.

Around the Clock With Strawberries.

Strawberries may be served around the clock, starting with strawberries and cream, or with cereal, for breakfast, strawberry shortcake for luncheon, strawberry jam or appetizers for tea, and strawberry cream pie for dinner. Then there are strawberry sauces for ice cream, custards and puddings, strawberry fruit combinations for salads and fruit cup, and delicious meringues, mousses, strawberry ice cream and fruit drinks.

Fresh berries blend well with sliced bananas, oranges, diced fresh or canned pineapple, apricots, peaches or pears. A little sugar syrup, fruit juice, or preferably honey, may be mixed in with such combinations to give them additional sweetening and liquid. A sprig of mint will add color and flavor. A jar of chilled strawberry juice, or of sweetened, crushed strawberries in the refrigerator is a welcome time-saver.

Making Jam and Preserves.

Avoid long cooking in making strawberry jams and preserves. It is better to undercook the strawberry products a trifle than to overcook them, since the flavor, the color, and the consistency are changed by too much heat. A simple method for preserves calls for equal measures of strawberries and sugar. Heat the mixture slowly and stir until it boils. Boil for exactly six minutes, pour into hot, clean jars and seal.

Ice Cream.

There are short-cuts to strawberry ice cream, too. Add two cups of berries and two-thirds of a cup of sugar to one quart of half-frozen vanilla ice cream. Two cups of crushed berries and one-half cup of granulated sugar also may be added to one quart of partially frozen lemon ice for a delicious sherbet.

Sophisticated Choose Them Plain.

The most exacting gourmet, who insists on fancy tricks with almost every other known food, is content to eat strawberries plain and uncooked. Many a hostess serves as dessert luscious, perfect berries, still wearing green caps and stems, with individual dishes of powdered sugar for "dunking." Strawberries are especially healthful for most people, since they contain a mild acid which aids digestion, as well as mineral salts not found in most foods. Authorities list them as a fair source of vitamin A, a good source of vitamin B, and an excellent source of vitamin C.

Prize Winning Recipes For This Week

Ham and Egg Pie.

Submitted by Mrs. Ernest Stone, Canton, Ga.
6 slices ham.
6 eggs.
Simmer ham, covered with water, until tender. Make dough as for biscuit, making dough rather stiff. Put half of ham in bottom of baking dish or casserole, cover with thin pieces of dough. Next break eggs onto dough. Cover with remaining ham. Salt and pepper to taste. Add a little of the water in which ham was cooked, put on a top crust made of the biscuit dough, dot with butter and place in moderately hot oven for 20 minutes.

California Chicken.

Submitted by Miss Maude Smith, 105 S. Bolch St., Akron, Ohio.
1-4 pound ground pork.
1 pound ground veal.
1 teaspoon salt.
1 tablespoon green pepper, chopped.
1-4 teaspoon pepper.
1-4 cup grated pineapple, drained.
Combine all ingredients and shape like a chicken leg around wooden skewers. Roll in bread crumbs, then in egg slightly beaten with 1 tablespoon water and again in bread crumbs. Let stand 30 minutes in refrigerator. Brown in hot fat, then reduce heat, cover closely and cook slowly for 45 minutes. Serve with Squash Souffle.

Submitted by Mrs. T. W. McCleskey, 855 Oak Street, S. W., Atlanta.
2 pound squash.
5 tablespoons flour.
4 tablespoons butter or margarine.
1-2 teaspoon salt.
3 eggs.
Boil or steam squash until tender, drain and mash. Melt butter, add flour and salt. Add milk gradually, stirring constantly. Cool and add mashed squash and lightly beaten egg yolks. Fold in beaten egg whites and bake in a buttered baking dish set in hot water. Keep water just below boiling point and bake one hour.

Pineapple Waffles.

Submitted by Mrs. J. J. McWhorter, Route 2, Cedartown, Ga.
1-2 cups flour.
3 teaspoons baking powder.
1-4 teaspoon salt.
2 tablespoons sugar.
1 cup crushed pineapple.
1 cup milk.
2 egg yolks.
2 tablespoons melted fat.
2 egg whites, beaten.
Sift flour, measure, add dry ingredients and sift again. Add milk gradually, then egg yolks and melted fat. Add pineapple and lastly fold in egg whites, stiffly beaten. Bake in waffle iron or on griddle.

You're Asking Me

Question: Can you make pastry with self-rising flour?

Answer: Yes, indeed. Here's the way to do it:

Pie Crust.

2 cups self-rising flour, sifted before measuring
4 tablespoons shortening
Rub shortening through flour thoroughly. Add enough ice water to make dough that can be handled. Chill. Roll as thin as possible on a lightly floured board. This makes pastry for one covered pie.

Question: How can I keep cookies from spreading over pan?

Answer: Allow enough space between them for spreading. Nearly all drop cookies spread some in cooking; use two spoons, a tablespoon and a teaspoon in dropping them, and if cookie dough is soft drop only one teaspoonful and drop them two or three inches apart.

Question: Will you give recipe for barbecue sauce?

Answer: There are a number of recipes for making barbecue sauce; here is one you will like:

Barbecue Sauce.

1 tablespoon butter
1-2 onion, chopped
1-2 teaspoon pepper
4 teaspoons sugar
4 teaspoons Worcestershire sauce
1 teaspoon tabasco sauce
1 teaspoon paprika
1-2 cup catsup
1-4 cup vinegar
3-4 cup water
1 teaspoon mustard
Melt butter, add chopped onion and cook until clear. Add dry seasonings, catsup, vinegar, water and sauces and bring to a boil. Serve.

Question: In recipes calling for a tablespoon of something dry, say sugar or flour, do you "round" it upon the spoon?

Answer: No. All measurements are level unless otherwise stated. A tablespoonful of sugar would be that which was left after the flat side of a knife was moved across the filled spoon. The same applies of a cupful, too.

An angel cake with fluffy icing sets a festive note for celebration of Mother's Day.

ICING FOR THE MOTHER'S DAY CAKE pictured:

3-4 Pint (1 1-2 cups) whipping cream, whipped
24 Marshmallows cut in small pieces
1 Pint fresh strawberries, stemmed and cut in quarters. (Some whole berries left for garnishing)

Whip cream until stiff. Cut marshmallows in small pieces, using scissors dipped in cold water. Fold marshmallows into whipped cream and chill in refrigerator 2 or 3 hours. Just before serving fold in the chilled, well-drained strawberries and spread over an angel food cake.

Ideas From a Cook's Notebook

Meat Pie.

Spring may suggest salads to feminine appetites, but for the hearty meal nothing is more welcome to the man of the house than a nourishing meat pie topped by a thick crust, with a side order of gravy.

Leftover meats may be diced or ground for this dish or the base may be one pound of round steak, ground. Often a few leftover vegetables or vegetable juices will add flavor.

Two onions sliced, one-fourth cup shortening, one pound round steak, ground; one cup cooked carrots, diced; one cup cooked peas, three tablespoons flour, one-half teaspoon salt, one teaspoon Worcestershire sauce, dash pepper, two and one-half cups boiling water. (Depending on liquid available.)

Saute onions in two tablespoons of shortening. Add meat and saute slightly. Add vegetables. Turn into baking utensil rubbed with shortening. Add flour, salt and pepper and oil. Add sauce and water, stirring constantly, and continue stirring and cooking until thick. Pour three-fourths cup of gravy over mixture in baking utensil. (A bouillon cube may be used for a richer gravy.) Chopped parsley also adds flavor.

For the top crust, sift two cups flour with three teaspoons baking powder, and three-fourths teaspoon salt. Cut in one-half cup shortening until mixture is as fine as meal. Add two-thirds cup milk, mixing until a soft dough is formed. Roll dough to fit top of meat mixture, or use small individual biscuits for top. Prick crust with a fork. Bake in a hot oven 30 to 40 minutes. Serve with baked or scalloped potatoes.

Maple Tea Cakes.

One cup maple sugar shavings, one-third cup shortening, one egg, three teaspoons baking powder, one-fourth teaspoon salt, one-fourth cup sugar, one-half cup milk, two cups flour, one-half cup shortening and add the beaten egg. Sift the dry ingredients together and add alternately with the milk. Bake in small muffin tins that have been rubbed with pan-coat (mixture shortening and flour).

Stuffed Green Peppers.

Cut large, sweet green peppers in half lengthwise, or cut a slice

Very smart it is to serve fresh fruit unadorned. For afternoon refreshments or for dessert these pineapple fingers and unstemmed strawberries are perfect. A little mound of cream cheese or powdered sugar delicately flavored is to dip them in.

from the tops of the peppers. Remove the seeds and cook the peppers for 2 to 5 minutes in boiling water. Drain, sprinkle lightly with salt and stuff. For the stuffing, using cooked meat, allow equal parts finely chopped cooked beef or veal and salt, fine bread crumbs, 2 cups of each will fill 4 large peppers. Season with 1 to 2 teaspoons minced onion, salt and pepper and moisten with meat gravy or with a little hot water. Fill the peppers rounding full, but do not pack the filling in too tightly as it will expand as the peppers cook. Cover with buttered bread crumbs and bake 10 to 15 minutes in a hot oven—400 degrees.

In stuffing made with uncooked meat use the following recipe: Chop 1 onion and cook it in 2 tablespoons melted butter or margarine for 3 minutes. Add 4 tablespoons chopped fresh or canned mushrooms, 1/2 pound chopped lean raw beef, 3 tablespoons bread crumbs and 1/2 cup brown sauce.

Season with salt and pepper to taste. Fill the peppers, sprinkle with buttered bread crumbs and bake in a hot oven for 15 to 25 minutes. Serve with brown sauce. If the peppers are cut in half before stuffing they will bake in 15 minutes; if whole peppers are used, allow 25 minutes.

Brown Chicken Fricassee.

1 1/2- or 5-lb. chicken or fowl
4 tsp. flour
3 tsp. salt
1/4 tsp. pepper
4 tsp. salad oil or fat
4 c. water
1 large, peeled, quartered onion
Celery tops

Order the chicken dressed, cleaned, and cut up. Dredge each piece with some of the flour combined with 2 tsp. of the salt and the pepper. Brown on all sides in the hot fat in a deep kettle. Add the water, the onion, a few celery tops, and the remaining 1 tsp. of salt.

Simmer, tightly covered, from 1 to 1 1/2 hours for the chicken, 3 to 4 hours for fowl, or until tender. Now remove the chicken to a hot platter and cover with a gravy made as follows: Measure the chicken stock, having first skimmed off any surface fat. Then add 2 tsp. flour, mixed to a smooth paste in 3 tsp. cold water, for every cupful of chicken stock. Simmer 5 minutes while stirring; then add more salt and pepper if needed. Serves 6.

Menu Suggestion: Serve with pineapple or tomato juice, fluffy mashed potatoes, broccoli, and with mustard bread pudding for dessert.

For some new flavor flings try using orange juice in place of milk for softening mashed sweet potatoes; adding a dash of dry mustard to macaroni and cheese dishes or putting broken nutmeats into apple butter and spreading it over warm coffee bread.

Lamb chops cut from the shoulder are more economical than rib or loin chops. These shoulder chops are served with string beans and julienne carrots. Potatoes are side dish.

Pomp Is Barred From Reviews At Aldershot

General Squats on Heels and Sees His Boys Show Their Stuff.

By C. B. PYPER.

For North American Newspaper Alliance. ALDERSHOT, England, May 2. (By Air Mail)—There was a time when a general's inspection was an affair of pomp, circumstance and some profanity, a parade that called for spit-and-polish and that to the private soldier seemed designed merely to test his endurance.

Then the battalion was drawn up in regular, rigid lines, the officers with drawn swords in front. The general, booted, spurred and distinguished from all others by the superior sparkle of his dress, walked along the ranks with the commanding officer, watched a few evolutions, took the salute at the march past and rode away with his staff, a being remote and aloof.

That was the old method of testing a battalion. A few days ago three of us, correspondents, chanced upon an inspection of the Edmonton battalion. It had already begun when we arrived. At first glance it seemed to be over. There were no massed troops on the high, hard, level parade ground. Near us was a small detachment of soldiers standing easy. On the far side were others in a small group and other little groups were on either flank. "There's the general," said an officer who was with us, pointing across the square. We went over but couldn't pick him out. They all seemed to be private soldiers. As we came close one of them turned, showing the weather-beaten face and shrewd eyes of Major General McNaughton, C. B., C. M. G., D. S. O. He greeted us with the easy friendliness that never seems to desert him, and then crossed the square to the side, where some soldiers were lying behind small instruments of war. There he sat on his heels, watching the way the men handled their weapons—trench mortars—questioning them, and explaining to us how the things worked. There was no picking of groups specially proficient at this or that; the men were taken at random from the battalion. In this way we could get a fair notion of the unit's general efficiency. When he had gone through all the units he knew pretty well how his division was getting on.

Friend of FDR, Edith Rogers, Is G. O. P. Leader

Wants U. S. 'To Protect' Greenland From British and Germans.

By MALVINA STEPHENSON.
For North American Newspaper Alliance.
WASHINGTON, May 9. Congresswoman Rogers, of Massachusetts, may be "Edith" to President Roosevelt—but she's still a spearhead for Republican opposition in the house of representatives.

Seasoned by 15 years' experience as a national lawmaker, Mrs. Rogers is now sparring with the administration on two major fronts, in the name of "peace" and the "merit system."

An outspoken isolationist, who voted against the arms embargo repeal and the reciprocal trade renewal, she recently demanded that our dilatory State Department immediately establish a protectorate over Greenland.

This only woman member of the house foreign affairs committee was aroused by a statement of the British ambassador that England does not plan to occupy Greenland "unless" Germany should attempt to intervene.

Cites Monroe Doctrine.
"England, apparently, fails to recognize any interest of the United States in the matter," she observed. "There is no question, however, about the fact that Greenland comes within the scope of the Monroe Doctrine."

She drew on Colonel Lindbergh's report, describing Greenland as an excellent air base location for the defense of the north Atlantic. "From April until November it may be used for landing and refueling," she declared. "Greenland is also valuable as a naval and submarine base."

Now resting in the legislative hopper is her resolution requiring a continuous session of congress through the duration of the European war. "If this proposal dies with the current session, and the war is still raging, I will reintroduce the resolution at the next congress." At least, she will stay on record for the plan.

For Merit System.
Almost as dear to her heart as the cause for peace is the application of a strict, impartial merit system to the selection of government employees. Mrs. Rogers unsuccessfully fought the house Ranspeck bill, now pending before the senate civil service committee.

"It's a move by the majority party to anchor some 200,000 patronage job-holders into civil service on the eve of an election which they fear will bring defeat," the New Englander charges.

"To the present civil service employees who have come in the hard way, it is grossly unfair to lump in thousands of others by hasty and easy examinations," she asserted. "The rolls would thus be loaded and there would be no openings for years for the present 980,000 eligibles on the waiting list."

Never Asks Politics.
"All my post office and West Point selections have been made purely on the merit system," she explains proudly. "I never ask their party politics—but the appointments go to the highest grades."

It was her husband, John Jacob Rogers, who first turned her interests to politics. Incidentally, he attended Harvard with President Roosevelt, and this early relationship accounts for the family friendship despite the decided political differences.

On a recent conference at the White House, Mrs. Rogers teased the President, "I guess I won't be seeing you down here any more, unless you run for a third term."

The President smiled disarmingly and observed casually, "Oh, Edith, you know you're welcome down here any time this spring or summer." And there he left it hanging.

that may be used for frying time and time again without absorbing food odors or flavors, because it is refined by a special process.

This process gives it higher heating capacity. SESSIONS PEANUT OIL has a much higher heat acceptance than other cooking fats and oils, which makes it possible to fry without the oil smoking or scorching.

Try it today as a blend for salad oil, as shortening for cakes, pies and other pastries or for frying. You'll find it easily digested and just the cooking oil you've been looking for.

CAME HERE IN OX CART—Atlanta was a lot smaller when little J. P. Poss and his sweetheart, Mollie Pugh, used to sit on "the old church fence" where the Candler building is now. Yesterday, celebrating their fifty-first wedding anniversary, they still were interested in the way Atlanta grew up. And he still dries the dishes.

Mr., Mrs. Poss June 3 Named Celebrate 51st As Graduation Wedding Date Day at Shorter Came to Atlanta by Oxcart When They Were Young.

They used to come to Atlanta by oxcart when they were country kids living in the northeastern part of Fulton county.

Many a time they've sat on "the Old Church fence" where the Candler building now stands.

They refreshed themselves with water from a well, long since covered over, above which the Henry Grady monument stands.

When he took her to the fair, it was to the old fairgrounds, site of the present Exposition Cotton Mills.

Times without number he hunted rabbits through the woods and fields that were all there was of the populous Capitol avenue section they live in today.

And through it all, J. P. Poss and the former Mollie Pugh—his childhood sweetheart, and for 51 years his wife—have found Atlanta's lively growth, its ever-changing scene, a constant source of surprised interest.

Yesterday they celebrated the first year of their second half-century together, and received presents and congratulations at their home, 484 Capitol avenue.

Their romance had its precursor in the marriage of his brother, Albert, and her sister, Evelyn, 70 years ago when yesterday's celebrants were but small children. The elder couple are dead.

Mrs. Poss said her father, John Pugh, first began taking The Constitution 69 years ago, and that she and her husband had subscribed to it throughout their married life.

Graduation exercises will be held in the college auditorium Monday morning, June 3, at 10:30 o'clock. Dr. Rushbrooke will be guest speaker. He is world president of the Baptist Alliance and a noted speaker of international note.

Other features. Among other features during the commencement season will be a special musical program in the college auditorium Sunday night, June 2, presented by the department of music, and a banquet on Alumnae Day, given at 6 o'clock Saturday night.

Graduates of this year's college work, as announced by college officials, include the following:

Mary Evelyn Acuff, Lake Wales, Fla.; Augusta Andrews, Columbus; Virginia Barnwell, Rome; Anna Elizabeth Brannen, Moultrie; Nancy Cooper, Rome; Nellie David, Columbus; Helen Dent, Lookhart, S. C.; Anne DuPree, Charlotte, N. Julia Nichols, Acworth; Patsy Patterson, Decatur; Virginia Schaudies, LaGrange; Jean Smith, Gainesville; Beryl Spooner, Donaldsonville; Ava Todd, Rome.

Special to THE CONSTITUTION. ROME, Ga., May 9.—The sixty-seventh annual commencement of Shorter College will take place June 1, 2 and 3, according to announcement by Dr. Paul M. Cousins, president. Dr. J. H. Rushbrooke, of London, England, and Dr. R. Paul Caudill, of Augusta, will be the principal speakers.

Saturday, June 1, has been designated as Alumnae Day and Class Day. The annual alumnae meeting is scheduled for 10:30 o'clock (CST), following the annual executive board meeting at 10 o'clock, Miss Louise Bennett, alumnae secretary, stated.

The annual Class Day exercises will take place on the Shorter campus at 4 o'clock Saturday afternoon. The annual play, "Kind Lady," will be given Saturday night by members of the speech department.

Sunday morning, June 2, Dr. Caudill will preach the baccalaureate sermon in Rome's First Baptist church in Rome.

Where Are Snows Of Other Years?

TUCSON, Ariz., May 9.—(P) Along with Villon, southwest farmers and scientists are asking, "Where are the snows of yesterday?"

G. E. P. Smith, water engineer and University of Arizona scientist, declares "most of it was lost by sublimation."

"Such losses," he said, "are inevitable when the snowfall is followed by clear weather, cool or moderate, with normal or high winds."

To those who scoff at the problem of sublimation, Smith recalled "seeing wet clothes freeze dry on the line, and seeing a mist-like fog rising just above a snowy hillside."

Smith, who insists that forecasts of the water supply should be made each April and September in the southwest to aid farmers to determine how many acres to plant, believes that a study of what became of the snows of yesterday must be included in the forecasts.

4 Youths Seized By Police After Chase on River

Suspects Face Charges of Stealing an Ax and Rowboat.

Four young Atlantans, officers of two counties, a pack of bloodhounds and a borrowed motorboat were involved in an unusual case Wednesday. The youths were arrested at their picnic lunch and hauled to jail charged with larceny after theft of an ax, and theft of a rowboat.

The four, Annie Mae McGee, 17; her 16-year-old brother, John Robert, both of 424 Hood street; John B. Vaughan, 18, and his 15-year-old brother, Harry, both of 445 Whitehall, were the ones arrested. The first three were placed in Fulton Tower and the fourth in the Juvenile Detention Home.

The quartet, according to county police, borrowed an ax near Bolton bridge, freed a rowboat from its moorings, and paddled down the Chattahoochee. Police borrowed another boat and paddled after them. Three miles downstream police borrowed an outboard motor and gave swift chase to find their quarry's abandoned boat on the Cobb county side near Nickajack creek.

Here the bloodhounds and Cobb county police were called in. But before the bloodhounds arrived, the combined police forces found their fugitives quietly picnicking in the shade of river willows about a mile upstream.

Tom Bond Named Morticians' Head

Closing their annual convention yesterday the Georgia Funeral Directors' Association selected Savannah as site of next year's meeting, and elected Tom Bond, of Atlanta, president to succeed Reuben Newsome, of Thomaston.

Other new officers are Carlos Hemperley, East Point, first vice president, and Cleve Mincey, Waycross, second vice president; Mose Bernstein, of Athens, was renamed secretary and treasurer.

NEEDED A BLUSH.

NEW YORK, May 9.—(UP)—Clerks were suspicious of John H. Nieman's selection of a $2,500 diamond engagement ring. He didn't look dreamy-eyed enough to be that much in love. New York police are holding him on a bad-check charge.

TULIP RAIDERS.

COLUMBIA, Mo., May 9.—(AP)—Thirteen Missouri University fraternity boys were sentenced to 10 days in city jail and fined $10 and costs for raiding townspeople's tulip beds for decorations for a dance.

Novel Radio Device Enables Auto Drivers To Dim Headlights on Other Fellow's Car

Gadget Could Be Produced at Cost of $5.

NEW YORK, May 9.—(AP)—Remember that guy who wouldn't dim his headlights when you were out driving the other night?

Well, before long you may be able to flip a switch in your car that will dim his lights for him, whether he likes it or not.

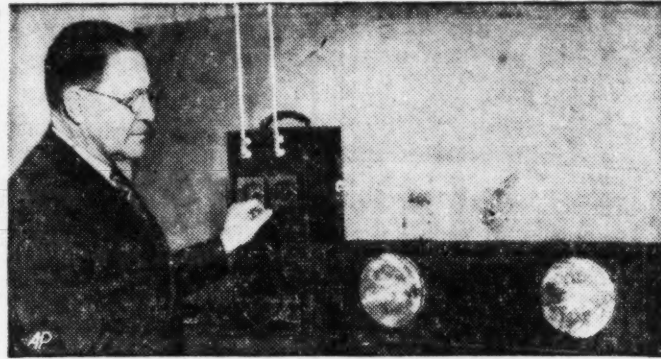

That is, you'll be able to do it if the authorities decide that a new patented radio device should be installed on every automobile.

Eugene C. Pomeroy, who got the idea, and Robert M. Franklin, who did the technical work, have a model set up in their Manhattan workshop that really works.

Franklin explained it's a transmitter (transmitter-receiver) that sends out an oscillation by short wave. That is received on the approaching car and operates another switch that dims his headlights until the cars are safely past each other.

The transceiver, in a box about a foot square, operates off the car's battery, pulling three-quarters of an ampere. Transmitter and the receiver require one tube each.

Pomeroy estimated the device, in mass production, would cost around $5.

HEADLIGHT-DIMMER—Robert M. Franklin, inventor, demonstrates a working model of a gadget he has perfected for dimming the headlights on an approaching car. It's all done by radio and oscillating waves.

THE WAY IT GOES.

PASADENA, Cal., May 9.—(UP)—A Pasadena (Cal.) woman driver, admiring the roses around the Rose Bowl, ran her automobile into a eucalyptus tree and broke it off. She expressed such regret and was so apologetic that Park Superintendent William Nicholas decided not to make the usual charge of $15 for a new tree. Next day she telephoned Nicholas to ask where she should present a bill of $8.50 for repair of her car bumper.

ONE-POUND BABY.

ALLENTOWN, Pa., May 9.—(AP)—A one-pound daughter was born to Mr. and Mrs. Ernest Gross at near-by Coopersburg yesterday. The infant was kept on an electric heating pad pending transfer to a hospital incubator.

TALE OF A TUB.

CAMBRIDGE, Mass., May 9.—(UP)—That plan of Charles Noah Pollak, Harvard senior, to lead a wash tub flotilla up the Charles river to Wellesley College for Women is all off. He learned the distance is 32 miles and not 15.

Latin America Irked at British And Cool to U.S.

Great Britain's Possessions and Our 'Defense Policy' Nettle Them.

By CARLOS J. VIDEA.

For North American Newspaper Alliance.

NEW YORK, May 9.—Possession by Great Britain of territories in South and Central America which Argentina and Guatemala consider theirs is raising a thorny complication for the "hemisphere defense" policy of the United States government and leading to Latin-American expressions of hostility against this country.

For more than a century now England has held the Malvinas, or Falkland, islands, off the southern coast of Argentina, and for several centuries the territory of Belize, or "British Honduras," which is claimed by Guatemala. Neither Argentina nor Guatemala has ever relinquished right to these territories.

At this moment insistent rumors are heard in Guatemala and Mexico to the effect that British arms are being landed at Chetumal Bay, Belize, and that at Benque Viejo, a strategically located point in that territory, a British "headquarters" has been established to prevent general Jorge Ubico, President-dictator of Guatemala, from trying any action aimed at recapturing part of the territory. Argentina's dispute with Britain over possession of the Falklands dates from 1833, smolders continually and once in a while throws off a few crackling sparks. At the present writing the dispute has been pushed to the fore both by ill-feeling caused by trade differences between the two countries and by the Washington "hemisphere defense" policy. Argentina repudiates the "hemisphere defense" tenet, just as it opposes the Monroe Doctrine, and as this adds fuel to existing trade troubles with the United States, the result is a further American-Argentine estrangement.

The lesser alarmist observers in Mexico, where the Belize question has been given some prominence, express the belief that if British submarines, as rumored, put in frequent appearances at Chetumal bay and if the British land arms, it may simply be due to general wartime precautions taken in all the crown possessions. But the fact that British-Mexican relations have been under marked strain ever since the expropriations of British and American-owned oil fields and that General Ubico, of Guatemala, is said to sympathize with Germany, places a more sinister construction upon those reports.

Anti-British Press.

In any event, the press in Guatemala has been conducting an intense campaign against British domination of Belize after the outbreak of war in Europe. In one of the organs of the controlled Guatemalan press, "El Liberal Progresista," an article entitled, "A Latent Danger for Peace," published a few days ago, warned that an armed clash between that country and Britain, "even if materially it resulted in the most complete disaster for Guatemala, would extend its tragic effects to an incalculable part of the hemisphere."

TAXI BOOKIE.

HAVERHILL, Mass., May 9.—(UP)—Men and women paraded into Howard R. Dunn's taxicab in Haverhill, Mass., were driven around the block and got out at their starting place. Policemen couldn't understand it until they tried it. Then Dunn was fined $200 for taking horse race bets in his mobile pool room.

SEDALIA, Mo., May 9.—(UP)—Anyone who ever had a traffic cop snarl at him, "Where's the fire?" will admire the poetic justice of this little true story. So many Sedalia (Mo.) residents telephoned police headquarters to ask "Where's the fire?" that a patrolman had to walk to the station to report it. The telephones at headquarters were jammed.

Yellow Fever Almost Beaten In New World

Doctors Near End of Battle Begun 40 Years Ago.

By THOMAS R. HENRY
For North American Newspaper Alliance
WASHINGTON, May 9.—Medicine has come to its last battlefield with the dread pestilence of yellow fever in the new world.

The victorious war which started 40 years ago with the discovery by a Cuban physician and an American army surgeon that the virus of this scourge was spread by a certain species of mosquito now is ending in a pitched battle in cities and villages of equatorial South America.

During the past year, it was reported to the Pan-American conference of national directors of health, meeting here, by Dr. Joao de Barros Barreto, former national director of Brazil, that more than 1,000,000 persons have been vaccinated in that country.

Success in Brazil.
Actually, said Dr. Barreto, the precautions against yellow fever have been so successful in Brazil that for a year not a single case has been reported of this malarial disease caused by the mosquito aedes aegypti, the insect which until a few years ago was supposed to be its only carrier.

It was in this mosquito, common in the tropical and south temperate zones of the world, that the disease originally was traced by

Drs. Carlos Finlay and Walter Reed in Cuba. It is common in the southern United States, a frequenter of towns and cities where it breeds in stagnant water and carries the infection rapidly from person to person.

From the first the campaign throughout the world, including the southern United States, has been directed successfully against this particular species of mosquito.

A few years ago cases were reported from the Brazilian jungles. Here the population was too scant to permit passage from person to person by means of the mosquitoes and the jungle area was not propitious for the breeding of this particular species.

New Type Virulent.
The new type of yellow fever was extremely virulent. It became known as the "newlywed disease" because it was especially apt to attack brides and bridegrooms who took up homesteads at the edge of the wilderness. The theory has been that there were animal carriers, perhaps some of the jungle monkeys, who served as a reservoir of the scourge although they themselves might have become immune to it.

The true source of this jungle yellow fever has not yet been traced, but an effective vaccine has been produced. Except for its means of spreading, it seems to be identical with the more virulent type of yellow fever which caused the great epidemics of the last century in New Orleans and Philadelphia.

Gunners Honor Old Horses and Rickety Trucks

Machines So Old 'You Had To Herd Them,' Driver Declares.

JASPER, Texas, May 9.—(P)—Six months ago several hundred creaking old horses were ordered out of service with the 12th field artillery at Fort Sam Houston. The outfit was changing over to trucks. Officers and men had grown attached to the mares. The day they started for retirement at Fort Sill, Okla., they were lined up for a last ceremony.

Soldiers stood at attention, the hard lines of their faces softened by genuine regret. The band played Auld Lang Syne.

The trucks which replaced the horses, however, were of 1917 vintage. Some had been used around the fort for hauling garbage and ice.

Rufie Tharp, one of the drivers, said: "You didn't drive the darned thing; you herded it. You couldn't hardly handle it, it was so old."

But the drivers somehow became fond of the over-sized vehicles, too. Finally they were replaced by brand-new six-wheel jobs.

The new trucks were delivered yesterday, and once again the soldiers put on a ceremony. Cannoneers uncoupled their guns, hitched them to the new haulers.

Jane and Freddie Decide To Go to Italy;
Jane Insists They Go Third-Class

By Robert E. Sherwood.

SYNOPSIS:
Jane Benson's dismal Yorkshire existence is suddenly ended when she becomes heir to a fortune of millions—she loses her fiancé, young Dr. Freddie Jarvis, when he realizes that he would be unhappy leading the gay, glittering life that Jane wants. He breaks the engagement, and Jane, accompanied by a fast parasitical set, goes off on a whirl through Europe. Jane and Freddie, once distant cousins who are now "chaperoning" her, each have a hand in the race for Jane's hand and money—for a cut. Meanwhile, the publicity gets Freddie a contract in a very social Swiss clinic. Alone, Jane berates him and loves him still. NOW GO ON WITH THE STORY.

FINAL INSTALLMENT.
"What about Italy?"
"I've always wanted to go there. But not to your sort of Italy—all cocktail bars and night clubs and dressing up for the Lido. If you go with me, you must go second class."

"Oh, no, Freddie!"
He angled quickly. "You must go first, I suppose."
"No—third. I won't let you spend more than a hundred pounds."

"Perhaps you're thinking that when you get me alone, you can do what you like. But this trip's got to be done my way, or not at all."

"When do we start?"
"Tomorrow—if we go at all."
"Good. I'm going to pack."
"Wait a minute," he said. And then he kissed her.

On the crowded third-class coach through Italy, the rampant odors matched the weltering confusion of people. Large, swarthy families piled over the long benches. A matronly Italian woman smiled across the car to Jane. "Vi-aggio-di nozze!" she asked, grinning broadly. "Vi-aggio-di nozze!" she repeated, and all the faces in the coach seemed to be looking at them, gayly grinning, too.

Jane was scraping together her meagre Italian, trying to understand the quarrel, eh? That is stand "Viaggio-di nozze"—"Honeymoon!" Yes—oun—sil! Viaggio de nozze!"

Then the celebration broke loose. From every corner in the car, happy faces surrounded them, offering them the richly-spiced food out of lunch baskets, and the heady red wine. Freddie was thoroughly embarrassed, and Jane was full of glee. When the conductor came through to collect their tickets, the others repeated the magic phrase, "Viaggio de nozze!" they shouted when he came to Jane and Freddie. And the tickets were half-price.

By the time they came to their hotel in Venice, Freddie's confusion had increased.

The reception clerk was exuberantly friendly. "Camera con duo letti," he smiled, offering them one room with two beds.

Freddie was grim. "No! Camera con—well—two rooms! Duo camera con un letto!"

"Con un letto?" The reception clerk was aghast. "Two rooms with one bed?"

"No, one, no!" Freddie shouted angrily. "Two rooms with two beds—one each!"

"Ah! Oh! Ecco, signore," Freddie, led by an uncomprehending bellboy and followed by Jane, who wanted very much to laugh, marched off without a word. The reception clerk turned to his assistant.

"Mah!" he said in profound disgust. "Inglesi!"

After dinner that night they sauntered toward the Grand canal, to find an idle gondolier. They came upon one, portly and with face full of mustache and good humor. Freddie offered him 50 francs, and he insisted upon 50. Jane joined in energetically, which made him sullen. Such a beautiful woman...

Jane suddenly smiled, saying softly, "Viaggio de nozze!"

The man broke into a broad smile. "Viaggio de nozze?" he shouted. "Perche why don't you tell me before? Please this way—you sit in gondola—thank you—thank you vera misha..." He mused happily. "Viaggio de nozze... viaggio de nozze..."

"Jane, it's a swindle!" Freddie said when they were seated in the gondola. "You must stop this—this 'viaggio de nozze' trick. Wherever you want to pay less—to porters, drivers, shopkeepers—even hairdressers—you say: 'Viaggio de nozze.'"

"But I'm only saving money, Freddie," she said meekly.

"But we're not honeymooners—we're cheating all these people." "Do you want me to say that we're brother and sister?"

"No. Tell 'em the truth—that we're traveling companions." "But they're not English!" she said, very seriously. "They wouldn't believe it." "Good Lord! Don't tell them anything!"

The gondolier smiled down through the back window. "You make the quarrel, eh? That is good because—after the quarrel—the kiss taste much better, eh?" His laugh rang across the water.

"Freddie," Jane said softly, "we're breaking his heart. Couldn't you pretend?"

"Pretend what?"

"Viaggio de nozze. Just this once. Couldn't you?"

"I can try."

She paused. "Aren't you sorry, darling," she said tenderly, "that you married such an ugly little wife?"

"But you're not. You're absolutely lovely."

"Am I, darling?" She nestled closer.

"Perfectly adorable."

"Will you always love me?"

"Always."

THE END.

Berlin's new Broadway show, "Louisiana Purchase," and a dramatization of "Johnny Appleseed," in which Kate Smith takes a dramatic role, will feature the "Kate Smith Hour" over WGST at 7 o'clock tonight when the Songbird's ninth radio anniversary is celebrated. The observance which was scheduled for an earlier date was postponed until now because of the illness of Kate's manager, Ted Collins.

In Ben Schoenfeld's "Johnny Appleseed," based on the great American legend of a man who devoted his life to beautifying the country by planting apple trees, Kate takes the role of narrator-commentator.

The program musically includes: "The Devil Dance," "It's a Lovely Day Tomorrow," "You Can't Brush Me Off," "You Can't Brush Me Off," "God Bless America."

CONCERT—A musical observance of approaching Mother's Day, and a medley of selections from the late George Gershwin's "Porgy and Bess," will highlight the regular broadcast of the Friday Concert program to be heard over WSB at 7 o'clock tonight.

Lovely Lucille Manners, soprano, and Ross Graham, baritone, will be featured in vocals assisted by the concert orchestra under the direction of Dr. Frank Black.

The program includes: "Anything Goes" by Porter (ensemble), "To My Mother" by MacGimsey (Lucille Manners), "A La Bien Aimee" by Schmitt (orchestra), "Rangers' Song" from "Rio Rita" by Tierney (Ross Graham), "On the Day" from "Madame Butterfly" by Puccini (Lucille Manners), "Procession of the Sardar Chiefs" by Ippolito-Javanov (orchestra), "Stairway to the Stars" by Matt Malneck (ensemble), "Dance of the Archers" from "Prince Igor" by Borodin (orchestra), "Love Nest" by Hirsch (Lucille Manners and Ross Graham), "The Toy Trumpet" by Scott (orchestra), "Men of Harlech" Welch air (choir), "You Are Masquerade" by Frank Black (Lucille Manners).

JOHNNY—As a feature of "Johnny Presents," to be heard over WGST at 8 o'clock tonight, Johnny Green will conduct his orchestra and Ray Bloch's Swing Fourteen in an arrangement of "It Wouldn't Be Love" from the "Gay New Orleans," revue at the New York World's Fair on the eve of the fair's opening.

The dramatic highlight of the show will be Max Marchin's "Perfect Crime" drama, "Step Down Donovan," in which Donovan and Inspector Bloss will again challenge listeners to detect the telltale clue that leads to the suspect's conviction.

The program includes: "Oh, What You Said," "You Darling," "For Corrente Dux Una Cora," "Three Little Words," "Pianissimo."

DRAMA—Les Tremayne will forego a honeymoon with his new bride, the former Eileen Palmer, to co-star with Barbara Luddy in the "First Nighter," presentation of a mystery, "The Rand Case," over WGST at 8:30 o'clock tonight.

In the play of Anthony Wayne, Miss Luddy and Tremayne are cast as a young couple who come to the aid of a friend accused of murder. Soon the well-meaning pair are in plenty of difficulties themselves.

Because a single private had measles the most rigorous quarantine was imposed on the United States army transport Grant when it touched at Guam. The reason was that the natives of Chamorro are hit hard by certain diseases the western world considers mild. Measles killed 152 in 1933 and an epidemic of whooping cough in 1937 took 149 lives.

On the other hand, white residents boil drinking water 20 minutes to ward off amoebic dysentery, while the natives drink natural water with impunity.

Your Own Horoscope for Today

By ALICE DENTON JENNINGS, Noted Atlanta Astrologist

What today means to you if you were born between:

March 12 and April 19 (ARIES)—Today is a day for new starts. Your energy is high and your plans will be more acceptable to the powers that be. Promote yourself to the utmost.

April 19 and May 20 (TAURUS)—Affairs started today are apt to stand the test of time. People of deep seriousness and work of a stable nature should be profitable. Only be careful that you do not go to excess in social matters.

May 21 and June 20 (GEMINI)—This should be an inspirational, or creative day when your ideas, artistically, socially and for matters of beauty can be put into practical form. Dealings with others should have pleasant results.

June 21 and July 22 (CANCER)—Any laxity in finances should be strongly curbed. You may have feelings of wastefulness or want to spend more than you can afford. Postpone dealings with professional people.

July 23 and Aug. 22 (LEO)—Previous to 2:31 p. m. new beginnings can work out favorably over the long period. That is, they will find slow but sure progress. After 2:31 p. m. friends, family and associates should be very helpful.

Aug. 23 and Sept. 22 (VIRGO)—You should be able to think clearly and calmly before 12:08 noon, which will enable you to give intelligent direction to your efforts. After 12:08 noon favor dealings with brothers, sisters, finances.

Sept. 23 and Oct. 22 (LIBRA)—The entire day favors dealings with influential people. Your judgment should be unusually sound.

Oct. 23 and Nov. 21 (SCORPIO)—If you want to start something for quick returns, postpone it, for you will probably meet with many hindrances.

Nov. 22 and Dec. 21 (SAGITTARIUS)—The hours previous to 11:42 a. m. do not favor interest involving property or mining. Affairs started may be delayed beyond a reasonable length of time. The remainder of the day may be beneficial.

Dec. 22 and Jan. 19 (CAPRICORN)—Advance matters relating to income, personal resources and friendships.

Jan. 20 and Feb. 18 (AQUARIUS)—The most favorable portion of the day is between 9:22 a. m. and 3:29 p. m. The remainder of the day avoid exposure and anxiety.

Feb. 19 and March 20 (PISCES)—Business correspondence, literary affairs, trips and interviews are favored until 6:37 p. m. Routine affairs should be followed after that hour.

TAKING THE CURE.

NEW YORK, May 9.—(UP)—Three homeless men explained to New York Magistrate George H. Folwell that they had been on a long drinking spree, wanted to quit but were afraid they couldn't if they were left at large. On their estimates of how long it would take to get over the habit, the magistrate jailed two for 30 days and the third for 10 days.

Dust Storms In Alaska Peril Farm Fertility

Matanuska Settlers Removed Windbreaks, Official Says.

SEATTLE, May 9.—(AP)—W. A. Rockie, regional soil conservation research director, said yesterday the federally sponsored farm colony in Alaska's Matanuska Valley might become another "dust bowl" unless farmers took immediate steps to preserve the rich but shallow soil.

The early settlers of Matanuska Valley—farmers from submarginal Michigan, Minnesota and Wisconsin farms—erred in removing valuable windbreaks and these must be replaced "to prevent the soil from blowing away," Rockie said.

In an interview he said studies disclosed that if settlers rotated their crops properly "and treat the soil right so it won't blow away" the farming project would be successful.

"The soil at Matanuska is rich but shallow. We already have sent trees, shrubs, legumes and grasses to the area in efforts to save the soil," he added.

"The trees can be planted for windbreaks and the grasses should hold the soil during the winter months when the winds blow hardest."

"Remember this, I believe farming in Matanuska can be conducted just as well as in other similar areas—Norway, Sweden or Denmark."

Rockie left for Palmer, Alaska, "capital" of the colony.

IN HOT SPOT—The war in Europe has intensified considerably the importance of relations between Farouk, youthful King of Egypt, and his ally, Great Britain.

Egypt's Young King on Spot Because of War

Importance of Farouk's Pledges to Britain Increased.

CAIRO, May 9.—(AP)—War put plump, willful, 20-year-old Farouk 1 of Egypt on the spot today as King of a key country should conflict break out of bounds south-eastward.

Speculation that the fighting might burst into Rumania, or Russia's Baku oil fields, or Iraq, or Iran, and the tramp of Allied boots from Cairo to Damascus emphasized the importance of Farouk's commitments to Egypt's paternal guardian and ally, Great Britain.

Egypt Holds Suez.

Egypt, under the determined if closely matched rule of Farouk, holds the Suez, lifeline between Britain and the East.

It also furnishes a convenient and element jumping-off place for troops and planes into south-eastern Europe.

Under the treaty of 1936, by which Great Britain granted Egypt at least nominal sovereignty and independence, Farouk was bound to supply in case of war or menace of war "all facilities and assistance in his power, including use of ports, airdromes and means of communication."

Less of a problem from the beginning of his reign than Britain expected of so young and strong-willed a king, Farouk severed diplomatic relations with Germany the day after Britain declared war.

Friend of British.

Two weeks later the government-dominated senate voted a state of siege and parliament quickly ratified emergency powers to implement Farouk's promises to help Britain.

Since then, he has given evidence that he is bound by conviction as well as by treaty to the Allied cause.

His premier, Ali Maher Pash, on November 18 reiterated promises of "all possible" help to the Allies.

His police have raided Port Said, Cairo, Alexandria and other centers to pick up Germans.

On various occasions, in the British-like uniform of his little British-trained army of 20,000 men, he has joined heads of the British forces in Egypt in watching their military demonstrations.

Defenses Strengthened.

Under his rule—with British supervision and guidance—Egypt's defenses have been strengthened.

In spite of his youth, Farouk has shown himself a smooth politician, able to get along with his own people and with the British. Educated in England, he was in that country studying when his father, King Fuad, died on April 28, 1936. Farouk hurried home to Cairo and ruled under a regency until he reached the age of 18. He was invested July, 1937.

and one of the first things done by his cabinet then was the authorization of big increases in the estimates for the army and defenses of Egypt's frontiers.

Only a few months after his investiture Farouk indicated he had a mind of his own and intended to use it. He named Ali Maher Pasha, former cabinet head and one of the original members of the WAFD (Egyptian Nationalist party) as his political advisor and head of his private cabinet. The premier, Nahas Pasha, objected.

The upshot was dismissal of Nahas and formation of a new cabinet under Mohamed Mahmoud.

The row this stirred in parliament finally resulted in Farouk dissolving the parliament to save his hand-picked government February 2, 1938. In the elections called two months later, Mahmoud's government won a smashing victory.

Signs Are Bad For Dutch, Say Capitol Scribes

Envoy's Visits to Hull Remind of Czechs, Poles, Finns, Danes.

WASHINGTON, May 9.—(AP)—Dr. A. Loudon, the Netherlands minister, has been a frequent visitor at the State Department lately, and reporters there are wondering if that is an ominous sign for Holland.

They remember March, 1938, when the Austrian minister, Edgar L. G. Prochnik, was seeing Secretary Hull or Undersecretary Sumner Welles almost every day. Suddenly his country disappeared.

Now he is a professor at Georgetown University here.

In September of that year Czech Minister Vladimir Hurban began going often to the State Department. When the month went out the Sudetenland went with it.

Early in 1939 Dr. Fernando de Los Rios, the Spanish ambassador, made almost daily visits to the State Department. But in February his government collapsed and General Franco took over. Now the ambassador is a professor in New York.

Czech Minister Hurban again began visiting the department in March. Then of a sudden all that was left of his country disappeared. Hurban continued as minister without a country.

That same month Faik Konitz, minister of Albania, was seen often at the State Department. After some days Mussolini moved into Albania and Konitz is now writing history.

Hjalmar Procope, minister of Finland, became a daily visitor in November. After a few weeks his country was invaded by the Soviets and eventually defeated.

Last month Wilhelm de Morgenstierne, minister of Norway, became an almost daily caller. After about a week, Germany invaded his country.

At about the same time Henrik de Kauffman, minister of Denmark, began seeing officials frequently. After some days of calls, Germany marched into Denmark and took it over.
